ECONOMY, RELIABILITY, SIMPLICITY.

You can rely on "INVINCIBLE" OIL ENGINES for ECONOMY, RELIABILITY, and SIMPLICITY.

They are economical not only in price, but in cost of running. This quality is ensured by their up-to-date design. They combine the very latest features of the HIGHEST SKILL in Oil Engine Construction.

THEIR SIMPLICITY
enables anybody to understand and operate them; there is nothing of the "box of tricks" about them, and consequently the risk of accident is reduced to a minimum.

They are RELIABLE and DURABLE. There are plenty of "INVINCIBLES" that have now been in daily use for several years and that have never given any trouble. This tried and tested reliability ensures you PERMANENT SATISFACTION.

We have a very big stock of engines on hand, and can thus deliver you the Engine you want promptly. Our prices, too, are very moderate, and the terms we give are exceedingly liberal. Our aim is to supply your needs and give you permanent satisfaction, and to do so at a price that can defy competition.

OUR WORKS are here; the largest of their kind in Australia. Our highly-trained staff is at your disposal, and an interview with us will convince you that we can and will do all we say.

Get our illustrated catalogues and our quotations showing how you can make a BIG SAVING by purchasing from us.

EVERY "INVINCIBLE" ENGINE IS GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

INVINCIBLE MOTOR CONSTRUCTION COMPANY, LIMITED,
City Offices and Showrooms, 35 PITT-STREET, Sydney.

A DAY or two ago, we shipped a 30ft x 10ft Knockabout Launch to the Solomon Islands, fitted with one of our Double Cylinder, 8-h.p. UNION Marine Engines.

The Owners were emphatic in their demands that the engine should operate on kerosene, and so we had our Foreman, Mr. Jackson, put his thinking cap on, with the result that the engine, after running for about 10 minutes on benzine, was switched over on to the heavier fuel—kerosene—and our expectations were more than realised.

The Engine ran just as quietly on the Kerosene as when taking Benzine, and the revolutions were, if anything, a shade higher when using the former oil.

If you are interested in Kerosene for your engine, call round and have a talk with Mr. Jackson, you'll find it pay you.

This particular vaporiser is quite his "Own Baby." We can assure you it's a good one.

THE STANDARD ENGINE.
Usually operating on benzine, is supplied in both stationary and marine patterns, and there are hundreds of these Engines at work in the Commonwealth, both on land and sea. At sea, where life and property are at stake, nearly all the best boats are fitted with "Standard" Engines—in fact, timid persons might naturally be excused if they thought twice before going out to sea in a boat which was not equipped with a "Standard" Engine. The "Standard" Engines are largely used by our various Governments, public bodies, and companies throughout Australia and the Pacific Islands. Fishermen, whose calling is at times necessarily precarious and uncertain, reduce their risks and minimise their discomfort very considerably by installing "Standard" Engines.
We are Experts in the REPAIRING of Oil Engines, and also keep a large stock of Edison Batteries, Magneton, Spark Coils, and other Oil Engine Sundries.

WHO IS HE?

Thousands have searched for him. He has been seen in the garb of a convict. He is wanted in every community. Millions have been deceived by him. He has been entertained by Royalty. He has baffled the police. He doesn't remain in one place long. His methods are of a secret nature. He has caused many arguments. Many have copied him, but they have all been caught. He has many admirers. He lives the best he can. He moves in the best society. He has never been known to work. He requires close watching. He is sure to get your money. His ideas are his own.

The first letter received giving the correct name of the person described above will receive the first three guineas which this gentleman takes from the public. He is sure to get yours. This is your only opportunity of getting some of his. Address your letter, "Deceiver," Stage Door, Criterion.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

Power realised how swiftly and certainly she had made smooth the way. He was conscious only of a vast relief that the subject of the missing correspondence was dropped; only in later hours of quiet reflection did he grasp the reason—that she was bitterly aware of the truth, and the whole truth. He began at once to describe developments on the ranche, and was too wishful to hide his own confusion behind the smoke of a cigar to notice how a white-gloved hand clenched the arm of a chair when he spoke of his mother and the place she filled in public esteem. Unconsciously, he was telling Nancy just what she wanted to know. He was not married. There was no other woman. She uttered no sound, but her lower lip bore a series of white marks for a little while.

"You see," he explained glibly, "I acquired the habit of letting these frequent refered the habit of letting other people work when I was laid by for repairs. Please excuse these frequent references to a broken limb, which seems to figure in my talk as King Charles's head in Mr. Dick's disjointed remarks. Anyhow, I had plenty of time for reading, as the mine paid from the very beginning, and a rock spring which nearly scared Mac stiff came in handy to irrigate the upper part of the ranche—that long slope just below the Gulch, you remember."

"Yes, I remember," she said.

"Well, what between fruit-growing and horse-breeding I hardly ever have time to go near Bison. My mother drives in every day over the new trail—"

"What new trail?"

"We had to cut a road across the divide. The Gulch is blocked by rails."

"Why?"

"That is where the mine is, you know."

"I don't know. Whereabouts exactly is the mine?"

"It starts in the west side of the canyon, about a hundred yards from the ranche end."

"Near a narrow left, topped by a sloping ledge?"

"Yes. How well you recollect every yard of the ground."

"How did you come to locate the lost seam there?"

"By sheer chance. Some pieces of the granite wall fell away, and any miner who had been a week at his trade would have recognised the vein then."

"When did they fall away—the bits of rock, I mean?"

"It must have been about the time you—you were married, Mrs. Marten."

She tapped a satin-shod foot emphatically on the boarded floor.

"Why are you calling me Mrs. Marten?" she demanded.

"Well—"

"Don't do it again. I am 'Nancy' to you, Derry. I refuse to part with the privileges of friendship in that casual way. But I want to understand things more closely. What caused the stones to fall?"

"I don't mind telling you," he said, "though a good many people have asked me the history of El Preco, and I have refused hitherto to gratify their curiosity—"

"El Preco?—doesn't that mean 'the price?'"

"Yes."

"What an extraordinary name. The price of what?"

"Of my broken leg. There, you see. King Charles's head once more."

She paused, ever so briefly, before resuming her questioning.

"Now, why did the stones fall?"

"Because an excited cowboy fired his revolver in the air, and the bullets struck a section of rock which required some such shock to dislodge it."

"But how did that affect you?"

"I happened to be lying on the very ledge you spoke of, and—oh, dash it all. I secured my limp then and there."

"Did the fall disturb a rattlesnake?"

"It may have disturbed a dozen rattlesnakes for all that I can tell. But what an extraordinary thing to say. Did you know that a rattler lived in that cleft?"

"No. I was just thinking of the Gulch and its inhabitants. Perhaps my wits were wandering . . . . Come, Derry. Our half-hour is now gone, but we can talk on the way. Send a boy for my carriage. Do you want your hat and coat?"

She rose suddenly, and drew a light wrap of silvery tissue around her shoulders. Power stood up, and faced her. He had never seen her looking so ethereally beautiful, not even on the night, now so long ago, when he parted from her before taking that disastrous journey to Sacramento.

"Do you really think I ought to come with you to Mrs. Van Ralten's?" he said.

"Of course. Why not? You are invited."

"But—"

"You are my big brother from Bison, Derry, and I'm not going to forego the pleasure of your company if all Newport lined the road and bawled, 'Send him away.' But do hurry. Mary Van Ralten will forgive everything except unpunctuality."

The nebulous protest on Power's lips faded into silence.

"On such a night I can dispense with hat and overcoat," he said. "Your carriage is a closed landau, I suppose."

"Yes. After the play you can escort me to the 'Breakers'—that is the name of the house we have rented—and Sam, our coachman, will take you home . . . Oh, there he is, waiting . . . . Mrs. Van Ralten's, Sam.

"Yes, Ma'am," said the negro, who had brought a carriage and pair to the doorway when he caught sight of his mistress. A negro footman opened the door, and Nancy entered, the brilliant moonlight gleaming for an instant on the sheen of a white silk stocking. Power seated himself by her side, and the horses dashed off. He felt the soft folds of her dress touching him. When she turned slightly to say something about the marvellous nights which tempered the heat-wave at Newport her right shoulder and elbow pressed him closely. Some subtle fragrance came from her that stirred him almost to a frenzy of longing, yet he dared not flinch away into a corner of the carriage. Perforce, he schooled his voice to utter the platitudes of the moment. Yes, he had been in Newport three whole days, and had not the remotest notion that she was there. He had come to buy horses, and might remain another week. Well, he would remain, now that they had met, for he was sure he would find a good deal to tell her of Bison, and its folk once he had got over the novelty and unexpectedness of this meeting.

And all the time his heart was pounding madly, throbbing so furiously that he feared lest she should become aware of its lack of restraint, and he stepped forward in a make-believe glance at some building they were passing.

"That is the Casino," she said misinterpreting his action, or pretending to—Heaven alone knows the extent of a woman's divination where a man is concerned—"We play tennis there, in the evenings when it's so hot during the day. Are you a tennis-player, Derry? . . . Oh, I'm sorry. I quite forgot."

"I have been arousing your sympathy by false pretence," he said, and the laughter in his voice demanded a real effort. "I can walk and ride and jump and dance as well as ever, and I have taught three of the ranche men to play tennis quite creditably. So if the Newport stores run to flannels and rubber shoes—"

"Derry," she cooed, "You are not such a fraudulent person as you imagine. If you knew how much you have told me to-night about yourself you would be awfully surprised, as you say in London. But here we are at Mrs. Van Ralten's. Now, be nice to everybody, for I mean you to have a real good time in Newport. People here can be very pleasant acquaintances if you take them the right way."

CHAPTER VII.

THE FORTY STEPS.

During the next few days Power passed imperceptibly through many phases of thought and emotion. When his judgment regained its natural equipoise after the first bitter-sweet intoxication of finding his old sweetheart desirous as ever of his companionship, he appeared to subside into a state of placid acceptance of such restricted blessings as the gods could offer. Nancy made good her promise, and Newport society threw wide its doors to the good-looking and well-mannered visitor. No doubts were raised concerning his financial or social status. A word from the horse-fancying judge made it clear that this Englishman domiciled in the West could not be a poor man, seeing that he had already bought at stiff prices a magnificent hunter and the best-matched pair of hackneys in the State; and was in treaty for another round dozen of valuable animals; while Mrs. Hugh Marten's manifest approval was sufficient to introduce any similarly favoured young man to the most exclusive circle in the island.

Seeing that certain things were essential, Power spent money freely, supplying himself with a dogcart, a groom, a valet, and the rest of the equipment which any man needed who would mix in that fashionable crowd without attracting attention by lack of it. Each morning he and Nancy, sometimes unaccompanied, but more often mingling with a lively party, rode about the island, following rough tracks which are smooth roads nowadays, and visiting every favourite stretch of cliff and open country time and again. When the weather moderated its torrid rigour, and sports became possible in the grounds of the Casino, or within the Polo Club's enclosure, he bore his full share. In all that pertained to horsemanship he was the equal to any man in Newport, and Nancy had not lost that perfect confidence in the saddle which life on a ranche demandr. Someone gave prizes for a drag hunt, a hunting crop for the first gentleman, and a silver cup for the first lady in at the finish of a 10-miles' trail, and the two came in side by side, a furlong ahead of their closest follower. Luncheons, yachting parties, dinners, musicales, and dances crowded each day and often went far into the night. The heat wave had put forward the almanack, and the Newport season was in full swing nearly a month in advance of its usual date.

Power retained his room at the Ocean House, but saw little of other inmates of the hotel unless they happened to mix in the same spot. His friends of the dinner-table, except Dacre, had gone for, as both Englishmen were made honorary members of the Casino Club, they kept up an acquaintance which had begun so pleasantly.

The close intimacy between Mrs. Marten and the stranger from Colorado attracted slight comment. No breath of scandal fluttered the dovecots of Newport. The behaviour of the pair was exemplary, and, beyond the accepted fact that if any hostess desired the presence of one she must invite the other, gossip about them was noticeable by its absence. Their mutual use of Christian names from the outset established a tacit cousinship, and the only growl uttered behind their backs was an occasional complaint from some anxious mother who found her attractive daughters completely eclipsed, in the eyes of at least one eligible young man, by the millionaire's wife.

Once, and once only, before the crash came, did Nancy allude to the purloined letters. She and Power were riding along the Cliff Walk before breakfast, when she broached the subject quite unexpectedly.

"Derry, I want to ask you something," she said seriously. "Did my father and you ever quarrel without my knowledge—before I left Bison, I mean?"

"No," he said.

"Don't be stupid! I hate answers in monosyllables. When you say 'No' like that one suspects that it may really be a kind of 'Yes.'"

"Then let me make it the most definite sort of negative. Remember, you fixed a period. The last time I spoke to Mr. Willard was before I went to Sacramento—when I had supper at the ranche."

THE TWO COMMANDERS.

PHILLIP AND PATEY.

(BY F. G. ADRIAN.)

On October 4, 1913, the first Australian fleet entered Sydney Harbour, in command of Rear-Admiral Sir George Patey. From the flagship Australia the commander of the fleet witnessed a sight calculated to quicken the blood and rouse the patriotism not only of Australians but of all true sons of the Empire. Thousands of spectators assembled at every point of vantage to welcome our first Australian fleet, and its officers. From the edge of South Head "right along the cliffs away into the haze at Bondi," to quote the "Herald's" special commissioner, looking from sea to shore, "the whole skyline was black with them. One followed the line of them without a break past the lighthouse, past the signal station, down the rim of the Gap, and then as the flagship turned into and proceeded up the harbour, "came the masses of people, on the inner slopes of South Head, masses at Bradley's Head, masses at Rose Bay. . . . But it was not until the first glimpse was caught of the Domain and of the slopes of Government House that the full force of the spectators was realised," and then "the arriving Australian fleet saluted with 17 guns the Admiral commanding-in-chief, and the Cambrian returned the salute with 13 guns for a rear-admiral."

And thus, the shores lined with masses of people, the water crowded with every description of craft, amidst the roar of cannon and the cheers of the populace, the commander of the first Australian fleet steamed into and up Sydney Harbour, the harbour discovered by an officer of the British navy, the commander of the first fleet, one hundred and twenty-five years ago.

With the circumstances surrounding the arrival of Rear-Admiral Patey, the masses of people, the illuminations, the festivities with all the attendant pomp and ceremony still freshly in our memory, it is pleasant to allow our fancy to stray back to Arthur Phillip, the commander of the first fleet, and picture in imagination his entrance to Port Jackson a century and a quarter ago.

It was a glorious summer day in January, 1788. Along the coast early in the afternoon three ship's boats were seen, passing from south to north, past Bondi, past the cliffs at South Head, and so on towards the entrance to Port Jackson. They were probably the first ship's boats that had ever floated on these waters. The cliffs on this occasion were not lined with masses of people, but, here and there along the cliffs, in mute wonder, a few aboriginals peered out from among the thick coastal scrub and brush at the strange boats below. The sea was tranquil, and but for the occasional note of a wild bird, and the break of the waves upon the rocks, the silence was unbroken.

The boats were in charge of Captain Phillip, the commander of the first fleet, and the first Governor of New South Wales. He was accompanied by Captain Hunter and several officers. A few days before the ships of the fleet had arrived at Botany Bay, but Phillip was not satisfied with that port, and judged it advisable to examine the coast further north, and in the course of that examination he came to the headland and the entrance named by Cook, Port Jackson. Of Port Jackson itself nothing more was known than its name, and Phillip was probably the first white man and certainly the first Englishman to enter Sydney Heads. As the boats approached the entrance the fact became evident to Phillip that he was not entering an insignificant bay, and as the boats proceeded further the magnificence of his discovery revealed itself to the no doubt astonished commander. What a revelation it was that summer afternoon to fire the imagination, and to inspire a dream of what might be in store for this great harbour in the future. Here were deep bays, picturesque hills, and emerald islands. Every mile explored revealed greater and still greater beauty. Here in Sydney Harbour Phillip had indeed discovered a casket of precious jewels for the Empire. It was not in stately battleships, amidst roar of cannon and crowds of spectators, that the commander of the first fleet entered our harbour. In the ordinary ship's boats he entered its lonely waters, and the prevailing silence in contrast to the beauty and grandeur of the surroundings, must have been almost oppressive. And yet, of the two events—the simple entry of the first fleet commander in 1788 and the ceremonious entry of the commander in 1913—events both of them pregnant with the future of Australia, the first to a greater extent excites our imagination and holds our attention.

And the commander slowly proceeding up the harbour with his three small boats was gifted with prophetic vision. His faith in the future greatness of Australia was a faith that pervaded his whole being, and the future of the noble harbour he had discovered was to him even in that day of small beginnings a certainty and a reality. As was his custom, he expended but few words in his despatches describing the harbour, but the few words he did use in announcing his discovery seem strangely prophetic in relation to recent events. "We got into Port Jackson early in the afternoon, and had the satisfaction of finding the finest harbour in the world, in which a thousand sail of the line may ride in the most perfect safety."

In the possession of a fleet all our own, in the knowledge that we have the biggest warship that has ever entered Sydney Harbour, our thoughts instinctively turn to the intrepid commander of the first fleet, the little captain and his three small boats entering our lovely harbour over a hundred years ago. He saw with the eyes of faith, much of the progress which we have so brilliantly realised during the past few weeks. Of what we possess to-day more, perhaps, is due to Phillip than to any one person concerned in our history. To his courage, to his patience, and, above all, to his intense faith in our country, is due the Australia of to-day, both the Commonwealth and the warship. Here a few days later he unfurled the British flag, and took practical possession of our splendid heritage.

> On this bold hill, against a broad blue stream,
> Stood Arthur Phillip in a day of dream,
> What time the mists of morning westward rolled,
> And heaven flowered on a bay of gold.
> Here, in the hour that shines and sounds afar,
> Flamed first Old England's banner like a star;
> Here, in a time august with prayer and praise,
> Was born the nation of these splendid days.
> And here this land's majestic yesterday
> Of immemorial silence died away.

FACE COVERED WITH DRY RASH.

Barker-street, Lower Randwick, N.S.W.—"My eldest girl had a most dreadful face: it was covered with a dry rash at first, and then it came out in pimples; and when she got warm she would almost tear the face off her.

"I tried a few different lotions and ointments, but it seemed to do her no good; it would go away for a time, but only to come back again. I was distracted, I did not know what to do, when one day my sister-in-law advised me to get a cake of Cuticura Soap, which I did. You would be surprised, it took all heat out of it, but the scales were still there, so I sent for a sample tin of Cuticura Ointment, and would you believe it, it has quite left her, and she has had no return of it; and not a mark of any kind left." (Signed) Mrs. Catley, April, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

ITALY IN TRIPOLI.

While the Turkish-Italian war dragged on its weary length in Tripoli there were various books by various war correspondents, which purported to give its history and progress with more or less impartiality. Now the war is over, and, along with these books, it is almost forgotten. It has remained for Mr. W. K. M'Clure to give us a comprehensive survey of its origin, cause, and consequences in "Italy in North Africa." Now that the dust of conflict has died away it is easier to see the matters in a better perspective, and Mr. M'Clure's conclusions run counter to popular opinion in many respects. Unfortunately, like every other writer on this war, he is a partisan. He does his utmost to take an unbiassed view, but he accompanied the Italian forces, and it is easy to see that his association with them has coloured his sympathies.

This is very noticeable in his account of the events leading up to the war. He has nothing to say of the treaties broken, the pledges disregarded, the assurances of friendship belied by deeds. "It is frankly admitted in Italy, and the fact should be readily appreciated by the rest of Europe, that the Italian case does not rest upon any flagrant casus belli, but upon broader ground, upon a general attitude on the part of Turkey, and upon the necessity of ensuring that the political equilibrium of the Mediterranean should not be altered to Italy's disadvantage. The question was practically reduced to one of national status. For Italy the occupation of Tripolitania was an historical necessity." This may be so, but it is an explanation rather than an excuse. Turkey might and did put forward exactly the same arguments to justify her resistance to the Italian penetration of Tripoli. Aggression in Africa may have been necessary to the Imperial aspirations of Italy, but it was rather unfortunate for Turkey that she should have been the victim.

Be that as it may, Mr. M'Clure points out that Italian ambitions in North Africa date back for three-quarters of a century, and have been encouraged by the other Powers. The British occupation of Egypt and the French occupation of Algeria awoke her to the fact that the North African littoral was being parcelled out without much regard to her interests. She fixed her eyes upon Tunis; but the possession of Sicily and Tunis by the same Power would have severed too abruptly and completely the eastern and western halves of the Mediterranean. So England supported the French occupation of Tunis, and, to make up for this, "the inherent right of Italy to the reversion of Tripoli has long been recognised by both Powers." Indeed, the author suggests that had not Italy stepped in she might have been forestalled by Germany. He gives, for what they are worth, two stories current in diplomatic circles. According to the one, Germany brought forward the Tripoli question during the Moroccan negotiations, and made the suggestion that in return for her acquiescence in a French protectorate in Morocco, she should be allowed a free hand in Tripolitania and Cyrenaica. France, however, in view of her engagements with Italy, and in view also of the alteration of the balance of power in the Mediterranean which would follow such an arrangement, declined to consider the suggestion, and allowed Italy to get wind of the matter. The second story is that Germany for some years had pursued a regular policy of "commercial annexation" and pacific penetration in Tripoli, and in the summer of 1911 was conducting negotiations in Constantinople in order to secure important economic privileges in Turkish Africa. Italy had seen how the acquisition of commercial interests led to political claims, and the declaration of war was her counter move. Whatever be the truth of these stories, Mr. M'Clure declares that they were widely believed in Italy, and undoubtedly influenced Italian public opinion.

The author visited Tripoli shortly after its occupation, and his accounts of the military operations are interesting and easy to follow. We all remember how Captain Cagni landed in the town after a very half-hearted resistance from the Turks, and how adversely he has been criticised for not pushing home his advantages at once. Mr. M'Clure points out that, with the forces at his disposal, it was quite impossible for him to do more than he did. During the week that elapsed between the landing and the arrival of the sailors his position was very critical. He worked his men to their last breath, in the endeavour to make their numbers appear greater than the reality. "The sailors, who were marched through the streets to impress the native population, were used like the members of a stage army, passing the same point two or three times, and each time posing as fresh troops; while the patrols in the town and in the oasis made it their aim to show themselves in as many places as possible, and as often as possible. Each man had to do the work of three, and to look as though he were six." So well did they succeed that they deceived not only the enemy but the critics who have blamed Captain Cagni for his inactivity!

Mr. M'Clure also defends the Italian soldier. He repudiates the charges of barbarity and inhumanity which were made so freely during the war. He admits that there were reprisals, due to the atrocious mutilations practised by some of the Turks. Like the Black Tyrone in Kipling's story, when "they had seen their dead" they saw red, and on one or two occasions their officers could not control them. The author, moreover, utterly denies the alleged cowardice of the Italian soldiers. They showed discipline and dash, he says, and they were admirably handled. Cheerfulness and gallantry were their great characteristics, and resignation in the face of the most unpleasant predicaments. If he has a fault to find it is in the age of the officers. There were too many subalterns of 35, too many company commanders "with middle-aged figures and whitening hairs, men who had lost the necessary spring and vigour." The Italian military system does not make for youthful officers; men do not taste real responsibility till they have passed their prime, and so are less fitted to exercise it. A feature of the campaign was the excellence of the commissariat organisation, and this was the more creditable when we remember the difficulties that a "desert war" presents. Another notable feature was the successful employment of aeroplanes. Their value was proved to lie not in attack—for the attempts at bomb-dropping did not produce much result—but in reconnaissance. The ascents were regular and frequent, the mishaps few, and the reports, maps, and photographs that the airmen brought in showed beyond any dispute the advantages of such an "intelligence department." This campaign has made it "abundantly clear that no nation can afford to go to war with a marked inferiority in aerial strength."

And what is to be the future of these new colonies? At first sight they seem hardly worth the trouble of winning. Once, in Roman days, they were the granaries of Italy; to-day they are arid and sterile. Have the climate and general conditions so changed in 15 centuries that what was once a garden is now an irreclaimable desert? Mr. McClure thinks that much may be done by irrigation and intelligent cultivation, and much by the tapping of subterranean waters. But before engineering and agricultural chemistry bear fruit, it will be necessary to win the confidence of the native population—no easy task, according to all accounts. "The problems, economic and political," concludes the author, "which confront the Italian authorities will demand years of patient effort before they are solved. But Italy is not likely to be daunted by slow progress and periodic setbacks. The nation will give of its best to assure the progress of the new enterprise, and it may be permitted to one who has had much opportunity of observing and admiring the national growth to express a firm confidence in the result." A PERSIAN POETESS.

"The Divan of Zeb-un-Nissa," by Magan Lal and J. D. Westbrook, is an account of this Royal poet's life, with selections from her verses. Princess Zeb-un-Nissa was the eldest daughter of the Mogul Emperor Aurungtebe, and was born in 1639. From her childhood upwards she showed astonishing powers of mind. At seven years of age she was a Hafiz—that is to say, she knew by heart the whole of the Koran—and to celebrate the event we are told that her father gave a feast at which the army fared sumptuously, 30,000 gold mohurs were given to the poor, and the public offices were closed for two days. Next she mastered Arabic and the sciences of mathematics and astronomy, and acquired some reputation as a writer of verse. Various young men sought her hand in marriage, but Zeb-un-Nissa spurned their suit, and preferred to devote herself to learning. She spent four lakhs a year in encouraging men of letters, in providing for widows and orphans, and in sending pilgrims to Mecca. She collected a fine library, and her fame was great in the land. However, she was not immune from the softer emotions. Akhil Khan, son of Aurungzebe's Vizier became her lover, and one day the Emperor came upon him unexpectedly. Akhil hid himself in a deg or large cooking-pot. The Emperor asked: "What is in the deg?" and was told, "Only water, to be heated." "Put it on the fire, then," he ordered, and it was done. Zeb-un-Nissa thought more of her reputation than of her lover. Coming near the deg she whispered, "Keep silence if you are my true lover, for the sake of my honour," and the hapless Akhil obeyed at the cost of his life. The Princess was imprisoned in a fortress, where many years after, in 1689, she died.

The translations of her verse, which the authors give, show it to possess the usual characteristics of Sufic poetry. There is the same use of allegory and the same symbolism. The principal theme is the worship of God under the name of the Beautiful Beloved, Who is adorable but tyrannical, Who reduces the lover to abject despair, but at last bestows on him a gleam of hope when he is on the point of death. According to Western notions it is frigid and jejune, and it has none of the adventitious graces with which Fitzgerald clothed the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. However, occasionally when Zeb-un-Nissa wrote without a philosophical purpose she could compose dainty trifles, like the following:—

> I will not lift my veil—
> For, if I did, who knows?
> The bulbul might forget the rose,
> The Brahman worshipper,
> Adoring Lakshmi's grace,
> Might turn, forsaking her,
> To see my face;
> My beauty might prevail.
> Think how within the flower,
> Hidden as in a bower,
> Her fragrant soul must be,
> And none can look on it;
> So me the world can see,
> Only within the verses I have writ—
> I will not lift the veil.

SOCIALISM.

"Socialism and Democracy in Europe" is an interesting book by S. P. Orth. The author begins by analysing the reasons why socialism has come to be such a force in the modern world, and gives a brief account of its pioneers. He then proceeds to examine its position in various countries of Europe. One could wish that his inquiry had extended to Australia, for here socialism has had a chance of giving concrete expression to many of its ideals, and can be judged as a practical principle of government rather than as a somewhat vague and academic doctrine.

Mr. Orth, though a socialist himself, draws attention to certain inconsistencies in the methods of Continental socialism which are not calculated to assist their cause. These were well illustrated recently in the case of M. Briand. He was the first socialist Prime Minister in European history, and though his former comrades disowned him, he continued faithful to his socialistic allegiance. It fell to him to deal with the big railway strike in 1910, and it was entirely due to his firmness that France escaped utter chaos. He was attacked in the Chamber, and pointed out in defence of his actions that, according to socialism, the State is paramount, and that all he had done was to assert the supremacy of the State. However, his former friends voted with the Conservatives to secure his overthrow. "Here," says Mr. Orth, "Briand was the socialist, and the socialist was the individualist; the one recognised the paramount interests of society; the other saw only the interests of the individual worker. Put to this test, French socialism failed as signally in theory as the violence, sabotage, and insubordination of the General Confederation of Labour failed in practice." We have analogies to the case of M. Briand nearer home.

Another interesting question discussed by Mr. Orth is how far the spread of socialism will prevent war. At present world-wide fraternity is an essential principle of the movement, and its leaders claim that they can, if they wish, make any war impossible. Whether they will so wish remains to be seen. The German socialists have stated their position clearly enough; they will support a war of defence, but not of offence. But that after all does not carry the matter much further, for it is not always easy to say within which class a war falls. An offensive war may be undertaken from genuinely noble motives; a war of defence may be the result of a refusal to entertain legitimate demands. In the end it comes down to a question of personal feeling.

In conclusion Mr. Orth considers that socialism is entering upon a new phase. He declares that the era of "revolution" and violence, both in speech and action, is passing away. Many of the most prominent members of the movement now deplore the constant appeal to the weapons of industrial war, and wonder if social co-operation will not produce better results. "As the democratic consciousness spreads there may be such a coalescing of interests that violence will cease." Which is very comforting intelligence if a trifle optimistic. (William and Norgate.)

ANCIENT GREECE.

There are scores of excellent Greek histories in the market to-day, and scores of books which deal with other aspects of Greek life. Yet Mr. H. B. Cotterill's "Ancient Greece" escapes the charge of merely covering ground which has been adequately covered before. Mr. Cotterill surveys the whole field of Greek activity, from the earliest times down to the age of Alexander the Great. He discusses not only its internal history, but social relations, its art, its literature, and its philosophy as well, and all in the light of the very latest research. It is a big task that he sets himself; and when we find that he allows less than five hundred pages for the whole we can hardly expect to find as much detail as the ordinary history supplies.

However, the author appears to have given us a very comprehensive if general account of his subject. What is more, he has made it genuinely interesting. Too often histories are dry-bones which appeal only to the student, but Mr. Cotterill evidently holds that entertainment and instruction need not be mutually exclusive. He is particularly happy when he is discussing the dim far-off days when Troy flourished, long before we have any literary records. What we know about this period and others, even earlier, is gained from the "remains" which archeologists have found in their excavations at Crete, Mycenae, and Asia Minor. Mr. Cotterill shares with us both these discoveries and their speculations, and a feature of his book is the reproductions of ancient pottery, coins, mural paintings, which have enabled the savant to bridge the gap of centuries. (Harrap and Co.)

A NOVELIST ON THE LAND.

Mr. Charles Garvice is widely known as the author of numerous popular but commonplace novels. In "A Farm in Creamland," we see him in quite a different role. He was one of those who had listened to the cry of "Back to the land," which is heard so much in Britain to-day; he imagined the joys of rural life, and decided to work a small farm in Devon shire, the most beautiful of counties. This is the record of his experiences. It is a pleasant, chatty, discursive volume, which tells of the thousand and one incidents in the daily round of the farmer. The technical aspects of the question are lightly touched upon. Mr. Garvice rambles along generally with stories of fishing and country elections, and rabbits and the village 'bus and fishing, and pigs as pets, and the conditions of the agricultural labourer, and rustic wit, and the olla podrida of country life. It is gratifying to learn that not only was his experiment enjoyable, but that it was equally successful from the financial point of view. (Hodder and Stoughton; Angus and Robertson.)

SOME NEW NOVELS.

When Ford Madox Hueffer wrote "Mr. Fleight" he was in his most brilliant and cynical mood. Mr. Fleight is a young Jewish millionaire of comparatively obscure origin, who finds his wealth rather a burden than otherwise. He aspires to be of some use in the scheme of things, and introduces himself to Mr. Blood, a portentous individual who knows everyone and everything, but prefers to remain a looker-on at life's petty struggle. Mr. Blood resolves to make a career for Mr. Fleight, and immediately sets the wheels in motion. He makes his protege stand as an Opposition candidate for a by-election; he bids him make friends with the "intellectuals," and to found a magazine to advertise himself, and to ally them to his cause. The only obstacle in the way of success is Mr. Fleight himself. His pathetic innocence involves him in all sorts of entanglements. He has a taste for simple pleasures which gives his enemies a handle for slander. We follow his adventures in the field of politics and literature until at last he wins the seat, and the hand (though not the heart) of the very practical German lady who edits his magazine. It is all extremely clever but extremely cynical. The author seems to have few illusions. Success in letters, in politics, and in life, according to him, is simply a matter of pulling the right strings. Sincerity is a thing of the past, and enthusiasm is dangerous unless it is carefully controlled. Then it is good business. Even love is rather ridiculous unless it is allied to more material considerations. But if Mr. Hueffer shows little faith in his fellow men, he has written a most amusing book. (Bell and Sons, Dymock's.)

Mr. Percival Gibbon is one of the most promising of the younger generation of short-story writers, and in "The Second-class Passenger" he continues to "make good." Many of the stories concern adventure in the queer places of the earth, particularly in East Africa. In some we renew our acquaintance with the intrepid Miss Gregory, surely the most unorthodox of heroines. Some tell of wild doings at sea, and some have an element of the supernatural and esoteric, which is rather a new departure for Mr. Gibbon. Two or three—the title story, for instance, and "The Murderer"—are subtle psychological studies, and all are worth reading. (Methuen; G. Robertson.)

In "Beset by Spies," Mr. James Blyth has abandoned his usual occupation of scarifying the inhabitants of the British watering-place, and has written a novel of sensation and intrigue. The hero is a pleasant young fellow possessed of mighty thews and sinews, and a chivalrous heart. He is private secretary to a mysterious individual, who is constantly being attacked by gangs of Russians and Japanese. It turns out that he has certain documents, which the governments of these countries, then at war, wish at all hazards to obtain. Naturally Tom Barne's job is no sinecure, but he acquits himself manfully, and ultimately leads a blushing bride to the altar. Mr. Blyth purports to give us the secret history of the Dogger Bank outrage, in which the Russian fleet fired on the British trawlers. It was, he says, part of a deep-laid scheme on the part of the Japanese to embroil England in the war. That it was not more successful was due simply and solely to the resourceful energy of his hero. (Bell and Sons.)

"Unpathed Waters," by Frank Harris, is a collection of curious stories, many of which have a mystic and spiritual element. "The Miracle of the Stigmata" and "The Holy Man" are daring, but entirely reverent attempts, to show how the original teaching of the Founder of Christianity has been misunderstood and departed from even by some of His most eager followers. The "King of the Jews" is a powerful reconstruction of one of the incidents of the Crucifixion. The "English Saint" is a study of the reactions which the physical and mental conditions of man produce upon his spiritual temperament. "The Irony of Chance" and "The Magic Glasses" are each symbolic of two great characteristics of humanity. On a more material plane are several stories which show how the money-sense of the Jew enables him to leave the Gentile far behind in the acquisition of wealth. All are good, and are told with a simplicity and an absence of effort, which betoken the art that conceals art. (The Bodley Head.)

FOR AUSTRALIAN YOUNGSTERS.

Miss Mary Grant Bruce has won a secure place in the hearts of Australian children, little and big, indeed in the hearts of children other than Australian, and in "Norah of Billabong" she has bowed to the stern decree of the many readers who have asked for "more Norah." Here we renew an acquaintance with old friends and old places. Norah is the same charming girl, a little more mature, but as delightful as ever. We meet again Jim and Wally and "Brownie," and all the rest of them, and each contributes his or her share to our good entertainment. The scene opens in Melbourne, but it soon changes to Billabong, where Miss Grant Bruce is thoroughly at home in describing the pleasures and incidents and adventures of station life. It is a thoroughly good story, which will enlarge the author's circle of admirers.

Miss Lilian Turner is another Australian writer whose books enjoy a well deserved popularity, and this will be increased by "Stairways to the Stars." It is a story of the Arnold family with its three daughters, Catherine, Pamela, and Rosalind. Each belongs to a type we all can recognise, and Miss Turner differentiates each with much skill. Each has her own ambitions and faults and merits, and we follow their fortunes with no small degree of interest.

Miss Vera G. Dwyer appears to be a new writer who has made an auspicious debut in "With Beating Wings." We are introduced to the various members of the Pemelly family, a pleasant lot with the exception of its head, who is rather an odious individual. Indeed, he plays the part of the villain in the story, a tyrannical, unsympathetic, selfish villain, who makes his children's lot an unenviable one. The eldest daughter, Gwen, has literary aspirations, and fortunately for her there is a youthful editor who is able to train her budding talent to the best advantage. Miss Dwyer has a distinct faculty for graceful writing, and we shall look for further works from her pen with interest.

In "The Childhood of Helen" Miss Evelyn Goode tells us how a girl who was going to marry a wealthy man she did not love experience a spiritual renascence through her association with the three delightful children named Polly-dear, Rod, and Small, and finally gave her heart into the keeping of a more deserving suitor. The scene is laid on a South Australian farm, and the author gives an agreeable picture of the work and play thereon. (Ward, Lock, and Co.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will prove one of the most interesting productions of the Quinlan season next week, chiefly because the aria, "Voi che Sapete," so frequently sung here by Mme. Melba, and two or three other themes are so familiar. The actual last performance of "Le Nozze di Figaro" in Sydney might take the record back nearly half a century to the famous seasons under Lister, and the great classic certainly has not been staged here at any rate for 30 years. The plot is founded on the fact that Figaro, the scheming and volatile barber of Seville, is about to be married to Susanna. His betrothed accordingly joins him in outwitting his gay master, the Count Almaviva, who lays siege to her, affects to be vastly in love, and is a cause of much amusement and some little anxiety to both of them. The whole story was taken by the librettist Da Ponte or Da Ponti, who died in 1837 in New York long after, at the age of 80, from a comedy by Beaumarchais, of the same title. As the opera dates back to 1786, history relates the appearance of Mozart at the rehearsals in Vienna "with his crimson pelisse and gold-laced cocked hat, giving the time of the music in the orchestra." It was the Emperor Joseph who suggested the subject of the opera, owing to the fact that Beaumarchais' play had excited extraordinary interest in Paris two years before. The first night was, in fact, the occasion of a riot, due to the political attacks on high personages, of which it was the vehicle. Its first title was "La Folle Journee," and a first-night witticism from a pittite has survived all through the century and a third of years. When Figaro exclaimed "Et tout finira par des rires," a man in the pit added, "Et tout finira par des canons," and this actually happened. The new comedy was performed 68 times in succession, and in eight months, ended January, 1785, it brought in 346,197 livres to the Theatre Francais. The same author, it will be remembered, was responsible for the comedy of "The Barber of Seville," on which Rossini's opera of that name was founded.

Mr. Percy Grainger, who has twice revisited Australia as the brilliant solo pianist of the Ada Crossley concerts, had been absent five years when he last played at the Sydney Town Hall; and now another lustrum has passed, during which he has secured a recognised position amongst English composers. He has written orchestral, chamber, choral, piano, and song pieces, whilst in the firstnamed section his "Mock Morris," recently introduced here by the Symphony Orchestra, under Mr. Joseph Bradley, has been performed hundreds of times in Europe, and figured four times this season at the Queen's Hall promenade concerts, under Sir Henry Wood. On August 19, the Australian pianist conducted two new works of his own at the above concerts, one of which, "Shepherd's Hey," had to be repeated in spite of the standing rule to the contrary. His choral works found favour last year with the finest choir in New York, and are to be sung again this coming season by the MacDowell Choir. His mother writes concerning him from Christiania, under date September 8. It seems that he is making a Scandinavian tour (his friendship with the composer Grieg stimulated him into studying Norwegian, which he speaks fluently), and his recitals at Christiania last month were in the presence of the King and Queen of Norway and the English Princess Victoria. "The Royal party stayed to the last, and even waited for the four encores at the end of the evening. Mrs. Grainger writes that there was another 'sold out' house at Bergen on September 7, when Percy Grainger played a "Grieg Concerto," with orchestra, and conducted two works of his own. After touring all through Norway, this brilliant artist will visit Russia, where he is engaged at St. Petersburg for the Siloti symphony concerts. He was offered the post of head teacher of pianoforte at the New York School of Music recently, but declined the honour, preferring to continue his virtuoso career, which leaves more time for composition. It may be added that the Graingers are primarily a Melbourne family, though they also lived in Adelaide, and have many friends in this city, who follow with interest the record of the pianist's now distinguished career in England and on the Continent.

Our London correspondent identified with "A Woman's Letter," writes concerning "The Ever Open Door," produced at the Aldwych Theatre, London, on September 6, remarking: "Into this melodrama Mr. George R. Sims has put all his old craftsman's work in treating of evils through the medium of a play. The "Ever Open Door" is the title of a confraternity which goes about the slums in procession, headed by the Anglican vicar and choir in cassocks and surplices, singing hymns and gathering neglected children into the Mission Home. The scene is laid in Westminster, and much of the irony of the play is devoted to the sharp contrasts that have always been found there. You are in a slum, but you hear Big Ben striking the hours and see the towers of the House of Lords. The story deals with the betrayal of trust by the wicked heir to an earldom. His cousin had married secretly a young and beautiful governess, but died suddenly before the marriage had been declared. The widow bears a child boy, the one step between the wicked cousin and the title of Earl of Dereham. He, therefore, lures the widowed Lady Dereham to the house of a disreputable woman who makes a living as a baby farmer; and then, when she is down with puerperal fever, declares that in her delirium she killed her child. He blackmails her for some years, until she is tired of it, and sends for him, saying now that the first years of her widowhood are over she has made up her mind to enter a sisterhood as Sister Miriam, and do all she can for suffering children. She does so, and as the story unfolds link by link, the slum children, of whom the boy is the rightful heir, Sister Lil, a girl of the people, and other characters, are cleverly developed, until at last "Sister Miriam" learns that she is guiltless, and that her child lives. It seems that Miss Hilda Spong reappeared in London after a long interval of years as Lady Dereham, a part which superficially resembled the one she was last seen in in Australia in Haddon Chambers' comedy, "Passers By." Our correspondent closes her account with the remark: "I wept copiously at Miss Hilda Spong's acting as Sister Miriam. It is many years since I saw her in London. In the meantime she has ripened into a clever emotional actress with a beautiful figure and a charming personality. She will, I trust, show us more of her quality if she decided to remain in this country for a time."

It is nearly two years since any definite news has been published of the Kennedy Family; but they are just now once more in Australia, and early in the present month were giving concerts at Perth. A good many years ago there was another Kennedy Family in this city from Scotland, world-wide travellers, singers, and entertainers. The artists now in question are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, of Randwick, of whom the boy, Keith Kennedy, was a brilliant prodigy-violinist, whose frequent appearances, like those of Lionel Lawson in more recent years, made him popular. The Kennedys toured Queensland with much success with their concert party, which secured financial salvation with the aid of the biograph, and they ultimately appeared in Burmah, India, and the Malay States. Mrs. Kennedy, the pianist of the combination, then took the boys to Europe for further study. Keith worked under the famous Sevcik in Vienna, Laurie entered the Royal Academy of Music, London, for 'cello, and Lance for violin and flute. Mr. Laurie Kennedy also plays the cornet well. They have now returned as cultivated adult musicians, and are touring Australia with Miss Elise Grosholtz as contralto vocalist. No doubt Sydney concert goers will be glad to welcome them home in due course.

Early in September the Asche-Brayton Company opened a South African tour at the Durban Theatre Royal, with the Shakesperian repertoire played here. "Othello," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Antony and Cleopatra" have been the favourite pieces, the scenery of the last named, and Lily Brayton's pourtrayal of the queen, being especially praised. A new name is noticed in the cast, as Miss Maud Wingfield, a New Zealand actress who resided for some years in Sydney, is mentioned for her "true and graceful study" of Octavia. Mr. Oscar Asche has now in hand his preparations for the production of the new drama he has founded on Rider Haggard's "Child of Storm." The company was in Johannesburg on September 13.

THE CHURCHES.

WOMEN'S WORK.

"There are many girls to-day who are wasting their lives and misleading others in most innocent ways, girls who have stores of spiritual knowledge and gifts of idealism, lying not far beneath a seemingly frivolous surface," said Dr. Radford, at St. Andrew's Cathedral yesterday morning, in the course of an address to women on "The Opportunity of Woman."

The keynote of his address was an appeal to his hearers to concern themselves with the influence of their own personality, on husband, son, and daughter. He doubted, he said, if woman was seen at her best in the multitude, and he would not speak about the phase of collective work, important as it was. He ventured to say that one of the saddest things in church life to-day was the fact that the daughters of many women, who were working one way or another for missions, home or foreign, did not care, and were not being taught to take interest in the work.

It was one of the things to which the women would have to look. How they should be won was for the mother to decide, but won they must be.

The consecration service of St. Andrew's Church, Summer Hill, which is to take place this afternoon, will doubtless be attended by an unusually large gathering. Dr. Wright, Archbishop of Sydney, is to perform the rite of consecration, the consummation, in the words of the rector, Canon Vaughan, of 33 years of work. The entire cost of the buildings, church, school, and rectory, as well as the land, amounting in all to about £[illegible],000, has now been cleared. The Dean of Sydney, Archdeacon Boyce, Archdeacon D'Arcy-Irvine, and about 50 clergy, are expected to take part in the proceedings.

The annual Seafarers' Service will be celebrated to-morrow at St. Andrew's Cathedral by Archbishop Wright. It is an interesting ceremony, which is now observed at all the cathedral seaports of the Empire. The Admiral, and several in authority in the State, have signified their intention of being present, and the Navy, the Reserve, and the Merchant Service will each contribute their quota. The ordinary cathedral music will be strengthened by the Band of the Royal Australian Reserve, while the veteran members of the League and Ancient Mariners have also been invited.

The report of the finance board for the Anglican diocese of Bathurst states that the Bishopric Endowment Fund stands at £15,250. The fund was initiated at a meeting in Bathurst in 1876. Consequent on that meeting, and the result of sustained efforts in which the metropolitan played a large part, the original capital of the See, £11,000, was raised. The capital was not increased until after October, 1886, when an appeal was made subsequent to the resignation of the first bishop.

It was also resolved to call together again the conference during the month of November, as fresh facts are to hand confirming the opinion that the agents of the traffic are already at work in this State. It was decided to endeavour to secure funds to provide for the appointment of a vigilance officer. Colonel J. H. Goodlet promised a subscription of £50 towards this object.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

Amenities at Balmoral.—Peril of a Cabinet Minister.—Sir George Reid in London.—A Familiar Voice.—Cost of Ventilating the House of Commons.

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 13.

Ministers in attendance upon his Majesty at Balmoral find pleasing improvements in the accommodation for guests. The work commenced by King Edward, long a sufferer from the Spartan fashion that satisfied his mother, has been liberally carried forward by his present Majesty. Queen Victoria never got over the idea, deeply rooted in her mind by earliest associations, that Balmoral was simply a hunting lodge, where occasional guests might picnic. The members of the household, accustomed to the roomy luxury of Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, sorely suffered. They had no private room in which upon occasion they might receive their personal friends. Morning callers were shown into the billiard-room, and afternoon tea was furtively served in the same bleak apartment. A deprivation keenly felt by Edward Prince of Wales was, not only the absence of a smoking-room, but strict observance of the injunction "no smoking."

A Cabinet Minister, a colleague of Mr. Balfour's in his last Administration, told me an amusing story in this connection. Accustomed to his cigar after dinner, he forlornly felt its absence when in attendance at Balmoral. On the second day of his stay a happy thought occurred to him. Pleading urgent business arising upon delivery of the last mail, he withdrew to his bedroom, locked the door, and seating himself by a cheerful fire, one of the few domestic luxuries of the place, smoked his cigar up the chimney. His complacency at success of the manoeuvre was disturbed the following morning when he heard that the Queen had been complaining of an inexplicable but unmistakable smell of tobacco in her bedroom. The hapless Minister learned, to his dismay, that the fireplace in his room backed on to that in her Majesty's, and through the medium of a common flue the subtle fragrance of his choice cigar had affronted his Sovereign's nostrils.

It was a happy thought on the part of the representatives of the London Press to invite Sir George Reid to a farewell luncheon on the eve of his departure on a home visit. Sir George has filled the distinguished office of High Commissioner for Australia for three years. In that time he has achieved the position, enjoyed publicly and privately, of being one of the most popular men in London. Apart from other attractions, he is endowed in remarkable degree with the gift of what is known as after-dinner speaking. With us in this country, men who can command the Senate and dominate thronged audiences outside Westminster, fail in this particular development of their art. The names of those who conspicuously succeed may be counted on the fingers of one hand.

In his day, the late Lord Granville was a star in the postprandial firmament. To-day Lord Rosebery shines there in unapproachable brilliancy. In the United States—where infants are born addressing whatsoever audience may have been assembled when they appear on the scene—after-dinner speaking is as common as soup or fish on the table. Beginning with Russell Lowell, and including Mr. Choate, successive American Ministers have won renown at public banquets in London. Sir George Reid need not shrink from comparison with any of them. During the height of the season we may hear him speak twice or thrice a week. The marvel is that, with such drain upon his resources, he should always have something fresh to say, some strikingly novel point of view to present to the topic of the day. The grace of his ordered speech is equalled by the ease of his manner, which is unrestrained by the necessity of referring to notes. Doubtless, Sir George has the art to conceal his art, an effort that is certainly successful.

A friend paying a visit to the United States, whence he has just returned, carried a letter of introduction to Edison. He found the great magician hard at work in his laboratory, impelled by ardour of elaborating a new idea designed for the welfare of mankind which is not yet sufficiently advanced to permit it being talked or written about. He still preserves a warm place in his heart for his famous child the phonograph. Twenty-four years ago, when his agent, Colonel Gouroud, was in this country, vigorously pushing along the new marvel, he succeeded in obtaining from a number of celebrities messages spoken into the phonograph addressed to the inventor. Amongst them were the late Duke of Cambridge, the Speaker of the House of Commons (Mr. Peel), and the Lord Mayor of London. I remember writing at the time how the editor of "Punch" (Sir Frank Burnand), Tenniel, Du Maurier, and another member of the staff, at Colonel Gouroud's invitation, sent messages across the sea to Mr. Edison. He carefully preserves this treasure. For the edification of his English visitor, he turned on Mr. Gladstone's message. Its recitation in the familiar voice was, my friend says, startling.

I am permitted to reproduce the text of this interesting and characteristic message. "Dear Mr. Edison," said Mr. Gladstone, "I am profoundly indebted to you, not for the entertainment only, but the instruction and the marvels of one of the most remarkable evenings which it has been my privilege to enjoy. The request that you have done me the honour to make—to receive the record of my voice—is one that I cheerfully comply with, so far as it lies in my power; though I lament to say that the voice which I transmit to you is only the relic of an organ the employment of which has been overstrained. Yet I offer to you as much as I possess, and so much as old age has left me, with the utmost satisfaction, as being at least a testimony to the instruction and delight that I have received from your marvellous invention. As to the future consequences, it is impossible to anticipate them. All I see is that wonders upon wonders are opening before us. Your great country is leading the way in the important work of invention. Heartily do we wish it well, and to you, as one of its greatest celebrities, allow me to offer my hearty good wishes and earnest prayers that you may live long to witness its triumphs in all that appertains to the well-being of mankind."

Whilst the cost of everything is going up it is some consolation to know that the charges for warming and ventilating the House of Commons show a decrease of not less than £1830. Last year the total expended on the work was £27,360. It is estimated that for the current year it will not exceed £26,000. Doubtless the reduction is largely due to the fact that we shall have no autumn session. There are some striking changes in items of charges as compared to the bill tendered 22 years ago. Chief among them is the gas account, which in the financial year 1891-2 amounted to £3000. This year it is only £1400. The introduction of the electric light has chiefly effected this considerable economy. Gas is still in considerable demand, though where it is used is not observable to members. But the bill is decreasing. Last year it was £2000. This year £600 has been economised under this head.

Our old friend, oil for lamps, still looms large in the domestic account. There is also a charge for candles, which within the memory of comparatively new peers supplied the sole means of lighting the House of Lords. Like the Commons, it is now exclusively served by the electric light. The only other use for candles I know of happens on the day before a new session opens. Thereupon, in accordance with custom established at the discovery of Guy Fawkes' plot, the Sergeant-at-Arms, accompanied by an escort of elderly messengers, stealthily searches cellars and underground passages for surreptitious barrels of gunpowder. It is a delightful anachronism to see this bodyguard marching through corridors illuminated by electric light, every man carrying an ancient lantern in whose socket smoulders a tallow dip.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

Dressing for Autumn.

LONDON W., Sept. 12.

September is in many ways a curious month for dress. You are at the end of your summer clothes; you are already provided with your country things, the short tweed skirts and sports coats in varying hues. These, of course, are not as fashionable as they were. They have been killed by the uses to which they have been put in the wrong place. Like all fashions, the occasion has been met by the substitution of another kind of country coat. Tailors build a thick kind of cloth into short barely three-quarter length coats, made with belts, and a number of obtrusive pockets. Three large buttons fasten the coat well over and low down below the waist. These are the last new things for sports. Blazers for some reason were not welcomed on the river. I think they are left for members of hockey and cricket teams, and for such schools as run girls' cricket elevens. For the winter I see many of the best shops turning out what they call "Teddy Bear" coats. They make them of a material for all the world like plushette curtains. These coats are really very like Teddy bears, and apparently are composed of stuff wonderfully like it. They make them simply, merely a plain coat coming to the top of the hem of the gown. No wraps are as long as they have been during the last few years. They round off the edges and wrap well over, fastening with wonderfully handsome buttons. I see a great future in buttons.

Coats and skirts will be quite as much worn this winter as they have ever been. I have been looking up authorities, French fashion books, as well as English ones; and who runs may read, by simply looking into shop windows. They will never go out of fashion any more than will blouses. Nine women out of ten order nothing else. They supplement the warmth by wearing heavy furs with them, or, when driving, add a fur coat as well.

Furs.

There is a great change this year in furs. It is to be a year of natural skins. Red fox is the most fashionable thing you can wear. I have been studying it, and ask myself each day how the ordinary woman who wears fur will make these ruddy pelts becoming. I believe the difficulty will be solved by wearing black fur coats with the muffs and neck wraps, and black velvet hats, or hats covered with fur; the touch of colour will be supplied by a tangerine orange, berries, and brown leaves, or something of the kind. Then, of course, brown and all the range of curious sandy shades that are so much worn will be led up to. And I was told only last night by a girl who was buying furs that the red fox will be beautiful with cream toilettes. This I can quite see. And a girl with auburn hair and blue eyes will be lovely in a costume of the kind.

All kinds of animals will be used for fur sets. Raccoon must have trebled in price. Skunk and bear, beautifully dressed, in the rich dark-brown shades, are popular. Pony skin is for coats. Black pony skin seems to be the favourite. I always feel a qualm whenever I see pony skins dressed for woman's wear. It does seem such a "base use" to come to at last. I wish the horse had been left out of the calculations of the furrier. White fox is the last cry for evening wear. Huge stoles are worn of it on opera wraps, and it hems tunics and finishes sleeves. On a dancing frock of fine white net, made in three tiers, over a tight white satin slip, white fox looks beautiful—so airy and light. Costly? Rather! But that doesn't matter with the people who can afford such beautiful things. I saw last night a white fox stole that beat everything of its kind I ever beheld. It was full in habit, creamy white, with lovely long hairs, over what was as rich and soft as swansdown. No wonder these things are well worn in the evening. Fur, as a trimming, is still much in demand. The wired-out tunics often have a border of sable, with the same costly fur on the bodice. I have also seen some of the newest coats made of broche velvet, with a small roll collar and cuffs of fur, sable, marten, or even raccoon. This last fur is getting too costly to trifle with.

Gowns for Sydney.

I was privileged with an invitation to see some gowns which are being taken out to Sydney by a lady returning this week. I saw three "tub frocks," as they call them. One was of the finest spotted white muslin made with a high waist and a tunic. The skirt and tunic were all extensively intersewn with wide insertions of the finest Madeira embroidery, which was put into the muslin with insertions of Valenciennes lace. It was a beautiful gown. There were two belts to wear with it—one of an old-fashioned red ribbon, with loops on either side; one of green. These belts were made on a belt ribbon put over it in pleats, with gathered bows right in front. A rose is to be worn at the waist, and at the throat a tiny bouquet of small flowers sewn on to velvet.

Another dress was of fine cotton voile, with a small pattern all over it, made up with broad bands of Russian lace, and a black sash with square plaques of Turkish embroidery, finished at the end of the sash with Turkish fringe. Another gown had a black sash, made with high, upstanding bows, and the end finished with little baskets of silk-woven flowers. The same on the belt and on little ends where the blouse fastened.

I also saw an evening gown destined for Australia. It was of amber satin charmeuse mounted over white, with a gold lace bodice draped with the amber satin, a swathed belt, into which was thrust a rose made of bright green velvet and leaves to match, all handmade. It was quaint, and uncommon, but the colour was happily chosen, and it just gave a touch to the gown that a more commonplace artist had not thought of.

Hats.

Hats begin to loom seriously in the autumnal horizon. I saw a bevy of Paris hats a few days ago sent over for some friends to choose from. They were one and all of black velvet; fairly small, they had loose soft crowns, and like all hats, were put on from the back and drawn well over the brows. The hair shows below the brims at the side. One had a very high cluster of bows of moire ribbon set on right in front. Each loop must have taken a yard of ribbon. They were all wired, and were finished at their middle by a twirl of the ribbon, which took unto it the shape of a folded rose. I find the best way of wiring ribbon is to sew neatly with fine silk in buttonhole stitch the wire on the edge of the ribbon. You cannot see the stitches, and it sets better than turning in the selvedge. Ribbon on black velvet hats is in Paris a furore.

You may take it, that all hats have soft crowns, there is no stiffened interlining. The crown must be made so that your head gets right into it up to the top. Therefore, when a model is shown you that does not fit right over your head loosely do not take it. It is in this very thing that style as well as the comfort of a small hat lies. All the brims were made of gathered velvet not too full, but as you know this sort of ruckle is most becoming to the face, and it is certain that all hats will have it. You can wear a smaller model if the brim is not too hard. The trimmings of hats will all be in front. And as you will be thinking of summer hats it will be well to bear this in mind. The bows must be tall, and the crowns soft.

A girl showed me two hats she had just bought to wear in a warm climate, with washing gowns. One was intensely chic, made with a top and crown entirely of pink striped zephyr; the lining was of black and white zephyr. The other was of white batiste, the crown had a line of embroidery in white, made up soft, with a stiff band of white going round the crown, and stiff brim. She reckoned on this hat being a great success.

The sailor shape will be one of the best worn in made-up hats. You may choose any material, for they turn them out in silk and satin, velvet, or make them to go with a gown. The brims, I should warn you, are all fulled on to the shape right over. Indeed, there is a little touch of "home-made-ness" about them, which I conclude is the correct touch. I saw one in velvet last night with just one tiny bud placed near the front of the brim. Indeed, the aim of all milliners seems to be to keep as far from over trimming as possible.

Etceteras.

Blouses to wear with coats and skirts should be simple. And in no case may they fasten at the back. A little waistcoat may be worn under these open-fronted blouses. I see them made in lace or embroidery, fastened with tiny buttons. For more elaborate wear they are of broche satin, only showing a tiny bit of throat, but finished with a lace or muslin collar. I must not omit to mention the great vogue there is for cameo brooches, which these turndown collars have brought back to fashion.

I cannot extol too highly the fashion of having a well-made well-draped black satin gown, with its changes of blouses, all related to the skirt, which can be done by having touches of black ninon, net, or Chantilly lace made up over white, or the finest flesh pink ninon or charmeuse. I think every girl has a perfect right to one of these gowns.

Tunics of a fine make of lace without an edging are much used. They weight them at the edges with some shot sewn into a narrow binding. It is flexible, and you do not see it; but the tunic stops in its proper place all the time. I daresay such adjuncts to dressmaking are to be bought at the trade stores for such things. But in case it helps you with your little sewing woman, I hand on the hint.

MORE FIRST NIGHTS.

ETHEL IRVING—DRURY LANE—SARA BERNHARDT.

(BY ARTHUR MASON.)

We are still first-nighting here. Moreover, there are various new plays yet to come. Marie Tempest, for example, has been telling us how she is spending fourteen hours a day in her theatre preparing H. A. Jones's Tempest comedy, "Mary Goes First," for its next week's premiere. Mr. H. B. Irving, similarly, is rooted and grounded at the Savoy, for rehearsals of "The Grand Seigneur," his new London venture. "Interlopers" is due to succeed "Milestones" at the Royalty a few nights hence, and Mr. Courtneidge's new Shaftesbury musical comedy, "The Pearl Girl," is due a week later. Other new plays at other theatres, each of them the subject of a tremendous amount of hard work, some of them, doubtless, doomed to wholly ineffectual persuasion of the public. Since its first night the last two acts of Barrie's comedy have been condensed into one act. It is not thus to be saved, however. Shaw's absurd travesty, too, is now being frantically discovered by apologists as symbolic, philosophical, and overwhelmingly subtle. All one can say is that it is a pity he disguised the fact under such an array of juvenile humours.

Ethel Irving produced at the Globe this week "Years of Discretion," an American comedy. The scheme is that of a widow no longer young who, tired of being middle-aged, comes to New York, gives herself up to milliners and a French maid, and blooms into vivacity and a round of gay living, supplemented by sumptuous frocks and etceteras. It is the etceteras that count, really, for the lady's agony under the infliction of fashionable shoes and tight-lacing makes more than one diverting episode. She has various admirers, one of whom she eventually marries, disclosing to him on her wedding day that she is more or less a sham. He is delighted to hear it, for he is forthwith able to relax a button or two on his own account, put on his discarded spectacles, and, with a skull-cap shield his much harried head from the draughts. So, in a pretty final scene, the lady, now unadorned, resumes the knitting she was really longing to be back with, and her husband smokes and slacks in middle-aged contentment. The comedy has its moments, and some good character parts. But it is by no means deserving of the gifts of an Ethel Irving. She, indeed, plays it throughout with all the sincerity of the fine artist, and with quite exquisite charm. But in "Years of Discretion" she has not found a play of her own calibre. She is wonderful in her exposition of feminine moods, and she cajoles and entices and dismisses her various lovers with delightful airs and graces. Artist to her finger tips, Miss Ethel Irving will do all that is to be done for the play. But one doubts whether even her gifts, and the wonderful frocks the scenes place at her disposal, will quite suffice to establish it in success.

The late Clyde Fitch's "Girls," a farce-comedy, also from America, was produced at the Prince of Wales's this week. It is of the very elementary order. Three man-hating girls are concerned. By the end of the third act they are man-loving girls. It is brightly played, and, indeed, quite beautifully played by one H. E. Garden, an actor new to London, whose portrayal of an awkward lawyer's clerk is always clever, and becomes a brilliant study in the last act, when he is engineered by one of the young ladies into a proposal of marriage. In a dreary waste of talk, that scene was a refreshing surprise. It may save the play.

The Drury Lane autumn drama won all along the line last night. Drury Lane last year abandoned its historic autumn fixture for "Everywoman." This year it wonders why. Especially it wonders why because "Sealed Orders" is Raleigh and Hamilton at their best, with a strong three-stringed plot of a diamond theft in Hatton Garden, a foreign Ambassador's attempt to possess himself of a British Admiral's sealed orders, and the gambling debts of the aforesaid Admiral's young wife. Moreover, the piece is well and strongly acted by an excellent cast containing not only Fanny Brough, and C. M. Hallard, and Hale Hamilton, and Edward Sass, and many more, but also the veteran "Teddy" Royce. But, apart from the play itself and the actors, there is the Drury Lane "production." That is something that belongs to Drury Lane alone. It could only begin to be rivalled in a theatre prepared to spend thousands of pounds on a production, and in a theatre, too, provided with a similar wonder-working electricity-filled stage. In that regard "Sealed Orders" is marvellous. The diamond merchant's office is photographic. Thence the spectator goes to the Chelsea flower show, with masses of blooms, foliage, and ferns strewn about the place, and a great promenade of fashionable ladies such as is to be seen any day at the real Chelsea flower show, a great London fixture. Come then, too, sumptuous interiors, a fashionable West End gaming-house and a fashionable Bond-street shop. Follows the deck of a British battleship at night, with its great guns, and turrets, and long lines of electric light, for a ball is in progress, and there is a great crowd of dancers all in festal array. That is a lavish business enough, and in addition to it there is Christie's auction-room, with a sale in progress, and there are beautiful stretches of the Downs, and there is an airship in mid-air, and a scene on the waters of the Channel. And one had almost forgotten the little matter of Park Lane, got somehow on to the stage at Drury Lane, with motor cars flashing about, and what not. And probably one has quite forgotten a number of other things, for the succession of them at Drury Lane last night was bewildering, and the enthusiasm of the crowded theatre immense. In truth, it is a huge and wonderful production, and the joy of the people in it last night sent it spinning unmistakably upon a triumphant career.

It was not a first night in the ordinary sense, but one night this week Sara Bernhardt began a six-weeks' season at the Coliseum. She will play six famous scenes from six of her most famous plays. This week it is "La Samaritaine," and, being a sacred drama, "La Samaritaine" is placed at the end of the Coliseum programme, and separated from the variety "turns" by music. A wonderful place this Coliseum, wonderful in its succession of twice-a-day programmes, its palatial appointments, its vast seating capacity, and its cheapness. For sixpence at the Coliseum you get quite a good seat. This week there you can see Sara Bernhardt for sixpence. You can also see Chevalier—for he, too, is on the programme, and how well worth the roars of cheering he gets! He is as great an artist as ever. His pictures of Costerdom are just finely wrought cameos, cut straight from life. Never exaggerated, never less than artistic, his command of expression is wonderful. His gesture is a delight in itself. He is singing this week "Fair Flo" and "My Old Dutch." "Fair Flo" is a perfect little study, a coster at a dance captivated by the grace of the lady. The combination of Chevalier's singing of the song, his pantomimic overtures of affection, the deprecatory strut of him, the play of his hands, and the twinkling rapidity of his feet, are irresistible, and it is no wonder that in the end she and he are floating in the mazy together. "My Old Dutch" is no less perfect; as Chevalier sings it, indeed, a fragment of homely sentiment that silences these great audiences into absorbed attention. Chevalier must be 65 now; but Bernhardt is 69. So one drifts into the Coliseum to see her out of pathetic remembrance of the past. And she enters, as the Woman of Samaria, within a stage filled by a crowd of Jews gathered about the well—and you are simply stunned at her appearance, her grace of movement, her seemingly lithe activity. Then she begins to speak to the crowd, and you have forgotten that you ever thought of her as old. Now and again there is a curious crinkle across the smoothness of the tone—that is all. She fights it away, and the words flow out in a marvellous stream of sound—every syllable of it ordered and in check, really the whole art of a great elocutionist in full play, but with never a suspicion of it abroad. She talks to them of the Nazarene, and they stand awe-stricken under her words. She pleads with them, and the voice is a-brim with tenderness. She tells them of what it has all meant to her, and the speech becomes almost a song of rapture. Its note changes and deepens, rises into passionate entreaty, becomes a triumph cry ringing through the theatre. The art of that soaring voice is wonderful. The genius behind it is wonderful. But at the end Sara Bernhardt comes forward to take the calls of the audience. She looks tired—very tired—and I wake up from the spell she had cast, and I see that she is really old. But what a spirit it is that can so fight through the burden of years, and what a fire of emotion it must have been that even now can so rise into flame.

THE REAL DAY.

IN THE TURRETS.

HOW THE GUNS ARE FOUGHT.

(BY OUR SPECIAL COMMISSIONER.)

I.

"Enemy's ships! You've no call to worry about no enemy's ships, m' lad! S'long as you're rammin' projectiles out of the 'oist into the guns in A turret, rammin' projectiles is enough for you. You'll jus' go on rammin' projectiles until ordered to stop. Don't you worry about no enemy."

And when the big day came, and he couldn't help feeling as if his inside were made of air and his knees of string, William Jones, A.B., seaman-gunner, remembered those words, and drew some comfort from them. When he had sought knowledge of his father's brother on this subject, he had imagined himself a member of the gun's crew, staring down the shining barrel and out through the gun port, and drawing a bead upon certain bulging white funnelled Russians (it was always Russians or French in those days) which were punching curtains of spray out of the long grey billows. He had pictured the after-deck of that Russian hunching up and subsiding under the force of some unseen explosion within, and he had proudly imagined that he knew who was responsible for that explosion. His uncle's answer had come as a damper to his enthusiasm at the time. But now, when the real day had come, and he had scrambled into the gun turret with an undigested breakfast and a side glance at certain grey smudges working with devilish relentlessness along the horizon—when he climbed into the electric glare in that turret, I say, the one scrap of real consolation on which W. Jones, A.B., S.G., drew to alleviate the banging of his heart in his ears was that he could see no enemy, nor any sea, nor any sky, nor anything else of that world outside; and that his only job was just to ram projectiles out of the main cage, when it had come up the ammunition hoists, into the breech of the left gun.

UNDER THE "FIGHTING LAMPS."

William Jones looked round the big chamber in which he stood. Besides the electric lights the fighting lamps were all there, burning dimly by contrast—old candle lanterns hanging in various corners at all sorts of angles, lanterns of exactly the same pattern as those which lit the cockpit of the Victory at Trafalgar. If anything went wrong with the electric light they would have those same dim old candles to rely on. They had practised it a hundred times at "quarters," and even now, as he looked round at them, the electric lights were switched off for a moment, and switched on again. They were hurriedly testing the elevating gear, testing the turret training gear, testing the sights, everything that could be switched or moved or lowered or raised, was being put through a hurried preliminary. Through the opening of the ammunition hoist at his side, William could see into the well of the gunhouse below. He could see the wide working chamber beneath him crammed to the neck with the machinery which moved the turret and the guns. There were five men in that illuminated lower chamber—he could see the figures of a turret worker and "number five" of the gun's crew drumming a devil's tattoo upon the lever with which he would work the ram which pushed the charges and the projectile from the main hoist into the gun loading cage, there to wait until William Jones, and no one else, worked a second lever and hoisted the cage and its deadly cargo up to the breech of the gun. It seemed to William that he was concerned with the heart of the ship, with the interior of the turret, and the spaces below there.

A BLIND CHAMBER.

But as for the world outside—why, it is true the breeches of two enormous guns, like the butts of two huge sawn tree-trunks, ran into the turret from the outside air, and hung poised over the working chamber below, almost like the coffin of Mahomet suspended between heaven and earth, with no visible support except a slender spire of machinery on the top of which, when their projectiles and charges were in and the breech closed, they were exactly balanced. But William in his mind connected the breeches of those guns with the world outside just about as intimately as the engineer would connect his turbines with the salt water racing about the screw. He knew no more of the world outside than if he were in the engine-room. Indeed, an engine-room, filled with complicated modern machinery, and not so very different from any other engine-room, is what a modern gun turret really is.

There were 18 men at work in this engine-room, and five in the working chamber below; and several more in the magazine, far down the hoist, and many others in the shell-room, nearly 60 feet down in the ship. But only three men in the whole party had any idea of what was proceeding outside. The officer in charge of A turret saw absolutely nothing. He stood just beside William, between the breeches of the two guns, with voice pipes and telephones leading to the fire control stations and the transmitting-room, so that he may have been well informed as to all that was happening—but he could not see it. The only persons who could were the two gun-layers, who were right up in the front of the turret, staring out through the periscopes attached to the gunsights, and the turret trainer, who was peering through another periscope, fixed to the turret wall. The turret-trainer stood between the barrels of the two guns, and the gun-layers were squatted one on each side of him on the further side of the guns. The periscopes, through which they peered, had each a tiny wire thread laid vertically across the field of vision, and a second wire laid horizontally across it. At the present moment all they could have seen through them was a small circle of dancing grey sea and cold white sky, with the cross formed by the two wires constantly sawing the restless skyline.

IN THE WORLD OUTSIDE.

But far up on the foremast, in another room, which was open to the breezes and the light of day, a room larger than a cottage dining-room, although you who see it from the shore may not realise the fact—up there, in the air, fresh from the horizon, was a man who looked down on the whole circle of ocean for nearly 20 miles round. He had seen them from up there, a full quarter of an hour since, when nothing but the top of one pair of funnels, a few notches here and there, and half a dozen wisps of smoke showed over the skyline. He had leaned out for a moment over the high steel bulwarks of his cage, under the low steel roof, after a preliminary glance through the range-finder. His guns could have reached them at 20 miles, with the ship rolling sufficiently and the shell travelling as high as the Himalayas—only it is no use firing at a ship which you cannot properly see. He gave up the range-finder to the man whose duty it was to take the observations through it. He himself sat down to work out, from what he could see, the distance and course of speed of the enemy. They were little better than guesses; but he could check them in various ways, and by the time the enemy was near enough to fire at he would be able to give to his guns certain figures which would help them to put their third shot, if not their first, into a bull eight or nine miles away.

HIS GUNS.

For they were his guns. The two lean barrels which peered over the side almost beneath him, the two in the fore turret which he could see swinging over even as he looked at them, the two in P turret on the other side of the ship, which would turn across the deck, and send their blast shattering across it, breaking everything in the ward-room beneath that had not already been removed, the two long barrels in the stern turret—they were all his guns. William Jones and a hundred more were waiting at their stations in those turrets, but it was for his word they were waiting—just as the engine-room waits orders from the bridge.

How that order came, and went—went 15,000 yards, to be exact—and what happened before it got there, is matter for another article.

TRIED A SAMPLE.

"Some years ago I was subject to biliousness from which I could get no relief," says Mr. W. G. Miller, Grocer, Lindfield, N.S.W. "I was given a sample of Chamberlain's Tablets, and in a few hours after taking them all traces of biliousness were completely gone. Whenever there has been a recurrence of the trouble I have got immediate relief from Chamberlain's Tablets."—Advt.

SOCIAL.

All contributions and accounts of weddings or other social entertainments intended for the "Social" Column in Saturday's issue should reach this office not later than Friday morning, and be fully endorsed.

"Rose Day"—and we hope that the collection to be made to-day in aid of the United Charities will result in a record amount being subscribed for the deserving institutions for which it has been organised. The greatest interest has been taken in the movement, and his Excellency the Governor and Lady Edeline Strickland have signified their intention of visiting the stands in the city, between noon and 1 o'clock. There will be roses, roses, roses everywhere, and it is hoped every one will buy or wear a rose during the day. There has been keen competition amongst the stall-holders, for the price of a box at the opera, and one at the Criterion Theatre, besides the option of seats at other theatres, for the best decorated stalls, which the honorary organiser of "Rose Day"—Mr. Hugh Ward — has offered, are much coveted. A procession of cars out to the Agricultural Society's Show Ground, where an attractive programme of sports will be given, is also forming a great feature of interest, and Mrs. Holman, also the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, will entertain a number of ladies and gentlemen at the Tourist Bureau at morning tea.

Sentiment is one of the strongest links that bind the Empire, and we in far-off Australia took much interest in the Royal wedding, at St. James's Chapel, London, on Wednesday last, when Prince Arthur of Connaught was married to the young Duchess of Fife, the bride being given away by his Majesty the King (who is her uncle), Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, and many other royalties were present at the ceremony. The marriage was a most popular one in England and Scotland, where there was great rejoicing.

The social round of gaiety was continued during the past week, when many private balls and dances were given in honour of the fleet, and of the country visitors in town for the races. The Quinlan Opera Company has also been a source of much pleasure, and a crowded house greeted the performance of the first number of the "Ring"—the "Rhinegold," on Thursday evening, when the spectators sat from the beginning to the end of the performance in a subdued light, the curtain not being lowered at all during the performance. At the close of the piece the principals were most enthusiastically received, and the audience thoroughly enjoyed the beautiful staging of the "Rhinegold."

Amongst the hostesses during the week were Mrs. J. Spencer Brunton, who gave an afternoon "at home" at her residence, Elystan, Woollahra, and Lady Gould, who gave a most enjoyable small dance at her residence, Eynesbury, Woollahra, last night.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Edeline Strickland will leave town on Wednesday next for the vice-regal country residence, Hill View, Sutton Forest, where they will remain during the summer months.

The announcement of the marriage of Captain the Hon. Hugh Scarlett, brother of Lord Abinger, and formerly A.D.C. to Sir William Macgregor, Governor of Queensland, with Miss Marjorie McPhillamy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McPhillamy, of Bathurst, New South Wales, was received by cable yesterday, the ceremony having taken place on Wednesday last. Both the bride and the bridegroom were well-known in social circles in Sydney and Brisbane, and the wedding caused no little interest amongst the bride's numerous friends and relations.

Invitations have been issued by Lady Cullen to an "at home" at her residence, Tregoyd, Mosman, on Thursday, October 23, the guests being invited to meet the "Bush Brothers."

His Excellency the Governor will open an exhibition of "Women's Handicrafts" in St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, on Tuesday afternoon, October 21, at 3 o'clock. The exhibition will remain open until the 25th inst, and there will be on view for sale many articles suitable for Christmas gifts in artistic Australian designs, for sending to friends across the seas.

One of the most beautiful and enjoyable balls of the season was given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allen, at their residence, Merioola, Edgecliff-road, on Wednesday evening, October 15. A most perfect moonlight evening succeeded the tempestuous morning (when heavy rain fell, and quite a gale was blowing), and as the guests alighted at the entrance gate, the garden with the open-air ballroom in the distance, presented a most beautiful and fairylike appearance. All the paths were carpeted and outlined with Chinese lanterns, and the flower beds with hundreds of fairy lights. The ballroom is unique in Sydney, having an open-air lattice arched roof (which can be covered with tarpaulin if necessary), and the sides are of open trellis work, the floor surrounded by garden beds full of tall palms and beautiful flowers. The roof was festooned with smilax, and hanging baskets of ferns, which looked cool and effective against the white wood-work. The band was stationed on a raised dais ornamented with palms and ferns, and baskets of pink roses. The reception rooms were decorated with masses of the handsome hippeastrum, watsonia, and arum lilies, and the refreshment tables arranged with glorious dark red roses, and dark lilac. Almost adjoining the ballroom was a beautiful new supper-room, built for the occasion. This was also charmingly decorated, the canopied roof being of shaded yellow art muslin, with trials of smilax and greenery, and illuminated with electric lights. Small tables artistically arranged with bowls of dark crimson roses and handsome silver candelabra, were placed about the room, where 100 guests could be comfortably seated at once. The host and hostess received their guests at the entrance to the ballroom, Mrs. Allen wearing a beautiful dress of soft pale grey charmeuse, with bodice and short tunic of white opalescent bugle embroidered net, with effective touches of black; handsome diamond and ruby necklet and other diamond ornaments, and carried a posy of dark red roses. Miss Joyce Allen's pale daffodil coloured charmeuse had a fine lace tunic, fastened at the waist with a shot blue and gold sash, and she also carried a posy of dark red roses. About 200 guests were present, amongst whom were Sir William and Lady Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Knox and the Misses Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Hemsley, Mr., Mrs., and Miss M'Carthy, Mr. Justice Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen, Colonel and Mrs. Macarthur Onslow, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Rothe, Mr. Geoffrey Fairfax, Mr. Consett Stephen, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Laidley, Mr. and Mrs. Warry, Mr. and Mrs. Lang Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Stephen, Dr. and Mrs. Blackburn, Mr. and Miss M. Arnheim, Captain Radcliffe, Captain Glossop, Mr. and Mrs. Langloh Want, Mr. and Mrs. Sloman, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Wesche, Mr. and Mrs. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Garvan, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cape, Mrs. Beerbohm, Mrs. R. H. Dangar, Miss Dangar, Captain Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Bayly Macarthur, the Misses Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Finlayson, Mr. and Mrs. A. O'Connor, Captain Silva, Mr. A. F. Robinson, Miss Lorna Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Turnbull, Miss Grove, Miss Gladys Gould, Miss Luscombe, Miss Nell Knox, Miss M'Millan, Miss Gladys Owen, the Misses Ogilvie, the Misses Macarthur, Miss Barton, Miss Griffith, Miss Bayley, Miss De Burgh, Miss Dorothy Owen, Miss Cornish, Miss Cherie Gordon, Miss Lumsdaine, Miss S. Campbell, Miss Osborne, Dr. Edgar Stephen, Mr. Andersen, Mr. J. Martin, Mrs. J. Campbell, Mr. H. Stephen, Captain and Mrs. Forbes, Dr. W. H. Adams, many naval officers, and others.

Mrs. H. Levy, who leaves for England by R.M.S. Marmora to-day, accompanied by her youngest daughter, was entertained at many farewell luncheon and dinner parties given in her honour during the past week. Mrs. Levy, whose eldest daughter is at school in Paris, is going on an extended visit to Europe, and upon her return to Sydney will take up her new residence, Hillside, Edgecliff-road.

There was a large gathering of visitors at the Royal Art Society's rooms on Monday afternoon, when a private view of pictures by Mr. E. Phillips Fox was afforded many invited guests, amongst whom were noticed Lady M'Millan, Mrs. H. Levy, Miss Ethel Stephens, Miss Thea Cowan, Mrs. J. L. Mullins, Mrs. Hardy Wilson, Mrs. Bavin, Mrs. Lister Lister, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Arthur Boesen, Mrs. and the Misses Innes Noad, Miss Beatrice Roberts, Mrs. H. E. Barff, Miss Ethel Ranken, Miss Booth, Miss Thea Proctor, Miss Gladys Owen, and many members of the artistic world. Mr. and Mrs. Fox moved about and chatted to the visitors, who spent a pleasant hour looking at the charming selection of pictures. A characteristic effect of sunlight filtering through the branches and leaves of the trees is a great charm, and was delightfully depicted in "The Arbour"; "Motherhood" was another picture worthy of note, also "The Terrace," several African scenes, and sketches of Sydney.

Amongst the debutantes at the Queen's Club Ball at the Town Hall on Monday evening, the names of Miss Noeline Buchanan and Miss Langtry were inadvertently omitted in our account of the ball last Tuesday morning.

A pleasant gathering took place at St. Vincent's Hospital on Thursday afternoon, when the Lady Mayoress (president of the ball committee) handed over a cheque for £1002 10s 6d to the Mother Rectress of St. Vincent's Hospital, who received it in the absence of the Rev. Mother-General, who is at present in Melbourne. This handsome sum was the proceeds of the ball held in aid of St. Vincent's Hospital on August 28, in the Town Hall, and also included several donations. The Lady Mayoress, in presenting the cheque, warmly congratulated the ladies of the committee, who had worked so energetically and with such splendid results, and suggested that the same committee should set to work again and organise another such ball for the hospital next year. Mrs. Toohey, on behalf of the Mother Rectress and the sisters, expressed their grateful thanks for the handsome cheque presented. At the conclusion of the little ceremony the visitors were entertained at tea, the room being decorated with arum lilies and sweet peas. The Lady Mayoress was accompanied by Mr. W. G. Layton, and amongst others present were Mrs. T. Hughes, Mrs. Toohey, Mrs. Kenna, Mrs. G. L. Mullins, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Howse, Mrs. Brennan, Mrs. Sly, Mrs. Alex. Mrs. David, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mollie David, will leave for England on Wednesday next by the Shropshire, on a short visit to her daughter, Mrs. Macintyre. Mrs. and Miss David hope to return to Sydney in March.

It was noticed with pleasure that at the two large balls given this week the style of dancing had much improved, and the young guests had complied with the wishes of their hostesses, with very few exceptions. We therefore hope that in the future we shall only see graceful and dignified dancers again, and no more of the dancing which caused such severe comment on all sides last week.

To meet Miss Maitland MacMicking, Mr. and Mrs. Fox Benson invited a number of friends to an "at home" at the Patriotic Club, Ltd., on Tuesday afternoon. The annual dinner in connection with the Burwood College Old Girls' Union was held on Wednesday evening at Sargent's Cafe, Market-street, and was largely attended by the members of the union. Amongst the guests were the Rev. E. J. Rodd, Principal of the college, and Mrs. Rodd, the head mistress, and several former members of the college staff. Excellent "maiden" speeches in support of the toasts of "the King," the School," "the Union," the Guests," and "Absent Friends" were given, reference being made to the lively interest taken by ex-students in the welfare of their old school, and to the hockey and tennis matches between past and present pupils which had taken place during the year. At the close of the dinner a business meeting was held to elect the president and committee for the ensuing year. Miss B. Vickery was appointed president, Miss L. Spalding corresponding secretary, Miss E. Walton recording secretary, and Miss O. Pauss treasurer.

A matinee in aid of the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children will be given at the Tivoli Theatre on Tuesday next, October 21, when, for the first time in Australia, the play of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" will be performed by a number of children, whose ages range from 6 to 15 years. Much interest is being taken in the matinee, and a large attendance is anticipated.

MILLIONS CLUB.

IMPORTATION OF DOMESTICS.

MR. GRIFFIN ENTERTAINED.

Yesterday afternoon at Farmer's, Pitt-street, Mr. W. B. Griffin, of Chicago, designer of the Federal Capital, was a guest at the monthly dinner of the Millions Club, which was presided over by the president, Mr. Arthur Rickard.

Before introducing Mr. Griffin, the chairman announced, amidst great applause, that Sir George Reid, High Commissioner had accepted an invitation to be present at the next dinner. He then referred to the growing need for domestic servants, and stated that the council of the club would propose that, if ladies who desired domestics to be brought out from great Britain, would put down a sum of money, the club would enlist the sympathetic interest of Mr. Percy Hunter and, through him, the Government of New South Wales. Those who paid the most towards the cost of importation could, perhaps, be allowed choice of selection.

Mr. Rickard, in proposing the toast of the guest, said it was due to Mr. George Taylor, one of the club members, that the Federal Government had been successful in getting Mr. Griffin to come back and carry his design into effect. (Applause.) He referred to the need for a new State Building Act.

Mr. Sydney Jones, president of the Institute of Architects, hoped Mr. Griffin would see the satisfactory solution of his design. As to the necessity for a new building Act, the architects had been agitating for such legislation for many years and he could not understand why they had not been successful.

Mr. Griffin, responding to the toast (which was enthusiastically received) was careful not to touch on his part in the affairs of the Commonwealth, except to say that, in matters of design, he was largely assisted by his wife—whom he intended bringing to Australia. (Applause.) The name "Millions Club" made him feel at home on account of its American significance. He thanked the club for the cordiality of the welcome extended to him.

Mr. T. Henley, M.L.A., disagreed with those who said Sydney was 20 years behind the times, and referred to the architecture of the city and suburbs.

A voice: What about the Post Office?

Mr. Henley: Never mind the Post Office. Look at the building we are in to-day. He went on to say that he had, years ago, acted in conjunction with architects and introduced a Building Act which, however, had got no further than the first reading stage.

THE UNDER-GRADS.

SUCCESSFUL GARDEN PARTY.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

The ladies' court at the University presented an animated appearance yesterday, on the occasion of a garden party, given by the Sydney University Undergraduates' Association. The weather could not have been more delightful had the undergraduates had the power of choosing. The lawns were gay with bunting, while a band supplied selections of music.

Three hundred or more visitors were received at the porch by the president of the association, Mr. Eric Barber. The chief guests of the afternoon were the Chancellor, Sir Normand McLaurin, the Vice-Chancellor his Honor Judge Backhouse, the members of the Senate, and the professorial staff.

The principal interest centred in the mixed doubles tennis championship of the University, although the courts certainly bore a somewhat deserted appearance, about 4 o'clock, while Professor David gave a lecture on a series of slides taken by the Mawson expedition. The chemical and physical laboratories were open to inspection, and demonstrations were given. Tea was served in the great hall.

The secretaries were Mr. H. A. Henry and Mr. N. M. Gregg.

The tennis championship was won by Miss McDonald and Mr. J. R. Barriskill, with 4 sets 33 games, while Miss Lloyd and Mr. N. M. Gregg were runners-up, with 4 sets 28 games.

Following were the scores:—

J. R. Barriskill and Miss McDonald v C. J. Tozer and Miss Perry, 6-3, 4-6.

J. R. Barriskill and Miss McDonald v N. M. Gregg and Miss Lloyd, 6-1, 3-6.

J. R. Barriskill and Miss McDonald v L. C. Terry and Miss Newbery, 6-5, 6-4.

N. M. Gregg and Miss Lloyd v L. C. Terry and Miss Newbery, 3-6, 6-1.

L. C. Terry and Miss Newbery v C. J. Tozer and Miss Perry, 6-2, 6-2.

N. M. Gregg and Miss Lloyd v C. J. Tozer and Miss Perry, 6-2, 6-2.

COST OF LIVING.

RENTS AND AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Justice Heydon yesterday continued his inquiry into the cost of living.

Mr. Bevan appeared for the Crown, to represent the interests of the general public; Mr. Rolin, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, Messrs. Read and Read, and Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co.), for the Employers' Federation; and Mr. M. Connington for the Union Secretaries' Association.

Mr. Trivett, Government Statistician, said he would obtain certain quotations for the purposes of comparison, more especially in regard to milk and dairy produce.

The whole of the sitting was spent in consideration of affidavits from a number of country bakers and butchers, giving the prices of bread and meat, and submitting the accounts, weekly and monthly, of a number of workmen. The affidavits regarding bread showed that a widow with seven children averaged 21 loaves a week, at a cost of 6s 1½d, whilst a labourer and his wife took six loaves a week at a cost of 1s 9d. In another instance a railway employee, his wife, and three children, averaged eight loaves a week, for 2s 4d. In meat, six people had lived on 5s worth of meat a week, nine people had averaged 7s a week, whilst one instance was cited of four people averaging 3s a week.

A number of affidavits were submitted showing the average rentals in the country towns. A land and estate agent at Albury stated it was impossible to get houses for labourers there. He could have let ten houses at 12s 6d had they been available. A fair average rental for a workman's cottage at Albury would be 12s. The average rentals in other country towns were cheaper than at Albury. In Bathurst, for instance, three rooms and a kitchen could be got for 6s, four rooms and a kitchen for 9s, 10s, and 11s. At Coff's Harbour and Blayney they were even cheaper.

Mr. Rolin said he proposed to tender a return showing the average attendances at the various theatres and places of amusement in Sydney and the suburbs.

Mr. Connington: You are not including picture shows?

Mr. Rolin: I am referring to every one.

His Honor: As the theatres have a cheap price of admission, will you show that also?

Mr. Rolin: The return will give the names of the theatres, the seating accommodation, the prices, and the average attendances. The return was compiled by the police authorities. We wrote the Inspector-General of Police, who got the returns from the Under-Secretary administering the department.

His Honor: You are presenting this return to show the state of prosperity of the community?

Mr. Rolin: Yes. We say that through the improved wages, members of the community are spending some of their money in amusements.

Mr. Connington: It will be necessary to give the population in each centre.

His Honor: Yes; that will be necessary.

Mr. Rolin: Mr. Trivett has given us the population in each area.

Mr. Connington: You cannot charge the amount spent in the Metropolitan area to the people living in that area. As a matter of fact, I know of instances where children were admitted into picture shows on the presentation of so many bottles. (Laughter.) I am serious.

Mr. Rolin: That is surely a merry-go-round. It was so in my boyhood time.

The return presented showed the average attendances at each place of amusement in Sydney and the suburbs, sports grounds, cricket grounds, theatres, and picture shows.

His Honor: Is that return comparative with the average attendances of, say, 10 years ago?

Mr. Rolin: No, your Honor.

His Honor: The fullness of places of amusement is a sign of general prosperity.

A series of affidavits were tendered, showing the amounts spent in amusements in the country districts.

The inquiry was further adjourned.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT OF CITIES.

(BY J. D. FITZGERALD, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.)

III.

THE ITALIAN CITIES.

The Italian cities have a double lesson to teach Australians. In them what is admirable and worthy of imitation jostles with some shocking things which are to be avoided. For example, the opening out of their once crowded slums into splendid avenues would be a pattern to Sydney, Brisbane, and Newcastle. The enterprise of the few, which has been engaged in transforming the site plan of all the large Italian cities and modernising the services, must be contrasted with the lack of civic sense which is still proof against expectoration bylaws and food and health laws of the most elementary character. The progress made in the 22 years' period which has elapsed since my first acquaintance with Italian cities has been astounding. Each of the great cities has a score of improvements which must add to the comfort and the health of the citizens in an immeasurable degree. Rome and Naples have been radically changed, in most instances for the better, in a few for the worse. The value of many of the changes in these cities is a matter for dispute; but of the general progress nothing but praise can be given. A good deal of Milan has been reshaped and rebuilt; the streets have been "gardenised," splendid parks have been laid out and developed. The fine symmetrical plan of Turin has been continued. The changes in Rome are of more doubtful merit. The opening of new streets and broad, straight avenues in place of the narrow tortuous ravines between shabby seven-story houses must be praised; but the new buildings in these streets are no great credit to the architectural taste of the community. While, in Milan, a beautiful type of residential apartment house has been built by the thousand—ornate and convenient, capable of floral decoration—the new Roman streets have been filled by blocks of solid square stone structures, which have the appearance of huge packing-cases standing up on end.

In all the main Italian cities there have been wonderful improvements in the means of communication. The fine broad thoroughfares which have been opened up allow space for excellent electric tramways. Seeing these, I am more confirmed in my opinion that fixed tram lines in cities are undesirable, save only in the widest streets. The problem of communication in Naples, a difficult one, owing to the city being built on the sides of several steep hills leading to a high mountain plateau, has been to a great extent solved by the electric tramway system. This gives easy access to quarters such as the Vomera, on the plateau near the St. Martino and the St. Elmo (which all travellers will remember), and there the municipality of Naples has planned, and to some extent carried out, a model city, which is a credit to their official planners.

An endeavour to estimate the general advance of the spirit of citizenship in Italy during the interval mentioned, will lead to disappointment. Instead of self-reliant, capable municipal bodies, we find in the civic rulers a feeble shirking of responsibilities which are easily assumed in all the countries to the north. Services which elsewhere are almost invariably in the hands of the citizens themselves, being in their nature monopolies, are, in Italy, "farmed out." In most of the world's greatest cities the municipal councils are the purveyors of gas, water, electric, and tram services. The citizen service does not seek profit, and the benefits are distributed to the consumer and the ratepayer. Not so in Italy. In Naples one French company has a monopoly of electric lighting, and power service. Another French company has a monopoly of the water supply. It is a remarkably good supply, one of the best water supplies in the world, drawn from cool, pure mountain springs. It is mainly responsible for the reduction of the notoriously high Neapolitan death-rate, and for the stamping out of the cholera. But the Neapolitan citizen will tell you of its dearness when praising its purity. He has his joke on it. "Wine is cheaper than water in Naples," he says. Then, again, the company unduly restricts the quantity of water used by the citizens for private consumption, and by the municipality for public use. Of the effect of the first of these restrictions, there is no record. One can only conjecture the result upon the corporate cleanliness and sanitation. But in the latter instance, the evil result is estimable, even by the casual traveller. The restriction of the water supply in Naples, a city the climate of which in summer is hotter than Adelaide, Sydney, or Brisbane, has a detrimental effect upon the streets, which are not competently cleansed. Business men in our own Australian cities know the detriment to fabrics which a dusty condition of the streets brings. The sanitarian recognises the bad effect of it upon public health. In Naples in the hot summer the parks and foliage suffer; and this is a pity, as the city has made some fine efforts in the way of street and park gardening.

In the Italian cities the Australian traveller first comes in touch with the curious street pavement consisting of stone cubes, a pavement of immemorial use, as it may be seen in the buried city of Pompeii. This stone cube pavement is in use throughout Europe, including the largest cities of Britain. It is only being discarded in the most progressive cities. In all the Italian cities the streets are paved with different sized stone cubes. In Naples they are large, as large as a building stone. In Rome also the large cubes are in use. Further north, in the Swiss cities, such as Zurich, and Lucerne, and the German cities, Ulm and Stuttgart the cubes are smaller, also in Brussels, Antwerp, Paris, and in some parts of London and New York. Civic progress is invariably fostered by the change to a concrete formation, then to that formation with a special asphalte surface dressing, and last of all, and nearest to perfection, to our Australian system of close-laid hardwood cubes, dressed with tar or asphalte. That is the nearest thing to a dustless street that I have seen yet. The broadest and finest of the Roman and Neapolitan streets are spoiled by these huge cubes, which, even when composed of tufa rock, soon sink or wear into ruts. A wheeled vehicle clattering over these creates a nerve-shattering noise. When I asked a distinguished Italian public official why they did not adopt wood-paving, he replied that the objection was that horses fell down on the blocks. I call any traveller to witness that he has seen more fallen horses in a stone-cube street in a day than he would see in a wood-blocked street in a year. In Milan and even more so in comparatively hilly Rome and extremely hilly Naples, the fallen horse is a common sight.

So far the defects of Italian civic government have been dealt with, not captiously, but in order to furnish our Australian cities with an object lesson of what to avoid. One might couple with the absence of a civic sense, or of a civic education, which sanctions general expectoration everywhere, even in the sacred edifices, in the streets, arcades, trains, and trams. It is true that there are notices imploring the citizens "for the sake of hygiene and decency" not to spit. But this appeal to the hygienic sense is invariably disregarded. In this respect the Italians are a contrast to the Swiss, the Germans, and the British. The German carries the idea [illegible] that the city is as much the home of the citizen as his own house, and he would as soon think of expectorating in a street, a tram, or a public garden, as in his own drawing-room. London is, in this respect, one of the best of the world's cities.

The last phase of this slight and imperfect study of Italian cities and citizenship is one upon which no observer could stint his praise. It is in regard to civic decoration in the parks, public monuments, fountains, especially the fountains. European cities teem with fountains. It is a feature of combined utility and ornament which must instantly strike Australians. For our cities have few fountains, and those small and insignificant. Why? This is a defect which should be systematically remedied. Our water supplies are as abundant as those of the Italian cities, our sense of artistic effect is not inferior; we pride ourselves often that our sense of citizenship is as fine, our ideals as noble, our methods as perfect as those of any other nationality. Indeed, we have a school in every Australian city which, like Dr. Pangloss, would claim that our Australian method of governing cities by fragments is the best of systems in the best of worlds, yet we have neglected the noblest way of beautifying a city. There is not, to my knowledge, with us anything equal to that splendid fountain in the Piazza di Termini, Rome, or even to the little "boat" fountain in the Piazza di Spagna; to the fountains of the Piazza Navona; or to the fountains of Trevi; or the two splendid jets of water in the square of St. Peter's Cathedral. The smallest public garden in the European, and especially the Italian cities, is adorned with fountains, whose gushing waters, in the hot days, are an inspiring sight. All three of the Italian cities specially considered in this article are lavishly supplied with fountains.

MODERN ROUMANIA.

(BY W. H. EDWARDES.)

Roumania is a land emerging from the romantic to the practical. The few coast towns are already westernised, and if you visit Ploesti, the centre of the oil-drilling industry, the same change is taking place. Here you will find a most cosmopolitan population. Side by side with white smocked peasants, in charge of ox-carts from the country, barefooted in summer and jackbooted in winter, one sees burly men, whose accent proclaims their American nationality, and men of athletic build, whose appearance and language bears the English stamp. The former are oil drillers, brought from many spheres of practical experience. Japan, Burmah, Mexico, to say nothing of Pennsylvania and California, have been the theatres of their labour and successes, and now Roumania, the last of the oil lands to be exploited, has attracted them as a field for further enterprise and more experience. Good, jovial men they are, who know how to work and how to play, and likewise pay. Like the Californian miners of '49, they work hard at their calling, and are just as free with money when they come to town. The English are practically all associated with one or other of the great oil companies, but, without practical experience of drilling for oil, they serve as superintendents of the fields, or occupy positions in the offices in or near Ploesti. Roumanians of the educated class, professional men, agents, and clerks, frequent the same thoroughfares, and dine at the same cafes; urbane, polite, and smiling, and military officers by the score, equally polite but dignified withal, gorgeously uniformed, whose approach is announced by the clanking of sabres and the jingling of spurs, are much in evidence. Turning aside from the main streets into more or less deserted roads you find a Roumanian girl tending a buffalo while it takes its meal from the grass growing beside the side-walk, and you stumble upon small cafes in obscure corners, where Turks, Armenians, wanderers from Bulgaria, refugee-looking nondescripts, and work-shy Roumanians, take their coffee at out-of-door tables, and, smoking cigarettes of native tobacco, talk over what should be done, and leave others to do it.

But though life in Ploesti is endurable, it is not attractive. The inhabitants attract one, but do not charm, but the peasant from the country does. Connection with a town makes him more or less of a rogue, a development not confined to Roumania, but he is always a genial and never a surly rogue. In his summer attire of white smock or shirt, worn outside, with his broad and gaudily-coloured sash or belt, in which he carries a knife, only used for cutting his bread or something wherewith to repair his ox-harness, his tobacco-box, and any papers he may have; tight-fitting trousers, made of native flannel-like material; and, on feast days, of which there are many, a smart jacket like the Biblical Joseph's coat "of many colours," with sun-bronzed face, expressive Oriental eyes (for these people are semi-Oriental), and perfect white teeth, he is good to look at as a specimen of manhood not yet spoiled by over-civilisation. He is unreliable, for the shifty characteristics of all who have been in subjection to the Turk are not yet eradicated. If you engage him to transport your baggage to the mountains, 20, 30, or 40 kilometres away, he will undertake the task, and solemnly assure you that he will complete it by nightfall, and when you follow later on you will see, as like as not, your goods and chattels on the verandah of some wayside village inn or at some peasant's gate, or sometimes in the village official's yard, and no one knows where "Giorgi" is to be found. Sympathising peasants will explain that there was a wedding or a christening, and he, no doubt, rested and stayed for that, or maybe it was the feast of Saint George next day or the day after, and no "Giorgi" could be expected to neglect the Testival or work until it was over; and when at last "Giorgi" does turn up, as he always does, sooner or later, with all your possessions with which you have entrusted him, mud-stained but intact, and when he explains how he was taken ill, or how a relative had suddenly died, and so he was detained, and when you tell him how he had really passed the time, he laughs with eyes and mouth as at a splendid joke, and, cap in hand, asks your forgiveness in such a way that it disarms hostility, and makes you laugh, too, at the audacity of the delinquent teamster.

The next time you see Giorgi he is in different guise. He has no oxen with him, and has exchanged his ox-whip for a stick, and carries a bundle in his hand. His feet are shod in buskins, made of untanned cowskin, worn sandalwise, and secured over the instep by leathern thongs. He has a rose coquettishly tucked behind his ear, and the invariable cigarette in his mouth. He tells you that he has been called upon to join the army on mobilisation, and is going to fight either his hereditary enemy, the Turk, or his whilom friends, the Bulgarian. It matter not which. And when you express the wish "Sa vi sanatos—"may you come back safe"—and give him a couple of francs for God-speed, he says, "Many thanks, my lord" (the literal translation of the term he uses when addressing you). He adds: "May you live long;" and so we part, and if Giorgi falls a victim to cholera or a Bulgarian bayonet the world has lost a merry rogue.

The peasant who lives upon the land takes life more seriously. He is a hard worker. At daybreak he goes out to his few-acre plot, and carries with him a hunk of coffee-coloured bread, a handful of olives, onions, or garlic and works until sundown. He does not exactly "scorn delights and live laborious days." His life is full of labour, but his delight is in his work and its results. At nightfall he comes home, and takes his evening meal of mamaliga, a stiff porridge made of maize meal, and iauart, sour milk churned to a thick consistency, and, perhaps, a little native cheese equally sour, with black bread. On this he thrives. But on great festivals, like Christmas or New Year's Day, he indulges in roasted sucking pig, turkey, or goose, and makes merry with his friends. He is jealous of his privileges, and intolerant of trespass or intrusion on his land. And he is right. But if you ask permission to visit or cross his property he will give you permission with all courtesy, and even show you the way. He, too, comes up to join the Army, for the order for mobilisation has been issued, and so, leaving his farm to the care of his wife, and the very old and very young in his district, with grim face and stout heart, he comes in to exchange his smock for uniform, and do his country's service.

Roumania is essentially romantic. What other land can boast of a literal Queen of Song? Was it not Transylvania, once Roumanian, now under the tutelage of Austria, but Roumanian still in language, race, and sentiment, that Anthony Hope chose as the scene for his well-known novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda"? And he put the local colour on with a faithful hand. Romance lingers longest round mountains, and requires space, like human beings, to thrive. The slow-moving oxen, deprived of sentiment themselves, may inspire it, and among the Roumanian peasantry are often the "friends of the family," from the father to the grandchild. Small children learn to tend them, and commence to bully them as soon as they can walk, and lavish terms of endearment or reproach as they think they deserve. Sentiment goes out with the steam plough. So the order for mobilisation could not be carried out in cold, conventional Western fashion. It was arranged to be put into effect at midnight. And so all inhabitants sat up, or lay awake, until the ringing of church bells, the blaring of trumpets, and the march of cheering crowds proclaimed that what had already been arranged had come to pass.

Travelling in Roumania, except by railroad, is not a luxury. In most cases your driver is a gipsy. He owns sorry steeds and a ramshackle conveyance, necessitating many stops to tie up broken harness with string, or adjust the tyres, disgusted by proximity with wood, and anxious to sever the connection with a stone. He is an outcast and knows it, and not many years ago was little better than a serf. To-day he has no civic rights, but still has to do army service. He uses his whip too often on his horses and makes rude and unprintable references to their ancestry, by way of stimulating them to further effort. When he has earned a few francs he ceases work, and lies in the sun or sleeps in the shade, and, by way of diversion, visits your hen roost. His race furnish Roumania with musicians, who charm with wild, barbaric, but perfect, music. The people will tell you that a gipsy child, in its cradle, has a coin on one side and a violin on the other. Whichever attracts it foreshadows the future. It will either develop thieving or musical instincts.

Roumania or Romania, as it is called here, was once a Roman outpost against the fierce, half wild tribes of western Europe, and subsequently a settlement where Rome, when ruler of Egypt and mistress of Carthage, sent her convicts, and later on her prisoners of war. The Roumanian of to-day in feature in Latin and not Slav.

As I write the sun beats down upon grapevines, the million olive trees which clothe the foothills of the Carpathian Mountains, and the maize fields. Happy Roumania, with its productive land, its patriotic people, and its virile peasantry, which are, or should be, the backbone of any nation, its constitutional king, who knows how to interpret his people's wishes, and its freedom for the well disposed, and suppression for the ill-doer.

TROUT.

BROWN OR RAINBOW.

It is a very considerable time since any brown trout (Salmo fario) were liberated in the waters of New South Wales, preference having been given, and very advisedly, to the rainbow (S. irideus), which is a far hardier fish, more easily acclimatised in Australian waters, and better beyond comparison as a sporting fish. It is well known that the rainbow trout will fight to the finish, and many a good one has been lost owing to the over-eager angler trying too soon to introduce the gaff or net, believing the apparently exhausted fish to be incapable of further effort. In one respect, and one only, the brown trout has the advantage, and that is in his gastronomic qualities—his flesh is superior to that of the rainbow trout, being less dry and of richer flavour.

The restocking with rainbow trout (Salmo irideus) is, of course, continued year after year, until recently, with fry from eggs hatched at Prospect from our own tame trout, and from ova brought from New Zealand. This method has been improved on by Mr. D. G. Stead, who has made arrangements whereby wild acclimatised trout are caught in our rivers and stripped of their eggs on the bank. This will be an improvement in more ways than one—fresh blood will be introduced, close breeding will be avoided, and as the eggs of a half-pound healthy trout are just as likely to produce 10-pounders as the eggs of large fish, the advantage will be noticed in a very short time. The rainbow trout varies very little in colour in our streams, those lying in the shade look dark in the water, those out on the gravelly reaches and ripples are like bars of burnished silver, greenish on the back, but ever with the beautiful "rainbow" streak in varying shades from pale pink to vermillion. Occasionally a red splash will appear on the throat of the rainbow, which has given some of the species the name of "cut-throat" trout. We have found it in our own waters, but the fish were rainbow trout. Some have most beautifully coloured fins, shaded from deep dark brownish green to crimson, and never was this so noticeable as on our last trip, when all in the party were forcibly struck by and repeatedly remarked it.

While the brown trout's movements are somewhat deliberate, those of the rainbow are rapid and determined, leaving no doubt as to the intentions of the fish. Frequently noticing a tempting fly drifting past on the current, a rainbow will be seen to dart from the depths, seize it, and as quickly return to his former position; this is very often the cause of his downfall, as in turning to descend he hooks himself, which the brown trout seldom does. The rush of the hooked irideus is something grand, his leaps from the water truly marvellous, and the vision of a 4 or 5 lb rainbow trout making a succession of frantic bounds into the air in the endeavour to escape sends a thrill through the angler. This is the fish which calls for all the angler's skill; a slight error of judgment in playing him means trouble, and as rush after rush and leap after leap are made onlookers may well wonder how the gossamer gut cast can possibly stand the strain. Time after time the fish is brought almost to the gaff, as often to break away again, until when finally landed he is more dead than alive. No wonder such prices as prevail in the old world are paid for the right to fish trout-stocked waters. Once the "microbe" get a hold, the most listless individual becomes an ardent enthusiast, and every available holiday is spent on the stream.

The question of the brown trout ousting the rainbow or vice versa is one which has exercised the minds of English writers for many years. All sorts of experiments have been made with varying results—some investigators say the irideus hunts the fario, and soon takes complete possession—others aver that the fario can keep the upper hand, and will in a very few years exterminate the rainbow trout. On this subject Australians cannot claim Australian experience; we have waters, the Upper Murrumbidgee for instance, wherein the rainbow and brown trout thrive side by side. The former are the more numerous, no doubt because their introduction was followed repeatedly by fresh consignments of fry, while very few brown trout were put in. The Snowy is another stream where fario are often caught, although rainbows are in an overwhelming majority.

A correspondent had an opportunity last season of watching closely the relative forces in attack and resistance of these two species in one of the Monaro streams, where the original introduction of trout was made some 25 years ago, a consignment of brown trout fry having been liberated there. In the river there are several stretches of water which appear to contain only brown trout. One such place is a pool about a hundred yards in length, overhung in parts with tea-tree, and having several big rocks protruding from 10 to 15 feet of water. For the most part the surface of the pool is covered with weeds with open patches between, and is clear as crystal, the bottom at the deepest part being clearly visible from the high bank, or from the rocks referred to. A narrow stream separates this pool from another—smaller and less accessible, in which rainbow trout are often caught. Our correspondent had the good fortune to hook a heavy rainbow trout in the smaller pool, and it darted down stream through the narrow channel, into the large weedy pool, when much to his surprise a large fish swam out from the shelter of the weeds, and chased the hooked rainbow round and round, as he fought with the angler for his liberty. It was a long fight, as the tackle was fine and the hook very small, and the captive was followed almost to the net by his pursuer, which could be clearly seen; it was a brown trout of probably 5 or 6 lb weight.

The rainbow trout weighed 6½lb. Discussing the matter with a couple of residents who witnessed the occurrence, they remarked that they had known for years that rainbow trout were very scarce (if any at all) in the larger pool, and pointed out another pool, where neither of them had ever caught other than brown trout.

The writer had last season an opportunity for carrying on the investigation where the correspondent had left off, and took up a position, in company with a comrade, overhanging the water, whence, while enjoying a smoke, the pool could be watched. Looking down into the water quite a number of S. fario could be seen cruising around—each seemed to have a regular "beat," going so far and no farther. Occasionally a great mouth would open, and at intervals a fish would dart on some minute object invisible to the watchers above. Fully an hour was spent watching the fish with keenest interest; then with great care a tiny black hackle fly was dropped on the water right on the "beat" of a big fario. He came upwards to inspect it, then dropped down again and continued his cruise. The fly was quickly changed for a small "cocky" which had previously been well soaked. This fell just where desired, and slowly sank. As the fish approached on his round of the "beat" a very slight movement of the rod point agitated the hackles of the fly, the great mouth opened, and the fly disappeared—the fish had taken it "in his stride" (a rainbow would have rushed it). The fight this fario put up was poor; a 1lb irideus would have shown more courage. The fish was carefully lifted out in a landing-net and taken round the back of the rocks, then placed in the water at the head of the pool where the rainbow was caught by our correspondent some months previously. A good hold of his jaw was secured with a larger hook. After a few minutes the fario swam out, the slack line trailing behind. Peering over the rocks he could be seen travelling slowly down stream. Suddenly from somewhere out of vision a big rainbow trout flashed across the pool and charged down on the brown trout. His rush to get away from it was far stronger and longer than his "fight" when hooked. Reaching the shallow channel which connected the two pools, the rainbow trout turned back and disappeared under the weeds. The brown trout weighed 6¼lb.

The above does not prove anything, but it seems to show that a feud exists between fario and irideus; or it may be that, in both the experience of our correspondent and this writer, the hooked fish merely trespassed on the domains of others, whence the proprietor hustled him, as it is of course well known that the largest and strongest trout in a pool takes up his fancy position and keeps all and sundry from encroaching thereon. The probable reason of the ultimate extermination of the brown trout, which appears to be gradually taking place in our waters, is in the fact that the brown trout spawns earlier than the rainbow, and in the ordinary course of nature both make use of the same spawning grounds. The brown trout make their redds some weeks before the rainbow commences spawning, and the eggs are therefore considerably advanced towards hatching point when the rainbows come along. The latter selects, perhaps, the identical spot where a fario deposited her eggs, and scoops out with body, nose, and tail a hollow for her own spawn, scattering that of the brown trout far and wide. Some is carried away by the current, devoured by other fishes, aquatic insects, crayfish, etc., some is covered with silt and destroyed, and the consequent hatching is therefore reduced enormously, possibly not one egg in five thousand producing a fish that will reach maturity; hence it was a wise move on the part of the fisheries branch to discontinue stocking with brown trout streams which have proved themselves admirably suitable for rainbows.

IN THE GARDEN.

ANNUAL OR CHINA ASTERS.

Amongst the numerous summer and autumn flowering annuals now in cultivation few are more highly prized or more popular than the many beautiful varieties of the China aster. The colours are as varied as the rainbow, and one of the more recently raised varieties, with yellow blooms, is a great acquisition. The newer creations consist of both dwarf (6in) and rather tall growing (2½ft) varieties, producing flower heads from three to four inches or more in diameter, the florets of many showing remarkable diversity and brilliant colouring. In the coast districts the first planting of asters may now be made, but in colder parts the planting should be deferred until towards the end of next month. Asters thrive in deeply-worked, light, rich loam, in a fairly open situation, protected from prevailing winds. The taller and more robust varieties should be planted 24in apart, and the dwarf-growing ones 9in. China asters are surface-rooting plants, and will be greatly benefited by a good mulching of decomposed manure. In order to obtain first-class results the plants must receive copious supplies of water at the roots, and frequent hosing of the foliage during dry, hot weather. As soon as the flower heads begin to expand the overhead watering must be discontinued. If the blooms are removed as soon as they begin to wither the flowering period will be considerably prolonged.

HARDY BEGONIAS.

Begonia gracilis (slender) is a Mexican plant, and B. semperflorens (always flowering), a Brazilian species, and their varieties are dwarf, compact growing plants, with distinctive foliage, and produce a profusion of lovely pink, red, scarlet, and white flowers during the warmer months. The suitability of the Australian climate for these hardy begonias has been proved, and no dwarf perennial plants introduced during recent years are more adapted for growing in masses or are more easily cultivated. In the coast districts it is a good time to plant these begonias, but in the cooler parts the planting had better not be done until November. They thrive in well-worked, deep, friable, fairly rich soil, in a sunny position, sheltered from southerly and north-westerly winds. When grown in a bed by themselves, or in rows, they should be planted from 9in to 15in apart, according to the vigour of the variety. In the cooler districts these begonias are essentially summer and early autumn flowering plants, and will require protection during the colder months.

Well sheltered, partially shaded positions in the coast districts are ideal places to grow the so-called tree begonias, which may now be planted. These really handsome plants, which usually grow from eight to twelve feet high, produce a very fine and picturesque effect when in bloom. To attain perfection, established plants should be well nourished at the roots, and receive occasional supplies of water in dry hot weather. Each plant should be trained and firmly tied to a neat stake or other support to keep it upright. Amongst the best are Begonia corallina, with large, smooth leaves, green on the upper and purple on the under side, and numerous bright coral-red flowers; B. fuchsioides, with pendulous branching stems, carrying a profusion of deep scarlet flowers; B. ingrami, a stately plant, freely producing flowers of a delicate pink colour; B. nitida, with large, shining leaves, and deep rose-coloured flowers; and B. undulata, with green leaves and clusters of pure white flowers.

NOTES.

If any rose bushes are affected with mildew they should receive immediate attention. The amateur may easily recognise this parasitic fungus by a whitish appearance on the succulent stems and young leaves. The mildew can be kept in subjection by dusting the affected parts whilst wet with dew with flowers of sulphur. If many roses have to be treated, it will expedite matters if the sulphur is applied with a pair of sulphur bellows, otherwise the remedy can be distributed through a fine muslin bag.

Hardly fuchsias that are well established in the borders are now flowering most profusely, and they can be kept for some time in that condition if the plants are well mulched with some rich material and watered at the roots, and occasionally overhead, in dry weather. Those that have been recently planted should have their leading growths tied to neat stakes to keep them upright.

Seed of Ipomoea versicolor, or, as it is sometimes called, Mina lobata, may now be sown in situ in the warmer and more favoured districts. The Canary creeper, Tropaeolum canariense, is another annual that is admirably suited for training over trellis work. This plant does better in the cooler than in the warmer districts.

More seeds of summer and autumn flowering annuals may now be sown to provide plants for succession. Seedlings raised from previously sown seed should, as soon as they are strong enough to bear transplanting, be transferred to the positions where they are to flower.

Old worn-out stock plants, that have ceased flowering, should be pulled up and removed to the rubbish-heap, except those that are being grown for seed. Similar remarks apply to other early spring flowering annuals and biennials. The ground they occupied, if not fertile, should be manured and deeply worked, and brought to a good tilth, so as to be in first-class condition to receive other plants.

FRUIT GARDEN.

Young fruit trees that are tied to stakes should occasionally be examined, and where the ties are loose they should be tightened, to prevent the trees being blown about by the wind. Where the ties are pressing too tightly on the developing stem and bark they should be slackened. Then attend to the young growths, and where they are too crowded carefully and judiciously thin out the weaker and superfluous ones, and train the remaining ones to form symmetrical heads. In the western country, and on dry soils generally, the young trees will not suffer so much from dryness at the roots during the hotter months if a good mulch of some half-decayed vegetable matter is placed round them, but the trunk must be left quite free.

If aphis becomes troublesome on peach or other stone fruit trees, lose no time in spraying them with some reputable insecticide, repeating the operation in a few days if necessary. This pest, if permitted to multiply, will cause injury to the foliage, and jeopardise the crop.

If young trees are carrying too much fruit, thin it liberally out while still small, then that which remains will develop into much finer samples. Moreover, the health and vigour of the young trees will be preserved. Older trees that are likely to be overburdened with fruit will produce much finer samples by receiving similar attention.

Grape vines trained on wire fences or on trellis work should receive occasional attention. As soon as the shoots lengthen they should be tied to the wires or other supports to prevent injury from winds. When each shoot has developed two or three leaves beyond the future bunch the leader should be pinched out, and the subsequent lateral shoots kept well shortened. If oidium, or vine mildew, appears on the leaves, lose no time in applying the universal remedy—flowers of sulphur—to the affected parts. Should caterpillars become troublesome on grape vines, devouring or otherwise disfiguring the leaves, use one of the well-known remedies to keep them in subjection, if not extirpate them entirely.

At this season a number of weakly and superfluous shoots often develop from the base of the permanent plants (stools) of raspberries, but they should be cut out, leaving only five or six young canes to produce next year's crop. Doing this now will benefit this season's fruiting canes, and, all other things being equal, will result in a much finer crop.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The Real Estate Market has been active this week, but there has been an absence of any sales of large properties. Two city investments were submitted by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman at their weekly sale. One was in Pitt-street, near Market-street, for which £25,000 was offered. The other was in York-street, for which the highest bid was £15,000. In both cases the property was passed in for private treaty, and as the offers were within the vicinity of the reserves it is possible that a sale may be effected in at least one case.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, at their weekly sale yesterday, disposed of several properties at Darlington, for each of which there was brisk bidding. Two dwellings in Cleveland-street realised £800, a dwelling in Darlington-road was sold for £425, a dwelling in Alma-street changed hands at £690, and a cottage at Hurstville was sold for £185.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman this week completed a number of contracts. Two residences and grounds at McMahon's Point were sold for £4000, and a residence and grounds in Gilbert-street, Manly, brought £2300. A block of land at Randwick was sold at £5 foot. A house in Paul-street, North Sydney, changed hands at £825. Land at Pymble realised 37s 6d per foot; at Ryde it was sold for 25s and 26s per foot; and at Beecroft buyers were found at 35s per foot.

Messrs. Stanton and Son had a successful week. They disposed of Windradine, a residence and grounds at Hunter's Hill, for £2150; at Haberfield the first sold two residences at £900 each, another at £1185 and one at £995. In Summer Hill a large block of land and a weatherboard residence in Edward-street changed hands at £1275, and a cottage in Liberty-street, Burwood, was sold for £363.

Property is selling well in Marrickville and Dulwich Hill. Mr. R. R. Evans reports having sold eight properties in this district, from £200 to £800 each, the whole realising [illegible].

Amongst the sales by Mr. W. F. Kay this week, was Mr. Martin's property of 52 acres, known as Sherwood Grange, Sherwood. Various allotments on the Loscoe Park Estate at Fairfield, Mr. Fitzherbert's residence at Smithfield, and a number of poultry farms.

During the week 117 acres of land at Bankstown, adjoining the railway line, changed hands for subdivision purposes at £47 per acre.

The sale last Saturday of the first subdivision of the George Adams estate at Bulli drew a large number of district buyers. The bidding was brisk from the start. Main road frontages brought 21s per foot, residential sites from 19s per foot, and garden blocks £37 10s per half-acre. Fifty-two lots were disposed of out of the 62 listed by the auctioneer, Mr. H. F. Cotterell, who reports sales up to £1848. Buyers were represented from Helensburgh to Kembla. Another district subdivision, Collaery's Branchfield Estate, held during the week, was all cleared but one lot. Frontages to main South Coast road averaged 20s 6d, and off main road from 14s per foot to 10s, minimum. Sale total, £940.

Next Saturday Mr. Cyrus Homersham will offer the Cameo subdivision at Hornsby. There are 24 fine building lots in this estate. The land is all meadow grass, water and gas available, and is within seven minutes of Hornsby and Waitara stations. This is about the last opportunity purchasers will have of securing well-situated building land on easy terms close to Hornsby and Waitara stations.

Messrs. Austin and Harrison will offer next Saturday a number of good blocks of land at Hunter's Hill, in Blaxland and Marr's streets, also in Kennedy and High streets, and the Strand, and also two choice water frontages, Baron's Crescent, near Fig Tree, opposite Mr. Gilkes' residence; also, on November 1, at Ryde, allotments in Ryde and Small streets; also water frontage in Parramatta River and Regent streets.

SUBDIVISION WORK.

LAST SATURDAY'S SALES.

The subdivision sales last Saturday afternoon were not quite as successful as on previous Saturdays, but when it is taken into consideration that the class of land offered was not as attractive as Northbridge and some of the other early sales proved to be, the results were most satisfactory. Messrs. Hardie and Gorman had a very successful sale at Hurstville of the Hillcrest Extension Estate. Of the 26 lots submitted, 16 were sold at prices varying from 19s to 53s per foot. The sale realised £1589.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench had three sales to conduct. One was at Liverpool, where 14 out of a catalogue of 20 lots of the Woolerina Estate were disposed of at prices ranging from 15s to 19s per foot. These were town lots, with a 40 feet frontage each. The sale totalled £369. The second sale by this firm was at Ermington, where a subdivision of the Willis Estate was submitted. The prices ranged from 14s to 25s per foot. Eleven lots were disposed of. The third sale was at Epping. This is a district that is making very steady headway. There is a good demand for land, and prices are steadily rising. On this occasion it was the Epping Forest Estate that was offered, portions of which were disposed of at prices ranging from 20s to £2 5s per foot. Altogether the sale realised £1294.

Messrs. Horning and Company disposed of several lots of the Cintra Estate at Burwood, at prices ranging from 70s per foot. Altogether £612 worth of the estate changed hands.

TO-DAY'S SALES.

The subdivision sales for this afternoon provide quite a choice of districts, and include several estates that ought to provide excellent sales. Isler Park Estate, on the main road between Hunter's Hill and Gladesville, is to be offered by Messrs. Henry F. Halloran and Co. The trams stop twice at the estate. This is good building land, and is supplied with city water and gas. The terms are easy, and, judging by the demand for lithographs, the sale ought to be well attended, and produce successful results.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have three sales booked for to-day. One is at Lakemba, where the Bates Hill Estate is to be offered. The land is at the junction of Canterbury-road and Canary's-road, handy to Lakemba station. The vendors are the Intercolonial Investment Land and Building Company. There are nearly 100 allotments to be sold on easy terms, with assistance to build, and buyers will be protected by a building covenant of £250. Lakemba bids fair to become a second Campsie. The progress which is being made along this Bankstown line is remarkable, and it is likely to continue.

The same firm will this afternoon offer the Austinlee Estate, at Burwood. The subdivision, which is opposite the Appian Way, comprises 106 splendid building allotments, between the Burwood and Croydon stations. There is a moderate building covenant.

The third sale this afternoon by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will be a small subdivision at Willoughby, of the Rosewall-street Subdivision. There are only nine allotments to offer. These have 40 feet frontage, and are in a good position. The tram to Chatswood passes the land. There is a building covenant for the protection of buyers.

Messrs. Raine and Horne have a sale this afternoon at "Scarboro,'" an estate at Lake Macquarie, one and a half mile from Morisset railway station. On this occasion every buyer is to get a water frontage, of which there are four miles in the subdivision. This sale has been attracting a good deal of attention, for it is said to be a splendid position for a week-end cottage. Swimming, sailing, rowing, riding, and shooting are the natural products of the place. Every fisherman knows that Lake Macquarie is one of his happy hunting grounds. The future of this district looks as bright as its neighbour across the river.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have a sale this afternoon of the Dover Heights Estate at Rose Bay. The estate overlooks Bellevue Hill, Woollahra Point, and the golf links; also a large stretch of the harbour from the Heads to Milson's Point, in addition to which it is only about four minutes' walk from the Dover-road section of the tram, which is the business centre of the district. To give some idea of the growth of this part of Sydney land at Dover-road was sold about three years ago at £5 per foot. The same land was recently sold at £14 per foot. There are now 50 allotments in the subdivision to be offered this afternoon.

Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves have their first subdivision sale of the season this afternoon, when they will submit the Alton Estate, Concord-road, which is a new railway station. The land is also easy of access to the tram. This splendid subdivision ought to sell well.

Those wishing to buy at Cronulla, which, in the opinion of many, is the Manly of the Illawarra district, will have an opportunity to do so this afternoon, when Mr. C. Monro will submit the Pick of Cronulla Estate. The name of the estate is sufficient to draw attention to its position, which is one of the best in this popular surf resort. It is an ocean frontage subdivision, comprising 36 choice and liberal lots, ranging up to 200 feet in depth. It is level and nicely grassed, with magnificent permanent uninterrupted views of the ocean, National Park, and Port Hacking.

SALES TO FOLLOW.

There are quite a number of sales set down for Saturday next. Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Company will offer the Plateau Estate at Lindfield. This affords a good chance for those who wish to lay the foundations of a home of their own. Lindfield is one of the cleanest, healthiest, and most picturesque suburbs on the Milson's Point line. It is a favourite spot with homeseekers, and has attracted a fine class of resident, and the buildings are in keeping with the locality. Lindfield is under half an hour from the city, and has a half-hour train service. Plateau Estate consists of a limited number of level homesites, about a mile from the station. As the name indicates, they occupy an elevated position, from which a good outlook is obtainable, extending right back to Sydney, and taking in splendid views of Middle Harbour and the main harbour itself. The lots average 66 feet frontage, and have a fine depth of some 250 feet.

Another sale next Saturday is by Messrs. Raine and Horne of the Linkmead Estate, near the Spit. This is an ideal spot for beautiful scenery, while for water attractions it stands well. The first subdivision of Linkmead Estate was one of the most successful of the season, only too well evidencing the rapid growth and progress of the Spit district. There is every indication that the second subdivision will prove as popular. Several of those who bought in the first subdivision only eight months ago have since resold at profits of 25 per cent. and upwards, others have refused similar offers, and are waiting for the big rise that will probably come.

A sale that is sure to prove attractive next Saturday will be by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench and Marshall and Dempster. It is the Hattersley Estate, between Strathfield and Homebush. The land fronts the Homebush and other roads, and is composed of fine residential building sites, with good frontages and exceptional depths. There are 44 of these lots. The estate adjoins the residence of Mr. J. M. Arnott. There has been a good demand for lithographs, and the sale ought to prove attractive.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will conduct a second sale next Saturday of the Darvall Estate, at Ryde. The land is quite close to the railway station. There is a building covenant to protect buyers, and no shops are to be erected. City water and gas are on the estate.

Hillier's Estate, at Rookwood, will form the third sale next Saturday, by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench. There are only 17 allotments in the estate to be submitted, which is on the route of the Potts Hill railway.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have a sale fixed for next Saturday on the heights of Canterbury, with splendid views over the surrounding country, and within easy walking distance of Canterbury railway station and the Undercliffe tram.

The same firm has a second sale fixed for next Saturday. It is the Winter Green Estate at Newport. The land is right opposite the town of Newport, a matter of seven minutes' row. There is plenty of fishing, surfing, etc. The estate consists of 6 acres of choice building land, divided into 29 highly suitable, week-end or permanent home allotments, placed on the market for the first time. Each lot is well cleared, and has sufficient fall for drainage purposes. A moderate building covenant of £200 will tend to keep the estate select.

Next Saturday, Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. will offer the Bayview Estate at Drummoyne. There are 35 good building lots, close to the tram, and in the heart of a popular residential suburb.

Mr. Crammond will next Saturday conduct a sale at Turramurra of the Hawarden Estate. These are splendid building allotments, each about 70ft x 220ft, convenient to the station. There is a good train service. This sale ought to prove attractive.

Messrs. Raine and Horne next Saturday will offer the Oates Estate at Deewhy. This land has direct access to Deewhy Beach. It is one hour's journey from Circular Quay, and there is a frequent boat and tram service.

PROGRESS OF THE SUBURBS.

XV.—RANDWICK.

IV.

The last and most important aspect of Randwick as a residential suburb is the attractiveness and the popularity of its great variety of tourist resorts, the greatest perhaps in any municipality in the State. Mention has already been made of its possessing two of the finest racecourses in the southern hemisphere. Also one of the largest and most attractive of our parks (Centennial Park), with an area of over 1000 acres, which was dedicated to the people exactly 100 years after Captain Cook had annexed Australia, and which has since been beautified, at considerable cost, until it has truly become the people's playground, where daily citizens of all classes are found enjoying to the full its varied delights. Mention has also been made of the great Australian golf links, of the military rifle range, of the smaller parks and reserves, and of its fine bowling green and cricket oval. But above all these advantages Randwick as a seaside resort stands out pre-eminently as possessing within its boundaries the most varied land and sea scapes obtainable around Sydney. Mr. F. W. Allen, in his contribution to the official history of this municipality, describes the outlook in these words: "The visitor approaching Sydney from the south is offered a panorama of succeeding aspects that merit the enthusiasm of the severest critic. Beach succeeds beach in shimmering whiteness. Majestic headlands top the landscape, their cliffs frowning down a perpetual challenge to the ever restless forces of the sea. Occasionally nature is discovered in a lighter mood, and the clefts in the landscape reveal snug inlets and sheltered glens. This variety of natural beauty is crowned by a succession of plateaux. On these plateaux are erected the homes of the people. Eastward they have the ocean at their feet; westward spacious views unroll themselves before their vision. They encompass the city and its environs, the higher western and southern tablelands are revealed to their gaze, and the panorama embraces finally the far distant and historic Blue Mountains."

To reach these charming and widespread land and sea scapes the tourist has a most interesting tram ride from Sydney. He journeys most of the way, not through dusty roads, but pleasantly through Moore Park. On his left he views the great Sydney Cricket Ground and the far-famed Agricultural Showgrounds. On his left he finds the much-favoured Zoological Gardens. Further on he has the Centennial Park, the Randwick Racecourse, and the many workshops. Then rapid transit through high-class properties lands the visitor at the far-famed Coogee Beach. Coogee shares with Manly a unique popularity. Tramway records disclose patronage up to a maximum of 50,000 per day during the summer months. Indeed, it was always a favourite seaside resort with the people of Sydney was Coogee, and it seems to grow in popularity each year. Coogee Bay was well known to the early settlers in Australia for as far back as 1834. The Londoners who comprised the majority of the emigrant citizens of Sydney proper, referred to Coogee as their favourite resort. These people accomplished the journey via Rose Bay and Bondi, traversing a road cut by Major Goulburn along the sea coast from Bondi to Cape Banks. Mr. F. W. Allen, in his contribution to the official history of Randwick, describes Coogee as an inter-mixture of natural recreation, shining sands for the picnicker along the beach, half a mile in length, with a line of lovely foam, affording the toddler and the timid a foretaste of the riotous surf. Far out beyond the effervescent foam breaking seas are met. There man has recently discovered that a contest with the martial forces of the ocean is a joyous pastime. Soon a roller, setting in upon the coast, is critically selected, and as the cresting wave turns to its final rush, the surfer swiftly and feather-like mounts the plunging billow, and is carried with tumultuous rapidity to the feet of the timid paddler, splashing noisily at the edge of the beach.

This is a masterpiece achievement to the bold surfer, while to the spectator it is irresistibly attractive. It is this surfing which has practically made the seaside resorts around Sydney what they are to-day. Whilst adding to our tramway and steamer revenue, surfing has increased the price of land, in some cases to an enormous extent. For instance, land at Coogee, which not many years ago, was selling at £1 and £2 per foot, and in some cases even less, is now bringing £10 and £12 per foot. Business corners on the beach have gone up to £50 per foot. In fact, the district of Randwick and Coogee is being built upon so rapidly that it occupies first position for the largest number of houses in one year. The municipal revenue has increased in consequence to a very considerable extent. The Government is also providing the people with the very best of surfing accommodation, and a most liberal tramway service, and all this progress has been accomplished practically within five years.

It, however, must not be forgotten that long before the surf boom period set in Coogee was the home of the early settlers of Sydney, and it marks some historic spots in the pioneering days of the municipality. The first school in the district of Randwick was at Coogee. The residents of Coogee made their influence felt by opposing the incorporation of the municipality, while a section of them wanted to be incorporated with Waverley. Prominent among the early Coogee settlers was Mr. Charles Catley, who can claim to be the oldest resident. He landed in Australia in July, 1848, and two days later he made his way to Coogee, and in the year following became a freeholder of land, so that just as the name of Simeon Pearce must be linked with that of Randwick, so the name of Charles Catley must go down to posterity inseparably bound up with that of the village of Coogee, in which he has resided for upwards of 60 years. Mr. Catley first lived in a bark hut on his estate, but in 1866 he built his house, known as Cauliflower House, from stone quarried on the site. Mr. Charles Kidman, one of the first councillors of Randwick, built his cottage in Brook-street, Coogee, in the early 'Fifties. Although wings have since been added, the main portion of the building is the original cottage, and it is the oldest building in Coogee. In the early days this was Mr. Kidman's country residence, which fact alone stands out in strange contrast with the growth and present-day popularity of Coogee, now so easily reached by a pleasant 3d tram ride from the city.

But we cannot pass from Coogee without referring to Belmore-road, the main thoroughfare leading from Randwick to the beach. This road was once known as Whale-street, and at a spot near the foot of the thoroughfare marked by a fine Norfolk Island pine, which was planted and tended by Mr. W. S. Wall, curator of the Australian Museum, is the whale's tail. The street had a distinct curve at this particular spot, which resembled a whale's tail, hence the name. It was the custom of the early settlers of Coogee to meet at the whale's tail.

To the north of Coogee are majestic cliffs, which lead round to that sheltered sea inlet known as Little Coogee. Here the sea-bather, as distinct from the surf-bather, is found disporting under ideal conditions, sheltered by protruding headlands, and almost reef-bound. Mr. Allen, in his article, describes Little Coogee thus:—"A seascape that would be hard to beat, an inlet running back a distance of over 400 yards to a cosy beach, with an average width up to 50 yards, revealing nature in one of her most generous moods. Flat tables of rock on the northern side, affording the ambitious diver complete scope to display his gymnastics, contrast with the rugged outline of the southern boundary."

Little Coogee is regarded as an ideal spot by the matter as immune from the risks of sharks. This resort has, under the care of the local council, made rapid strides in the last 10 years, and the district has now an excellent tram service. Nestling behind the beach, Mundarrah Glen is found. Here giant fir trees give delightful shade to the picnicker, and grassy lawns, sheltered from wind and sea, offer a restful welcome to the visitor. Land values at Little Coogee are steadily rising, and at the present time building operations are in full swing.

Passing south of Coogee and Little Coogee and still on the coastline forming the boundary of the Randwick Municipality, the tourist comes to Maroubra, which is reached either from Coogee, or via the Long Bay tram route. A well-made road crosses the tramline and heads straight for the bay conjoining eventually with the older road from Coogee. Approaching Maroubra for the first time the visitor is struck by the sight spread out before him. The once far-famed now extinct race of aboriginals were wise in calling this place Maroubra, meaning "like thunder." Mr. Allen describes it as "a far-flung beach, on which thunderous waves continuously beat; buttressed headlands, whitened intermittently by foaming seas, here fresh from nature's hand is embellished grandeur, spacious solitude."

The people of Sydney are realising that the present is an effective opportunity to create a fine marine suburb at Maroubra, which is within easy reach of the city; and, in consequence, rapid settlement is taking place at this seaside resort. It is fast becoming popular as a surfing centre. The demand for land at Maroubra is steadily increasing, and prices have more than doubled themselves within the last five years.

Long Bay, a southward journey of over a mile from Maroubra, affords another opportunity for the lovers of the seaside to settle in the Randwick Municipality. Long Bay has always been known as the "campers' paradise," and, as a week-end resort, it has always been popular. It is reached from the city by the Long Bay and La Perouse tram. But Long Bay is gradually losing its hold as a campers' paradise, and it is fast becoming a residential area, and is surrounded by shops and dwellings. A few years ago land at Long Bay was sold by the acre. Now it is valued at from £3 to £5 per foot in any good position close to the water. Long Bay contains 400 acres of reserves, the control of which is vested in trustees, mostly residents of the bay. At the back of the residential section are the aboriginal caves. Strewn near by are innumerable conch shells. In the aboriginal period it is said that natives from the hinterland tired of 'possum and wild honey, would collect the fish from their beach habitat and regale themselves here.

The tourist now arrives at La Perouse, an historic spot just inside the northern entrance to Botany Bay, a spot that should be dear to Australians, as it is inseparable from the early history of the country. There are many interesting spots at La Perouse, and to preserve these the Government of the day, in 1885, dedicated as a permanent reserve all the land comprised within a straight line drawn from the Pacific Ocean, just south of Long Bay, to the water of Botany Bay. This land has an area of between 2000 and 3000 acres, and includes Little Bay, Cape Banks, and, on the foreshores of Botany Bay, Congwong Bay, Frenchman's Bay (La Perouse), and Yarra Bay. Yarra was called by the natives on account of the number of grass trees growing thereabout. It has now been converted into very fine picnic grounds. In fact, as a place of interest, either from an historical or pleasure loving aspect, La Perouse and its surrounding beaches, and its panoramic outlook would be difficult to surpass. The tourist returning to the city by the Long Bay tram commences a unique journey through a part of Randwick that is fast becoming an important residential area. The long stretch of what is known as the church and school lands were some time ago thrown open to the public by the Government, either as a freehold or leasehold, and these lands are fast being taken up by the working classes for settlement purposes. Daceyville is also at hand, and next comes the great Kensington Estate, with its hundreds of modern and well-kept villas, and its tastily arranged streets and thoroughfares, so that the tourist can travel for miles around the boundaries of the Randwick Municipality, and always find something attractive to engage his attention. It is this never-ending stretch of seaside pleasures which nature has endowed this municipality with that has made Randwick the popular residential area that it is to-day. It has raised the price of its lands, and generally brought about municipal prosperity. It is these same advantages that will make Randwick (handy to the city) one of the largest and most prosperous incorporated areas around Sydney.

PRISON AND SOCIETY.

THE MODERN SYSTEM.

ADDRESS BY SIR WILLIAM CULLEN.

BATHURST, Friday.

The Chief Justice and Lieutenant Governor (Sir William Cullen) was the principal speaker at last night's annual meeting of the Bathurst branch of the Prison Aid Society.

Dealing with criminal legislation and the prevalence of crime, he remarked that he was pleased to see that out of 355 prisoners released from Bathurst Gaol, who had had the assistance of the association, 12 per cent. only again got into trouble. The maxim which governed prison methods in the old days, "The way of transgressors is hard," was perhaps in danger of being broken down now. It was right that the maxim should not be driven home to the death, and that it should be possible for the offender to live his life again.

The prison department records undoubtedly showed that the prison population had increased within the last year or two. The prison authorities suggested that one of the causes of this was that within the last few years a very large number of strangers had arrived in the country. The more population the country secured the better Australians were pleased, but taking the proportion of the population of those born in Australia and that of those born in other countries, and the relative degree of convictions among the different classes, the case was not made out that the youth of the country had, on the whole, shown an increase in criminal tendencies.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I note "Ex-Subscriber's" letter in this morning's paper with regard to the Sydney Symphony Orchestra. I would like to point out to him that the past season has been the most successful, both financially and artistically, that the orchestra has yet given. For the first time there is no deficit.

With regard to certain players missing from the orchestra, there were only three, and their places were taken by others equally as much before the public, and with quite as big a following. The complaint re the booking arrangement is justified, and we understand that this matter will be revised for next year's session. I am, etc.,

TESTIMONIALS RECEIVED DAILY.

Perhaps no medicine has received such a large sale in the short space of time it has been introduced here as Weis's Muco Tonic, the great catarrh and rheumatic remedy, now being sold in Sydney by the Weis Medicine Company, No. 11 Oxford-street. People are thronging this office by the score daily. Many of them come to thank the Proprietors for the good already received in their cases. One of the gentlemen to express his gratitude is Mr. George J. Cartwright, of 83 Abrey-street, North Sydney. This gentleman stated that he has suffered with liver and spleen trouble, with pains in the back and limbs for many years. He has already received more benefit than anything he has ever tried. Mr. Dillingham, corner Pitt and Barlow streets, is loud in his praise of this medicine for nervousness and constipation. The Co-operative Department is issuing one share of stock with each bottle of Muco Tonic. This stock will eventually be worth three times its value as the company increases. This remedy is for sale only at 11 Oxford-street, over the branch Bank of New South Wales.—Advt.

If face creams fail to improve the complexion, try Goleryst, the famous blood purifier. Packets, 3d, 6d, and 1s.—Advt.

TRADES AND LABOU

COUNCIL'S ORGANISING SCHEM

The Labour Council of New South having rejected a motion by Mr. D. O (Trolly, Draymen, and Carters' Union), was intended to make provision for the ment of the organiser, proposed to be pointed, the secretary, Mr. E. J. Kava
M.L.C., explains that this does not mean the council has turned down altogether idea of appointing an organiser. The tive can, he says, still proceed to reco an appointment, leaving the matter of ment to the voluntary effort of the "Notwithstanding the fact that the has declined to make the suggested in of from 3d to 4d in the sustentation fee, scheme propounded by me for voluntary tributions, is," he added, "still open for the council to adopt."

THE PRINTING TROUBLE.

The trouble in the job printing trade, be cause of certain employers getting unskil feeders to do what the members of the Lette press Machinists' Union consider to be the work of skilled men, is still unsettled.
The position has, indeed, been rende more acute by some men employed by a fir having now given a week's notice. The In dustrial Commissioner, through Inspector Kirby, is endeavouring to effect a settle ment before the trouble extends to other houses.

CLOTHING AWARDS.

It was reported at the last meeting of the Tailors and Tailoresses' Union that the re cently-made awards in the industry were be ing very generally observed by the parties.
Underpressers, since being included in the pressers award, have had their hours fixed at 48, with time and a third for overtime to weekly workers. The meal hours allow ed to tailoresses are to apply to under-pres sers. The award is to remain in force until

TANNERS' STRIKE.

The tanners, who ceased work over a week ago at the Mascot yards of E. M. Farleigh, Ltd., took a secret ballot on Thursday night on the proposal, as submitted to them by Mr.
E. J. Kavanagh, M.L.C.—that one of the two men objected to as being non-unionists should be exempt from admission to the union on the ground that he was, to all intents and purposes, a foreman.
The vote was in favour of all employees other than managers being unionists. In spector Kirby reported this to the Master Tanners' Association, and it was decided to ask that the prosecutions for alleged breach of the award should go on.

WATERSIDE CONFERENCE.

The waterside workers' conference sat in the forenoon only yesterday. The question of meal hours and smoke-ohs were left to the different branches to fix up. It was decided that there should be four smoke-ohs in the 24 hours—two in the daytime of a quarter of an hour each, and two at night of half an hour each.
In the afternoon the delegates indulged in a harbour excursion. The conference will be resumed on Monday.

JUBILEE RAGGED SCHOOL.

The annual distribution of prizes at the Jubilee Ragged School was made yesterday by Mrs. H. C. Dangar. The Rev. James Buch
M.A., presided, and on behalf of the school mistress, Miss V. Paterson, and the children briefly welcomed Mrs. Dangar and her daugh ters, and spoke very highly of the interest which they took in the schools and the child ren. His remarks were supported by the Rev. James Harrison.
Mrs. Dangar said the interest she showed in the schools was prompted by the humani tarian work they performed, and the religious atmosphere in which the children were edu cated.

A HEAVY GALE.

KANGAROO VALLEY, Friday.

A light fall of rain on Tuesday night reg tering 14 points was followed by a tornado from the west, the gusts of wind being very fierce and strong, causing considerable de struction to buildings, fences, gardens, and orchards. Buildings in course of erection for the Upper Kangaroo River Dairy Factory, and nearing completion, were almost wrecked by the gale. Telephone communication with the valley is cut off. Wires for transmission have to be sent by mail to Moss Vale and Nowra.
Messages for delivery are received the same way.

"Rent was such a disturbing factor that it should be taken . . by itself."—Mr. J. B. Trivett, Government Statist.

THIS is just one of the trenchant remarks passed by Mr. Trivett during the present inquiry at the Industrial Court into the high cost of living. He also remarked that if the price of any item of food became prohibitive, it was possible to substitute some less expensive article, but there was practically no escape from the drain of prohibitive rent.

Rent is "a disturbing factor" all right, as many have found to their cost. The sooner you break away from it the sooner you will know what real home life is—you will understand the meaning of the word contentment—you will find that "rent free" and "care free" are very similar terms.

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY.

The question of to-day, of to-morrow, and of every succeeding day, is

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP? If you have not, you have not done your duty by your skin and complexion. If, on the other hand—that is, on both hands, and on the face, and on the skin generally—you HAVE used PEARS', you can feel happy, for you will have done the best that possibly can be done for the skin's health and beauty. There can be no question about that.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

EXPORTING MEAT.

The growth of the meat industry and export trade from Australia is best illustrated by the ever-increasing company of great ocean liners devoted almost especially to this branch of transport trade. Some of the new liners have a cold storage capacity of from three hundred to four hundred thousands of cubic feet, and these vast holds are through the greater part of the year filled with Australian beef and mutton. The greater portion of the beef is shipped from Queensland, and the beef season in shipping lasts from May up till August, when the lamb season begins, Victoria and New South Wales supplying by far the greater proportion of this class of cargo, and also of mutton, which has no distinct season.

The story of the filling of these great 12 tombs on board ship begins with the drafting of great herds of sheep and cattle from down or tableland or plain to the railway vans, which convey them to their destined abattoir. This journey comes as a terrifying experience to these creatures, used to the freedom of their pastures, and there is something painful in the aspect of these driven things as they face the unknown, the sheep with plaintive bleating entering their mild protests, while the spirited fine young bullocks flash hot resentment from startled eyes at each crack of the whip as they are urged down the narrow race which forms the entry to their captivity. This is an exciting scene, with the thunder of hoofs, the tossing of horns, the shouting of the men, and the fierce barks of the dogs. The long, cramped ride, and the tortures of thirst which the travelling animal so often suffers, do not crush the spirit of the bullock, and there is a fierce spirit of revolt in the air as he rushes down the second enclosure leading to the rest paddocks, where he is to await the tragedy closing his life.

After about two or three days in the rest paddocks he is driven into a long race, which grows so narrow that at last only two animals can keep abreast, and here the trapped animals are even more closely confined by the sudden fall of an automatic gateway and bars. The animals are killed by a blow with a hammer in the middle of the spine. Automatic machinery is set in motion, and the carcase is quickly removed to the next compartment, where it undergoes examination at the hands of the Government veterinary expert. If he passes the carcase it is then skinned and dressed. In case of failure to pass it becomes waste, and is taken to the boiling-down factory. All organs are subjected to careful examination also as they are removed, but the whole process of examination, skinning, and dressing only occupies about 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour.

Automatic levers then transport the carcase to the cooling-room, where it is cut into quarters. The Queensland beef has to lose a section from each forequarter, by which many tons of beef are annually sacrificed to the ravages of a flesh worm, which has attacked this section only of the animal, leaving unsightly nodules in evidence of its presence. This creature is giving work to veterinary science, experts endeavouring to find a remedy. At present the plague is confined to the northern State, but it is none the less a menace to all Australia, and its ravages have already injured the reputation of Queensland beef on outside markets. In the cooling-chambers all beef is also graded, weighed, and trimmed ready for export after the freezing, which lasts varying times, from four to eight days. When the beef is hard-frozen it is taken from the hooks and sewn in a double wrapping, an inner envelope of soft white muslin or butter cloth, and an outer one of stout hessian, and is then ready for its transfer to the ship's hold.

Sheep meet their death in groups of five, and the carcases are treated in the same way, except that they are halved instead of quartered, and spend less time in the freezing room, two to four days being sufficient. In bringing sheep to the shambles a "decoy" sheep is made use of, a villainous old ram, which has been trained to his ghastly business. He is often the pet of the abattoir, and wears a distinguishing badge, a bunch of red ribbons round his neck. It is generally supposed that sheep are void of intelligence, but the decoy proves the exception. As the ten sheep enter the race bleating piteously and unwilling to move on, the old villain walks up to them, and with many a caress and soothing bleat, induces them to follow him. As he reaches a certain spot he steps suddenly aside into a little niche which opens automatically for his reception. At the same time a gateway and barriers close, in the form of a pen, round his unsuspecting followers, who are immediately under the knife. The old ram walks down the race with great dignity, and resumes his treacherous but useful practices on the next trusting batch.

In all cases the freezing chambers are within easy access of the wharf, for the work of transit must, of necessity, in an Australian climate be as rapid as possible. There is, however, a great deal of costly handling, which will in the future be minimised by automatic appliances. In some cases the meat is carried on ordinary trolleys from freezing room to ship's side; in other cases a "conveyer" is used, which is better, as it carries the meat, and has a contrivance for its transference to the canvas slings which swing it into the hold. There is no class of cargo requiring greater care in handling and stowing, and the officer in charge has expert knowledge. He has to be here, there, and everywhere, and though his temper may be sorely tried he must hide it under a genial air of good humour. If fault has to be found it must be under a well-meaning air of suggestion, while commands must become entreaties. For the Australian dock hand has a reputation for shortness of temper, as he also has for smart and rapid handling of cargoes.

Australia's formidable rival in this industry is the Argentine, and in the opinion of experts the preference given to the Argentine mutton is not due to its superior quality, but to more careful packing, which places it before the buyer in a much more attractive form. Imagine an Argentine and an Australian cargo being discharged simultaneously at the Victoria Docks. From the hold of the Argentine steamer come carcases all snowy in wrappings, which are as fresh and soilless as if they had not been handled at all; from the Australian hold come soiled bundles, showing finger and footmarks on the formerly white muslin, and the appearance is, by the contrast offered, even less inviting than under ordinary conditions. The price falls at once. A set of films might with advantage be shown in Australia dealing with the cargoes described. Even the short-tempered dock labourer might be persuaded by a lesson, so given, in the intervals provided free by an anxious band of consignors and shipping agents. Something will have to be done, and that speedily, if Australia is not to be left behind, for this careless packing will not be accepted on a market where a contrast, such as described, is offered. The fault does not lie with the steamer's holds, for they are fitted exactly alike, being lined and criss-crossed with what is known as "dunnage," a kind of lathing 3 by 3 inches in breadth and thickness, which is placed at 10-inch intervals, securing even spacing for the meat, and also free air passages between the rows. All the difference lies in the care in handling. In the Argentine the hands all wear flannel socks instead of boots while in the hold, and flannel gloves, which are changed frequently. Finger and footmarks are thus impossible.

LECTURES AND DEMONSTRATIONS.

The undernoted are in addition to the lectures and demonstrations arranged by the Department of Agriculture for the week ending October 25, 1913:—Katoomba: October 24, 2 p.m., on Mr. C. Wooler's Oliva Park farm, demonstration with the "Bolton" type of beehive. Katoomba: October 24, 8 p.m., in the Congregational Hall, lecture on "Apiculture," illustrated by lantern views. Both the lecture and the demonstration will be conducted by Mr. R. G. Warry, demonstrator in apiculture, under the auspices of the local branch of the Agricultural Bureau.

Dairy Instructor MacInnes will address meetings at the undermentioned places on the subject of "Herd-testing Associations":—Channon: In the local hall, on October 24, 11 a.m. Dunoon: In the local hall on October 29, at 7.30 p.m. Corndale: In the local hall, on October 31, at 7.30 p.m.

THE WOOL TRADE.

EXCELLENT SELLING CONDITIONS.

Excellent selling conditions have ruled on all the four selling days this week. The selections have included some super wools, and have been generally attractive. There has been a strong, all-round demand, and large clearances have been effected. Ten catalogues were submitted, aggregating 42,429 bales, of which 40,052 were cleared at auction; as compared with eight catalogues last week, totalling 29,052 bales, of which 26,530 were quitted under the hammer. The tone was animated, and competition exceedingly keen for the better qualities at the highest point of the season. All good, sound, merino fleece, and all good, bulky pieces and bellies, if fairly free evoked the keenest bidding at values in sellers' favour. Fine crossbreds sold at extreme rates, and lambs' were very firm. The display of scoured was small, and all good lines in strong request. The only descriptions to cause a lull in the bidding were short, faulty, wasty parcels, which were irregular, and with short, faulty lambs' were at times in buyers' favour. As these wools, however, were only very moderately in evidence, there was very little dragging in the market, and the ordinary clamour was renewed the moment attractive lots were met in the catalogues.

The Continental sections were the most prominent; both the French and German buyers operating extensively; moderately supported by Yorkshire, with some good bidding by Japan. Rivalry was keen for large lines suitable for requirements of the different sections, in both merino and crossbred. The wools coming from a wider area than previously, and including some clips, or portions thereof, from Scone and Manilla, with a sprinkling from Riverina, made the selections very attractive; the bulk, however, came from the north-western and middle-western slopes and plains, with Moree well in evidence; some south-western wools also put in an appearance; and, doubtless, when sales are resumed on Monday week, after next week's recess—to allow the Brisbane sales, without any clashing of the markets—there will be some representative clips from the later shearing districts.

A feature of the season has been the early arrival and disposal of some of the clips, as compared with last season. Each year seems to bring about greater expedition in shearing, and the forwarding of the wool to market. The fine weather has favoured the passing of the flocks through the sheds, the roads have been good, motor haulage is resorted to in some cases, and the railways keep getting nearer the sheep's backs. Those factors, combined with a favourable selling season, have resulted in rather more than 56,000 bales being catalogued, and nearly 57,000 bales sold in excess of this time last year. The receipts of wool by rail to date show an increase of nearly 80,000 bales, and it is expected that this increase will soon be gradually on the decline. Similar shearing and forwarding conditions are reported in Victoria, the Melbourne "Age" of Wednesday last saying with regard thereto that, "shearing is progressing satisfactorily, without any vexatious delays from weather or labour troubles. Some stations are quite a month to six weeks earlier than last year. The quantity of wool handled by the railways to date is fully 50 per cent. ahead of last season, while the warehouses are stored with an equivalent increase. The forward nature of the season is causing many western district and Gippsland growers to make arrangements for earlier shearing than usual. The Geelong brokers report the arrival of larger supplies than are generally found in their centre at this period, and a start will be made with the auction sales on next Thursday week (23rd instant), a week earlier than last year."

Sales, however, are not as forward as in Sydney. However, the selling conditions are very favourable, and the hold-over wools in any of the markets are not likely to be of any magnitude, by the end of the weekly selling season. That is, if the present strong demand continues at the rates now established.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of the staple in the Sydney market may be given as follows:—

THE WEEK'S OFFERINGS AND SALES.

The week opened on Monday with two catalogues, totalling 10,847 bales, the selection being a good useful one, chiefly of robust wools in the grease, with some Queensland scoured. Out of the 10,847 offered 10,619 were cleared from the rostrum, testimony both to the quality of the offerings, as well as the strength of the market. Competition was animated. France and Germany securing the bulk of the purchases, with Japan fairly active. Greasy merino sold to /12¾ for 17 bales 1st com of GN over B (Blandford), and crossbred to /12½, for a line of Coolabil (Carrathool). Scoured realised to /21 for 52 bales of FC over Glendower (Q.).

Three catalogues were submitted on Tuesday, aggregating 11,227 bales, of which 10,245 were sold at auction. The selection was an attractive one, and included a few super lines, the bulk being well grown wools, a number showing deep staple, with a proportion of dusty and burry parcels. All the best features of the market of the previous day were reproduced. Greasy sold to /14½ for 54 bales AA com w of DVS over Puen Buen (Scone), a shafty, bright, stylish wool of nice quality. Scoured sold to /20½ for a line from Coonamble.

On Wednesday two catalogues were submitted, totalling 9021 bales, and the clearances at auction 8795. The offerings included several lines of super merino and crossbred in the grease. The market was most animated. Greasy merino sold to /14½ for 8 super com w of JFH over Temi, and six bales sup com h of A. Bell over Scone, the same price being paid for 1st xbd h of C. H. Cox over The Oaks, quite a number of lines running from /13 to /14. Scoured sold to /20.

On the closing day for the week three catalogues were offered, aggregating 11,334 bales, and the sales at auction 10,293. The wools came chiefly from the north-western and south-western districts, forming an attractive selection. Although carrying a good deal of condition, the wools were finer and less burry than the earlier shorn. A strong market ruled for the better grown wools, but wasty sorts ruled in buyers' favour. Greasy sold to /13½, and scoured to /23½, while /23 was paid for 165 bales 1st com e of W. and A. McC over M over Coomburrah (Brewarrina).

The offerings and sales for the week, and total for the season to date, compared to the corresponding period last season, are as follow:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

The selling season in Victoria is now fairly under way, good sized catalogues being offered in Melbourne this week, and the opening auctions in Geelong are fixed for Thursday next. The selections have been attractive in both merino and crossbred; the wools coming from Riverina, the Lower Darling, northern Victoria, Western Australia, and Cooper's Creek, on the South Australian and Queensland border. The wools were generally sound and well grown, heavier in condition, and lacking the fine quality of last year. The crossbreds particularly lack the soft, light, dry condition of last season. The market was on a par with the buoyant conditions in Sydney. On the opening day last week merinos were quoted 5 to 7½ per cent. and crossbreds 10 per cent. above the opening sales last year, with a hardening tendency this week for crossbreds, while values for merinos have been fully maintained.

On Monday next the third series of sales will be held in the Adelaide market, when representative catalogues will be submitted.

On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday next some 50,000 bales will be catalogued in Brisbane, one-fifth of which will be scoured. The wools will be drawn from practically all the principal parts of the northern State, with a sprinkling from the New South Wales border. Catalogues closed yesterday, and valuing is expected to commence to-day. Included in the large offerings are the following brands:—Rockwood, Tatala, AP/Welldown, CP/Condamine Plains, JSF/Glenwillow, TB/Roma, [illegible]/Yaralla, Dunne/Q, Tarcombe, Yarronvale, A, C/Emsay, Gundaddy, Rosevale/Warrego (in block), Arundel, B and B/Newinga, C and Co/ Remington, Condamine Plains, CL/Boston, DD and WL Co/Westland, Eulolo, FE/Merriwa, Glenlyon, Harrow, Braeside, Coppymurrumbilla/IB, Brynog, JPC and Sons/Ayrmore, Gelgbola, AMD/Moloonga, F/Eurella, Maufred Downs, Fairview/DD, CFW/Boxdale, TG/Sunvale, McL Ltd/Mexico, The Peaks/Mitchell, Apsley, Bon Accord (in rising sun), S/Gunbower; Noorindoo, Ambo, Minnel, Elwell, Mundine, Bellevue, Paradise, Merida, Winslade, Welford, Rangelands, Toorak, Dalmally, Spring Grove; Bogunda, Clutha, Boxtrove, RM/Dalby, JAC/Wena Park/Clermont, LW, RFT/Arabella, KK/Stowe Park, APL/Victoria Downs, AHD/Me ba, AP Barnes/Lindsi Downs, Bareeys, Bull Bros/Wyora, Booligar, Burslem, Cooinda/B and M, Comongin, Callandoon/North.

"COLONIAL WOOL TRADE."

The familiar column in the London "Economist," under the heading of "Colonial Wool," has not appeared since the issue of August 9 last. The contributor, it would seem from private advices, was Mr. Alfred Hirst, at one time a wool stapler in Huddersfield, who became blind at the age of 28 years, and afterwards came out to Australia, in about the 'Eighties, for three years. Early in August last Mr. Hirst was taken ill, and died towards the end of the month. In an obituary in the London "Times," August 30, it was stated that "Mr. Hirst, like his father, was a zealous Liberal and Cobdenite. He wrote constantly for the press until less than three weeks before his death, and was a recognised authority on the colonial wool trade. Mr. Francis Hirst, the editor of the 'Economist,' is his son." The deceased gentleman was at one time a wool-buyer, and he often, in his contributions, approached his subject in the buying spirit. At times he "stirred the 'possum" with great zeal, and would not admit that any good news could come from this side.

SYDNEY'S WOOL RECEIPTS.

There has been a slight decrease in the receipts of wool by rail and boat during the week, as compared with the corresponding week last year. The decrease by rail may be due to the rain on one or two days this week. In any case, the increase for the season to date is expected to be soon showing a decline, and the slight drop this week may be the forerunner of the expected change. The quantities for the week and season to date compare as follows:—

BRADFORD TOPS.

According to our cable message of yesterday's date Bradford reports a limited business and prices are barely maintained.

On the corresponding date last year the market was cabled as quiet, with quotations for merinos unchanged, while fifties, forty-sixes, and forties (crossbred) were ¼d higher. The course of prices for the current season compares with the corresponding period last year as follows:—

GRAFTING AND BUDDING.

SOME INTERESTING POINTS.

BATHURST.—Mr. L. J. Kehoe, late of the Bathurst State farm, and widely experienced in fruit culture, tendered some useful advice before the Bathurst Fruitgrowers' Association in a paper on grafting and budding. He remarked that every practical fruitgrower had at some time or other experienced disappointment, when his trees were at bearing age, that they had turned out different from what had been expected. The only alternative in such a case was to re-graft upon their stems or branches the scions of the variety required. On the circumstances which made grafting practicable, and on the method suitable to the performance of this operation, depended the success or the failure of the graft. To be successful grafting must be made with the right kind of wood; the "stock" and "scion" must be botanically related; the closer relationship they bore the better; and it must be carried out during the right time of the year. The growing tissues of both stock and scion must be closely fitted together so that the sap of one was forced into the sap of the other. For such an interchange to take place the tissues or "cambium layer"—a very delicate tissue formed between the wood and the bark—must be full of moving sap. Jagged and rough cuts on the scion should be avoided. Where wax cloth or paper was not used the grafts were covered by wax, a small brush being used. This wax could be safely applied while much warmer than the hand could bear, but still it should not be put on at boiling point. The formula for the making of the wax which he had found very successful was:—Beeswax 1½lb, resin 3lb, raw linseed oil ⅔-pint. On no conditions should boiled oil be used. Other coverings had been tried, but had not proved so successful. Paint was of no use, as it burnt the edges of the bark, and did not heal well. Some orchardists preferred wax cloth to any of the foregoing, as it answered the double purpose of holding the graft in position, and doing away with tying, and at the same time excluding all air. The careful selection of stocks or roots was a very important matter. The apple tree on its own roots was now practically a thing of the past. If dwarfing of the apple was desired, "French Paradise" was a good stock to use. The advantages of the dwarf were that one could plant much closer together, greater ease in pruning, spraying, and picking, and greater resistance to the wind. Although these advantages appeared striking, the dwarf was much more suitable for the back yard than the commercial orchard. The usual stocks upon which the commercial orchard was worked were the Northern Spy and Winter Majetin. These varieties were practically blight-proof, and were finding favour in America to a greater extent than hitherto. Another variety which gave good results in sandy soil, although not used very largely, was the Duchess of Oldenburg. Blight-proof stocks were made up thus:—Unite two lengths of Northern Spy roots and wood, three or four inches long, and the thickness of a pencil, by means of a whip or tongue graft. The union was then tightly bound and planted out in nursery beds. When the scions began to shoot all the buds except one were rubbed off. If only Northern Spy trees were required nothing further was done, but if other varieties of fruit were needed they were budded about six inches above the ground.

LAND AT ADELONG.

HIGH PRICES FOR DAIRYING COUNTRY.

ADELONG.—Several blocks of land, amounting to three thousand acres, on the Mount Horeb estate, were submitted to public competition yesterday. A block of 197 acres of grazing and agricultural land brought £16 per acre; 140 acres, £12 17s 6d. One dairying block was passed in at £16, and 247 acres at £15. Dairying block No. 6 brought £28 10s per acre; 338 acres brought £11 per acre; block of 23 acres, £26 per acre; 175 acres, £22 per acre. The estate of the present vendors originally consisted of 13,000 acres, which was purchased for £64,000.

THE WHEAT CROP.

GUNNEDAH.—The crops are holding out well. An inch to one and half inch of rain just now would do an incalculable amount of good. In the Gunnedah patrol district there are 27,000 acres under cultivation. With favourable conditions, the yields will average 20 bushels.

JERILDERIE.—The September rains brought on the grass, so that everywhere throughout these districts there is abundance of both grass and water, so much so that graziers, who are on the whole lightly stocked, are beginning to fear the bush fires in the summer, and are taking precautions by ploughing fire-breaks, and getting their water carts and beaters ready for emergencies. The caterpillars, which made their appearance in many parts of the district during the latter part of last month, have gone without doing much damage. The despised crow and ibis accounted for the lessening of their numbers. The grasshoppers, with the departure of the caterpillar, have appeared in myriads in some parts, but have not as yet reached the flying stage. When it is reached, the young crops will have ripened, and thus be beyond fear of damage from their ravages. The grass seeds are very plentiful and annoying to the flocks. The owners are busy in parts already cutting the wool from around the sheep's eyes. The blowfly is very bad all round, and attack the sheep, especially the merino sorts. Graziers have their employees out continually crutching. A small percentage are dying from the maggot where left to themselves. Crossbreds are wonderfully free from the fly, and not 2 per cent. as a rule are affected. Sheep on the plain country are more free from the fly than those depasturing in the timbered country. Shearing is over in this district. The fleeces were invariably strong, bright, and clean, and weighed well. With many flockowners the average weight per fleece has been from 1lb to 12 lb, and many even heavier.

DAIRYING.

WOLLONGONG.—At a meeting of the Unanderra Milk Suppliers' Association it was decided to ask the Farmers' and Dairymen's Company to erect a receiving depot at Unanderra Station, and to pay suppliers for local delivery.

At a meeting of shareholders in the Unanderra factory the following directors were elected:—Messrs. R. Cochrane, J. W. Gorrell, J. Todd, L. Carr, and J. Daley. Mr. W. H. Cook, who has been a director since the inception of the company, declined nomination for the position of director on account of his connection with the Farmers' and Dairymen's Company.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

CAMPBELLTOWN.—Very blustery conditions have prevailed during the past two days, which will have the effect of counteracting to some extent the good done to pasturage and crops by the rain which fell at the beginning of the week. The farmers are commencing haymaking operations, and some good yields are expected.

CRABOON.—The wool season is at its height, and a difficulty is being experienced in forwarding the wool to Sydney, as trucks are not procurable when required. As many as 12 teams laden with wool have had to wait two and three days before trucks were available, and at other times tarpaulins have not been forwarded with the trucks.

MURRUMBURRAH.—At the sale of Dargan Estate at Galong, comprising 2447 acres, subdivided into 12 farms, conducted by Messrs. John Bourke and Son, only one area was passed in at £7 12s 6d an acre. The lowest price realised was £7 15s, and the highest £10 per acre, the total result of the sale aggregating £18,200. The land is of the very best quality in the district for wheat or other cereal production, and a never-failing creek, which runs through several of the farms, gives additional value to these areas.

WAGGA.—Rain set in early on Tuesday morning, and continued with slight cessations for the greater part of the day. It will do much good, but it is feared it is too late to be of material value in the earlier portions of the wheat-growing districts. The hot dry weather of the past fortnight has had a very bad effect upon even the best of the crops in the immediate locality of Wagga, and which seemed sure to produce a good yield of grain. Many of the farmers had last week decided to cut their crops for hay, as they could not let them go any longer in the hope of rain coming. Many of the late crops, it is said, will not be worth cutting. In the later regions of the Wagga district, and in those parts where they had more abundant rains in September, as, for instance, along the Wagga to Humula railway line, and from The Rock to Urana, the position is better. There many of the crops were not sufficiently advanced to be past recovery.

BALRANALD SHOW.

BALRANALD.—The twelfth annual show of the Balranald Pastoral and Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday in windy, cool weather. The ground was damp from the previous evening's rain. As a result the attendance was not as large as expected, but the takings were satisfactory, and an all-round success must be recorded. Record entries were received, totalling approximately 500. As usual during past years the horse entries were the most numerous, 106 having been received. The sheep entries were very few, attributable to shearing having just concluded. In several sections the horses displayed were of very high standard, especially in carriage and buggy horses, several of which exhibits would hold their own in any show. The jumping was very disappointing. Mr. H. O. Oliver, Government Veterinary Surgeon was in attendance, inspecting horses and issuing certificates to stallions. In the evening a successful ball was held. Awards:—

Next Time Take Pinkettes.

There is so much difference between Pinkettes and the ordinary purgative medicines you have been used to—a difference all in favor of Pinkettes—you should not fail to try them next time you need a laxative. The absence of any unpleasant effect in their operation is a marked distinction. No weak or nauseating feeling either at time of taking or afterwards. They neither upset the stomach nor irritate the bowels, but assist the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to perform their natural function gently and pleasantly.

In constipation, Pinkettes will be found of special value, for if taken according to directions, the patient should not find the need of an opening medicine a constant necessity. They do not wear off in their effect. Taken at intervals they are just as effective as on the first occasion.

Pinkettes are entirely vegetable; free from any habit creating drug; a safe and thorough medicine to have always at hand in every home and as good for children as adults.

They may be taken with excellent results when the stomach is disordered; the liver sluggish; during colds and fevers; or for biliousness and sick headache. One Shilling per bottle, everywhere, or from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. of Australasia Ltd., Sydney.

PINKETTES

Do You Have Indigestion?

The surest way of curing those forms of stomach trouble known as Indigestion is the tonic treatment. This treatment goes behind the symptoms and cures the cause. Strength for the stomach is the one thing needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, one after each meal give this strength. They are a tonic, and positively strengthen and purify the blood. The renewed blood restores the digestive organs and gives relief that is permanent.

The case of Mrs. L. Hill, Exchange Hotel, Orange, proves this claim. "For over three years I was a great sufferer with Indigestion," she said. "Irregular meals and confinement indoors brought it on, and a general break down in health followed. I have been in the drapery business for a great many years and often when I was attending to customers, attacks of dizziness almost made me fall. If I took a little bread and milk it would cause pains and a load on my chest which was unbearable. I grew as weak as a kitten; was sallow green color, and just skin and bone. I could not sleep. I became depressed and just moped about, a misery to myself and everybody else. I tried two different doctors but they did me no good. One day a young girl friend called and said "Why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?" I got a box and when I had taken half I could notice a great improvement. I gradually gained in weight, my strength returned and after I had got through three or four boxes I was a new woman and a wonder to my friends."

Sufferers from Indigestion must bear in mind that it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that cured Mrs. Hill, and that she wouldn't take the substitutes said to be just as good, which shopkeepers try to push. They are 2/9 per box, six boxes 15/3, of all dealers or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. of Australasia, Ltd., Sydney.

A GOVERNMENT RESUMPTION.

Brown v Minister for Works.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Harper, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Pike, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), for the defendant. This was an action brought by James Alexander Brown against the Minister for Works, for the purpose of having assessed by a jury certain lands resumed by the Government on March 27, for the purposes of the Barren Jack irrigation scheme.

Counsel's addresses were finished, but his Honor's summing up is not yet concluded. The hearing will be resumed on Monday.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

DISPUTE ABOUT A BORE.

J. Martin and Co., Ltd., v Hartley.

The evidence on both sides was finished, but, at the rising of the Court, counsel's addresses were not completed.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

AN ABSENT PLAINTIFF.

The case was called for hearing in which Philip Sydney Squires, trading as Squires and Roberts, claimed the assignment of the lease of shop premises at 331 George-street, which it was alleged that Eileen Martin had agreed to assign to him but had instead assigned to Sidney Emanuel Isaacs, who was joined as defendant. Mr. Maughan (instructed by Mr. J. J. Carroll) who appeared for the defence, stated that the plaintiff could not be found, and his Honor dismissed the suit with costs.

EGAN v ELLIOTT.

The case in which John Joseph Egan is suing Joseph John Elliott for specific performance of an agreement with regard to the purchase of land by the defendant from the plaintiff is still part heard.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

THE CARE OF A CHILD.

CHALMERS v THOMPSON.

Mr. A. Thomson, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett) appeared for James Webster Chalmers, an official under the "Neglected Children and Juvenile Offenders' Act, 1905," in support of an appeal from the decision on the 10th inst at the Children's Court, Sydney, by J. M'Kensey, magistrate of the Court. The respondent John Thompson did not appear. It appeared that Thompson was charged under section 9 of the Act of 1902 with having from September 19 to September 25, 1913, wilfully, and without reasonable excuse, neglected to provide adequate and proper nursing for his child Iris Isabella Thompson, aged 5 weeks, such neglect appearing likely to result in serious injury to the health of the child. Respondent pleaded not guilty, and after hearing the evidence, the magistrate dismissed the information, on the ground that the word "person" in section 9 of the Children's Protection Act, 1902 did not include the parent of the child, and, therefore, the information disclosed no offence. The question was whether this decision was erroneous in law? Mr. Thomson said the Crown was anxious to get a decision on the point at issue, because the Acts relating to the protection of children had been consolidated, and the question was how far the Act of 1902, and especially section 9, had been embodied in the Act of 1905.

The case stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

(Before Mr. G. C. Addison, Chief Industrial Magistrate.)

ORDERS AGAINST DEFENDANTS.

The secretary of the Canister Makers' Union, Francis J. Wheatley, proceeded against F. J. Heath for the recovery of contributions due from February 13 to September 11, 1913—20 weeks at 6d per week—to the union. Defendant, in evidence, said that he had sent in his resignation in February, and received a letter stating that it had been accepted, and that he was financial on the books on that date. He did not know that he had to give notice. An order for 6s, with 4s costs, was made.

Robert Beckett, of Waterloo, carrier, was charged with failing to pay an employee named A. T. Wall, the minimum wage as a driver of two horses. In defence, Beckett stated he stopped money from complainant on account of goods not delivered to a person, it being his duty to deliver them.

The magistrate held that the deduction made by defendant in pursuance of a standing practice for goods alleged to have been lost by Wall was an illegal deduction. Under section 49 wages must be paid in full, without any deduction whatever. An employer has remedies in other courts if he wishes to recover for the goods, and can discharge for misconduct. An order was made against defendant for £1, with £3 4s costs.

Beckett was further charged with failing to pay A. T. Wall in full in money a balance of 16s 1d due in respect of the price fixed, without deduction. An order was made for 14s 1d, with 6s costs.

The same defendant was charged with failing to pay the prescribed minimum wage to S. Leeds, employed driving one horse. An order for 1s, with £2 7s costs, was made against defendant. For not paying in full the amount of the balance due, 11s 9d, in respect of the award of the Transport No. 10 Board, an order for 4s, with 6s costs, was made against defendant.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray.)

WORGER v BUTCHER.

Further evidence was given in the case in which Herbert Walter Worger sued Edward Arthur Butcher for £400 in respect of damage done to a motor car hired by the defendant from the plaintiff, and the matter stands part heard.

(Before Judge Rogers.)

DAMAGES FOR ASSAULT.

William Cruickshank Nelson, engineer, of Stanmore, sued Francis Herbert Nock, veterinary surgeon, of Queenscliffe-road, Manly, for £200 damages for an assault alleged to have been committed on August 10. The defence was a denial, and a plea of justification.

Mr. A. R. Watt (instructed by Messrs. J. M'Laughlin and Son) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. M'Kean (instructed by Messrs. Currie and Wood) for the defendant.

The plaintiff's story was that he had entered an old-fashioned garden on the Queenscliff-road with his sister and another lady, when he was ordered out by the defendant and assaulted. Medical evidence was given to show that he suffered from a contusion of the kidney and a ruptured back muscle.

The defendant said he was the lessee of the garden, which was opposite his house, and was no longer cultivated, though it contained quantities of flowers. He had been annoyed by people trespassing, and ordered the plaintiff's party out. The plaintiff refused to go, and when the defendant took him by the collar he put his hands up. They did not come to blows then, but as the plaintiff was going away the latter stopped to pick up a stone, saying, "I'll knock your head off with this rock." The defendant then struck him on the back as he was stooping.

His Honor awarded plaintiff 25 guineas.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse and juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

GUILTY OF FALSE PRETENCES.

Henry Michael Simmons, a young man, pleaded guilty to eight charges of false pretences.

Senior-Sergeant Carson told the Court that the total amount involved was £60. Accused was of a good family, and that in anticipation of his people making good, he had adopted this course of obtaining money. He had a weakness for horseracing and drink.

His Honor asked how it was that people cashed the cheques of a drunken man.

The Crown Prosecutor said that his Honor would see by the depositions that Simmons called upon business people and asked for cheques to be cashed on the representation that he was connected with a well-known Sydney firm. It was not a case of being drunk at the time, but rather a matter of suffering from the effects of excessive drinking.

His Honor thought that it would be advisable to put him under restraint for a while, and then release him on his own recognisances for good behaviour.

Mr. Delohery, who, instructed by Mr. A. W. Gardner, appeared for Simmons, said that he had been in receipt of a lot of money, which led to habits of extravagance. His brothers, who brought him over here from Western Australia, had often paid his debts and helped him along.

His Honor said that, in the prisoner's own interest, it would be wise to put him under restraint for a term, but he would not mitigate the sentence in any way, unless restitution was made.

The prisoner was remanded for sentence.

ACQUITTED.

Ernest Harry Stark was found not guilty of having fraudulently appropriated the sums of £7 19s 9d and £7 4s 10d, belonging to the firm of Funck, Stark, and Company, Ltd., of which he was a director, on June 4 and July 17 last.

In his defence, Stark said that he had been connected with the firm, which carried on the business of bone and hide buyers and exporters, for 20 years. In October, 1912, he took as partner John Edward Jackson, and it was agreed that each was to have an equal share of the profits, but he received nothing. If he had not taken the cheques in question he would not have received a copper up to the present. There had been ill-feeling between him and Jackson over a question of floating the business into a limited company in April, 1913.

His Honor said that there had been irregularity on the part of Stark, but unless there had been wilful misappropriation the jury must acquit him, and without leaving the box the verdict was given, and the accused acquitted.

On a further charge of stealing a cheque, Stark pleaded not guilty, and was allowed out on his own recognisances to appear for trial if called upon.

Mr. T. Rose appeared for the defence.

BURGLARY CHARGE FAILS.

James Costello was charged with breaking and entering the premises of John Drummond, of the Glasgow Arms Hotel, William Henry and Harris streets, Ultimo, on September 7, and stealing therein two gallons of sherry, five bottles of beer, two bottles of gin, and one bottle of schnapps.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for Costello, who pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Drummond closed his premises at 11 p.m., but he was called by a police constable at 1 a.m., who informed him that the window of his liquor store had been broken and pushed up. The sherry and beer were found on the footpath. The accused and another man were seen standing on the corner of a street near by, but they ran away, and the policeman fired two shots in the air to frighten them, and then fired at one of the men. The policeman did not make an arrest then, but later on he picked the accused out from six other men at the police station.

The accused's defence was that a mistake had been made as to identification, as he was not near the hotel on the night in question.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and Costello was discharged.

CONVICTED OF PERJURY.

William Cotterill, who had been convicted on a charge of perjury, was sentenced to three months' hard labour in Darlinghurst Gaol.

His Honor said that perjury was always bad, but he considered that Cotterill's case was not a very bad one. In imposing the sentence he had taken the jury's recommendation to mercy into consideration.

GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Victor Bruce Wynne, who had pleaded guilty to two charges of embezzlement from the Edderton Meat Works, by which company he had been employed as an accountant and collector, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, with hard labour, on each charge, in Goulburn Gaol, the sentences to be concurrent. His Honor said that if restitution were made to the firm Wynne's sentence would be again considered.

ASTRONOMY.

-INVESTIGATIONS IN AUSTRALIA.

DR. ROSEBY'S ADDRESS.

In the course of his annual presidential address at the Royal Society's House last evening, Dr. Roseby, F.R.A.S., discussed the condition and outlook of astronomical work in Australia. The English Nautical Almanac, he said, in its annual list, recorded in all 140 observatories throughout the world. Of these only fifteen were in the Southern Hemisphere—six being in Australia. It would be at once seen how much heavier a task was imposed on, or, rather, how much ampler a field for observation was open to, the Southern astronomer than the northern. Indeed the progress of astronomy as a whole was seriously handicapped by this disproportion. The abundant labours and accumulated material of northern astronomers were only a piece of work half done whilst our southern contribution was lacking. He referred to the great astrographic enterprise—to secure a complete and uniform photographic chart of the whole heavens—and Australia's honourable share in it, and said that, while recognising the first claim on Australian observatories to concern themselves with fundamental star work, he would urge that there was no good reason why other and more attractive branches of observation and research should be excluded. Some of these, happily, did find place in our work.

But, continued Dr. Roseby, the science of astronomy has never, since the days of Sir William Herschel, lost sight of what that puissant genius declared to be the goal of all his labours—the framing of a theory of the architecture of the stellar universe as a whole. And in this work the spectroscope had rendered the highest service. It had, in fact, created the new science of solar and astro-physics. It was therefore matter of great regret that our spectroscopic knowledge of the southern heavens was so scanty and superficial. The only serious contribution yet made to it was by the Royal Observatory at the Cape of Good Hope, itself officially a branch of British astronomy.

The establishment of a solar-physics observatory in New Zealand gave promise of a wider extension of this work. But the work itself was so extensive, and the modern requirements in connection with it were so exacting, that it seemed a pity Australia could not bear some larger share in it. Nor did it seem too much to ask that one of our observatories might specialise in observations for stellar parallax. Dr. Roseby referred to the fact that it was Thomas Henderson—a Southern astronomer—who, eighty years ago, discovered the parallax of what turned out to be our Sun's nearest neighbour, Alpha Centauri; and, had he published the result of his research immediately he had achieved it, he would actually have anticipated the epoch-making announcement of Bessel.

Dr. Roseby, after mentioning some of the more notable facts in the astronomical record of the last year, concluded with a reference to the immense share that astronomy was taking to-day in the discussion of such subjects as were occupying the attention of the world's foremost scientists and philosophers. He particularly referred to the researches of Sir George Darwin, and of Henri Poincare, the eminent French mathematician, and to the address just recently delivered by Sir Oliver Lodge, as president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Surely it said much for the elevation of the science, and its fascination for minds of the highest type, that the latest discussions of scientific men on their profoundest themes were all deeply implicated in the studies which clustered round, or were centred in, astronomy!

NEWCASTLE RAILWAYS.

PROPOSALS FOR ALTERATIONS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Alderman H. M. Shedden, Mayor of Newcastle; and Alderman Davies, with the town clerk and engineer, waited upon Mr. T. R. Johnson, Chief Commissioner for Railways in regard to several improvements they would like to see effected in the city. Mr. Johnson said that he could not make a crossing at Denison-street, leading into Lee Wharf. He was prepared to erect an overhead bridge there, when it was necessary, but considered that it was not a necessity at the present time. With regard to the railway accommodation at Newcastle he had had a writ issued against the Federal Government in regard to the buildings near the station. He wanted to get possession of the buildings and then improve the station.

With reference to the appeal for better accommodation at Honeysuckle Station he said that he wanted to be quite frank. He was going to spend the money at Broadmeadow. That would be the place where the people would change. They were fast approaching the time when several northern trains would not come right into this city. It was a great expense running the trains to a dead-end like that, which existed at Newcastle. He was looking forward to the time when the Brisbane mail train would not come into Newcastle. In reference to the site near Honeysuckle Station for the electric light station for the municipal council he was not prepared to say whether the piece of land required by the council would be wanted for railway purposes. In reply to a question the Commissioner was informed that in a few weeks' time the council would be able to supply up to 200 k.w. per day over the present power the railways were now receiving. Other matters were brought before the notice of the Commissioner, who referred to the shortness of money. He said that it was entirely a question of money, and he had not been able to get all he wanted. That was the position in a nutshell.

SYDNEY DIOCESAN APPOINTMENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The letters re appointments and parties are very necessary indeed to draw attention to the way "party interests" are worked in synod. Last synod it was very interesting to hear members of the Low party, from the Archbishop down, refer to the pleasure they experienced in observing the way party barriers were being removed, then to vote, when the voting for the various committees came on, the manner in which the Low party carefully removed any representative of the Broad and High parties from all committees. The greatest blot of last synod was the removal of Archdeacon Gunther and the head master of the C.E.G. School from the School Council, especially as the Low party was most unfortunate in the selection of their candidates. It is this narrow party spirit that prevents the clergy getting fair play. This "spirit" prevents the greatest intellect of the diocese holding office on any committee. Churchmen will know who is referred to.

ANTI-PARTY.

Oct. 17.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Sad it is that Sydney churchmen are forced to use the press to ventilate their grievances; yet who can blame them, in view of the very prejudiced appointments recently made; but this is only to be expected.

At the recent Synod, the Archbishop, in his opening address, made quite a lot of the Bishop of Manchester's open letter to the Primate of the English Church, but not one word was said about the Archbishop of Canterbury's fair and open-minded reply, or even a hint given that he had replied. Is this ecclesiastical mental reservation? Is this prejudice? However, an excellent plan for churchmen to adopt to show their disgust of the present administration will be to withhold their contribution from every diocesan fund, and to give instead an equal, if not greater, contribution to the Australian Board of Missions, where there is no prejudice in administration, and all schools of thought are treated fairly, by virtue of the other Australian bishops being on the Board.

OVERLAPPING AWARDS.

AN INSPECTOR CRITICISED.

The Hunter River Colliery Proprietors' Association had a number of complaints to make to the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. M'Gowen, yesterday. The deputation, which consisted of Messrs. John Brown, Isaac Chapman (Seaham and Abermain collieries), F. J. Doddemeade (W. Laidley and Co.), H. de Y. Scroggie (Newcastle, Wallsend), R. G. Robinson (Scottish-Australian Mining Co.), Albert Sims (Pacific Coal Co.), and N. J. Clarke.

Mr. Brown referred to the Pelaw Main trouble, and the attitude taken up by the district inspector Mr. Gregory. He said that they were prepared to thrash the matter out with the men. They met the inspector, and he asked them to withdraw the summonses—that was on September 26—and said there would be no more trouble, adding that the men would return to work. He (Mr. Brown) said that they would withdraw the summonses, but not the costs. What they had to complain of in this matter was that they felt they had been treated by the inspector in a very unfair way, and they could not trust him any further in face of what he had done.

Mr. M'Gowen asked where the partisanship came in.

Mr. Clarke explained that Mr. Gregory had said the men would go back to work if Mr. Brown would withdraw the summonses. Mr. Brown asked if there were any other conditions, and Mr. Gregory replied in the negative. Mr. Brown said to him: "If there is anything at the back of this, out with it." Mr. Gregory said "No, no, no!" The next they knew was that the matter had been referred to a wages board. As an inspector, they looked to Mr. Gregory to be impartial, and if it was in his mind to have the matter dealt with in this way, he should have told them.

The next ground of complaint was in regard to the Minister's action in referring the trouble to Judge Edmunds. Mr. Brown said that they would have to abide by whatever was decided by Judge Edmunds in regard to a living wage, but thought that if they got one dose it was sufficient.

Mr. Clarke added that they were being got at in both the State and the Federal Courts, and if Judge Higgins's Court fixed a higher rate than Dr. Todd's, or vice versa, they would have to come up to the higher one. There was also the question of expense. They were being dragged over to Melbourne every time, and it was becoming very serious—in fact, they were wondering when it was going to stop.

Mr. Brown said that the miners wanted a subsidiary court. The colliery proprietors had now more troubles than before they had the court at all, and they felt that they would never be out of the courts.

Mr. Clarke said he thought that the proprietors should be notified before a reference was made by the Minister. When this had been done in one case, that case was settled without a reference having to be made. In other cases, the matters had been sent to the board, and that was the first intimation the proprietors had had.

Mr. M'Gowen said that in one case the men had come down to him for the purpose of getting a conciliation committee in regard to "deficiency places." A telegram was sent to the proprietors asking them to come down, and a second wire, saying that the matter would be postponed till 7 o'clock for them. However, the proprietors simply refused to come.

Mr. Clarke explained that when they got the first telegram they could not possibly get the proprietors together in time. The second wire did not arrive till next morning.

Mr. M'Gowen: You see my position. I was face to face that day with the fact that 800 men would put down their tools on the Monday. I found it was impossible to get a conciliation committee.

Mr. Brown: We are quite prepared to abide by the law, but apparently the men are not. An Act has been passed to prevent strikes. We wish to know if the law is made for one party only or for both. These strikes are ruining our trade, and something has got to be done to prevent them. The Government should see that the law is carried out.

The Minister said the law could not be made for one side only. He admitted that there had been a great deal of difficulty in Newcastle. He would not care to go back to the days of strike. He had pledged his faith to arbitration. The Crown had prosecuted strikers in many cases. In regard to the complaint about Mr. Gregory, he said, that the men were under the impression that they had been robbed. He wanted the industrial machine to work smoothly. The coal industry was a great one, and they wanted to keep it going. Mr. Gregory had gone to the men in regard to the machinists at Pelaw Main, and had said: "If I can have a reference made to the Court in regard to these 'deficiency places,' will you go back to work?" They had said they would. Mr. Gregory did not tell the proprietors that an application for a reference had been made. The men went back. When they came before the Court they got more than they had been getting before.

Voices: No, no.

Mr. M'Gowen: Oh, very well. But Mr. Gregory had no authority from Mr. Holme or from me to say that a reference would be made.

Mr. Clarke: But could he not have told us that the application for a reference would be made? It would have been the better course, would it not, Mr. Holme?

Mr. Holme (Industrial Registrar): Yes, certainly.

Mr. Brown said that they would never have withdrawn the summonses had they known that a reference was to be made. If the proprietors followed that course in regard to references from the Minister, they would be applying for them every day.

Mr. M'Gowen said he thought the first principle of arbitration was conciliation, and it was the duty of Government servants to try and bring the parties together. He thought that Mr. Gregory might have told Mr. Brown the whole of the facts, but at the same time, he had no authority to say that the Minister had granted the reference. In regard to the living wage question, he thought that the minimum fixed by the Federal Court would apply in the State Courts. He thought they would arrive at a satisfactory decision on that point. He agreed that certain organisations had been putting down tools with very little cause, but the Government had prosecuted in nearly every case. The men, apparently, did not yet realise the misdemeanour of striking. They had had no very big disturbances during the past three years, and should realise that the men had been more amenable to arbitration during the period than ever before. The Industrial Registrar and he were sanguine that the miners would realise that arbitration was the best method of settlement.

COLLIERY EMPLOYEES' ASSOCIATION.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The quarterly meeting of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association was held at Tattersall's Hotel on Thursday. The newly-elected officers, Messrs. James Maguire (president), S. Bird (treasurer), and A. C. Willis (general secretary) were present. Delegates were present representing 2600 members.

A letter was read from Mr. G. H. Knibbs, Commonwealth Statistician, asking for information regarding the cost of living, and stating that an inquiry was to be held during November. Several members characterised such an inquiry as an insult to the working class, and it was unanimously decided that the matter be swept off the board.

Numerous complaints were made about the way deficiency claims were being dealt with by the industrial department, and it was decided that the general secretary should obtain a list from each lodge secretary of deficiency claims, which have not been dealt with in a satisfactory manner. It was reported that Critcher, who, it was alleged, was wrongfully dismissed from South Bulli colliery, had secured work at another colliery.

A letter was read from Mr. Hibble, the newly-appointed chairman of the Southern Miners' Wages Board, asking for a suitable date for a preliminary conference in connection with the new agreement.

Mr. Willis stated that he had replied to the letter notifying that they were prepared to meet at any time, and hoped that a meeting would be arranged as early as possible.

POLICE COURTS.

GRANDDAUGHTER'S BANK BOOK.

Before Mr. King, S.M., at the Glebe Police Court, May Ryan proceeded against her grandmother, Catherine Ryan, to recover from her a Government Savings Bank passbook. It was stated that the old lady had previously refused to give up the book on the ground that her granddaughter was not of age. The young woman reached her majority about 10 days ago, and asked that the passbook should be handed over to her. The magistrate ordered the book to be given up, the grandmother to pay £1 7s costs.

MACHINERY.

BLACKER'S PATENT HAMMER.

POWER OR MECHANICAL.

This Hammer is intended to dispense with the services of a striker, especially in those smithies and workshops scattered all over the country, which are either too isolated to get any form of Cheap Power, or where business is not sufficient to allow a striker's wage.

It will do upwards of 90 per cent. of the ordinary jobbing work, and is the nearest approach to the human striker ever produced.

The Hammer Head swings in a radial motion, and thereby can be used successfully for the piecing of hoops, etc, and such things as cannot be got under the head of the ordinary Vertical Hammer.

The feature of this Hammer is that any height of tool or thickness of metal may be worked. The head of the Hammer can be moved laterally by simple motion, thus bringing it to any desired point along the length of the anvil, so that swinging, punching, flattening, or any other such work can be accomplished with perfect freedom.

The weight of the blow can be varied.

BUILD WITH "KEYLOCK," NOTHING IS BETTER.
Keylock is not an ordinary sort of material, which can be damaged by a hard knock, but it is just as strong and durable as brick, and is every whit as neat and attractive in appearance.
It costs only a little more than weatherboard, but never needs painting, is easier to erect, and cleaner, and is proof against fire, water, vermin, etc.
Keylock is unquestionably the most suitable material for cottages—many of Sydney's best architects and builders have admitted this.
Keylock is extremely useful in many ways, and no one should delay in GETTING MORE DETAILS.

GOOD SOUND TIMBER!
—WHERE?

The building contractor is faced time and again with this problem.
Where shall he get thoroughly seasoned timber?
The huge demand for building timbers causes many suppliers to send out half-seasoned stock.
THE HOLDSHIP TIMBER CO. never do this. The vast stocks are constantly supplemented by new cargoes—therefore every piece of timber has good time to dry.

WUNDERLICH CEILINGS.
ENHANCE THE ATTRACTIVENESS OF BUSINESS PREMISES.

The beautifying of business premises is well recognised as productive of increased trade. WUNDERLICH MATERIALS improve the exterior and the interior of Business Houses. Note any awning lined with WUNDERLICH ART METAL. Note any shop front embellished by WUNDERLICH PRODUCTIONS—any interior beautified by WUNDERLICH CEILINGS AND WALL LININGS. And remember that all this excellence costs little. And, as these Australian-made goods do not deteriorate, the first cost is the last cost.

WUNDERLICH MATERIALS pack flat—in small compass. Transport charges do not load the first cost unduly. This fine feature brings them within the scope of moderate means—in town or country.

FILL IN THE ATTACHED COUPON, and a copy of our Illustrated Art Catalogue, showing reproductions of WUNDERLICH MANUFACTURES, and with full instructions for fixing, will be sent post free.

IDEAL HOME CONDITIONS AT HABERFIELD.
"Sydney's Garden Suburb."

The pleasant design and attractive exterior of a Haberfield Home is set off to the greatest advantage by the clever planning of the suburb. To produce a healthy and beautiful suburb was the aim never lost sight of from the earliest moment. The result is the existence of an estate where the modern science of suburb planning is seen to perfection.

The Villas themselves are all of distinctive design, each differing from the others. The interiors are decorated and finished with close regard to the general scheme of the structure. The appointments throughout are modern and artistic. Each building is sound, weatherproof, well ventilated, and possessed of every necessary convenience.

It is easy to own a Haberfield Home. If you have only £50 to pay as deposit, we can deal with you at HABERFIELD. Our Easy Terms of Repayment on a 5 per cent. basis will astonish you. In most cases the repayments are practically less than the property is worth on a rental basis. The balance of the purchase money is payable as rent. You arrive at absolute ownership in the smoothest and easiest way. You never feel the strain.

At £1065 we are offering a specially fine residence, in which the following features are artistically combined:—A wide 6ft entrance hall, about 30ft in length, fitted with picture rail and deep frieze, specially imported. The majestic appearance of this as you enter from a Mosaic tiled 6ft front verandah gives the [illegible] of a [illegible] home, as [illegible] and [illegible] in the whole cottage. The three bedrooms are delightfully finished with art mantels, friezes, [illegible] ceilings, artistic gas ornaments, and opening on to a [illegible] large verandah [illegible] ample sleeping-out accommodation. The dining and drawing rooms are beautifully fitted with bevelled glass, mirrored art overmantels, imported frieze mouldings, picture rails, and antique furnishings. The tiled bathroom is fitted with large porcelain enamelled bath, shower, lavatory basins, gas, etc. There are two linen presses, pantries, gas stove, and kitchen and laundry are fitted throughout with carefully-studied domestic conveniences. The land is 50 x 150. We would like to show you this cottage. It is convenient to both the train and the tram.

Haberfield is reached by Abbotsford or Haberfield tram from G.P.O. in 30 minutes, or by through train to Summer Hill in 10 minutes.

Take tram in George-street, and alight at O'Connor-street.

ROSEBERY.

MODEL AND INDUSTRIAL SUBURB.

HOME-SITES AND FACTORY-SITES,

RIGHT ON THE CITY BOUNDARY.

There are two absolute certainties about ROSEBERY Land. Firstly, the certainty that you cannot buy Land so suitable for Home or Factory Sites so near the City at anything like the price. Secondly, the equal certainty that the present values of this Land will see so rapid enhancement that they will double within a few years.

ROSEBERY is situated between Victoria Park and Rosebery Racecourses, and adjoins the Kensington Golf Course. It is served by trains on three sides of the Estate, and the fare to the Central Railway Station is only 1d to the nearer parts of the Estate, and 2d to the further portions.

OVER £70,000 WORTH OF LAND SOLD IN 18 MONTHS.

Home-builders and seekers after Factory Sites have been quick to recognise the great chances offered at Rosebery. To date, over £70,000 worth of land has been sold in 18 months. This is, we believe, a record for Real Estate Dealings.

THE EASIEST OF TERMS.
The Terms are so easy that you can invest in ROSEBERY Land—whether for private or business purposes. If you have only little ready money. Ten per cent.—2/ in the £—deposit, and 5 per cent. interest only for 3 years on the unpaid balance. At the end of 3 years the balance is payable. Or, the balance may be discharged by 20 equal quarterly instalments extending over 5 years.

MOSMAN, the Home for the Rural Magnate. The very pick of Sydney's Harbour Frontage.—PALATIAL RESIDENCE, Brick and Stone, 2½ acres of land, which has been converted into a veritable Garden of Eden. Art and Nature have conspired to produce effects that must gratify the most fastidious. Lawns, flowers, shrubs, and statuary present the most harmonious picture, making a combination only obtainable at enormous "first cost." The House in such a setting would be expected to be superb, and it fills all expectations. It faces the rising sun and the Blue Pacific, and one has only to lift the eye from this paradise to be cheered and comforted by the ever-changing sea, from the Harbour through the Heads to the open Ocean. The internal economy of this "palace" is the last word in luxury and convenience. It is finished in perfect taste, and the walls are works of art. Nothing requires to be done to suit the most aesthetic taste. The accommodation is exhaustive, and on a princely scale. Dining, Drawing, and Breakfast Rooms, 7 Bedrooms, Study, Schoolroom, Lounge, Photographic Room, Storeroom, and Elaborate Offices. The largest room is 27ft x 20ft, the smallest 14ft x 14ft; Billiard-room 30ft x 22ft, with full-sized table, in good order. The main hall and vestibule is 34ft x 8ft, balcony 52ft x 14ft x 11ft, protected by verandahs. Large Bathroom, containing beautiful Roman marble bath. Garage is solid brick, and outhouses and offices too numerous to particularise. Extensive and perfect Tennis Court, beautiful Conservatory and Fish Pond. Asphalt paths and every conceivable facility for luxury and convenience. The property as it stands could not be placed there UNDER £14,000, but the Owner has determined to realise, and WILL SLAUGHTER at £7000. Terms may be arranged, £4000 may remain at 4½ per cent. for 3 or 5 years.
The purchaser may, at his option, purchase all Furniture, Motor Car, etc., at a very low figure. To see this property is to purchase it. Motor to inspect.

IN THE COUNTRY OF THE BLIND THE ONE-EYED MAN IS KING.

Car Buyers who have never really investigated will accept any inferior make. Like the blind, they bow to half value. Some men think they are getting more, when they are merely paying more.

Regrets are very unsatisfactory affairs. In this connection we wish to remind you that have set up a high standard of strength, reliability, and service, unequalled by any car on the road. Motor car buyers who have purchased higher-priced cars know this.

The Overland Factory is so splendidly equipped with time-saving, labour-saving, waste-saving automatic machinery, the business is so vast, they can afford to make the best car.

1913 MODELS.—30-H.P., sell at £355 to £415, with the finest equipment, including Electric Self-starting and Lighting Fittings, Silk Mohair Hood and Envelope, Vision Windscreen, Electric Speedometer, Robe, and Foot Rails, Tools, and Kit.

45-H.P., sell at £500 to £550, with Electric Self-starting and Lighting Equipment, etc.

You owe it to yourself to see these 1913 Models, to examine the wonderful strength of the rear axles and brakes, to test the sweet and silent motor, with its 5-bearing crankshaft, to see the new Self-starter, electric equipments, and the general high-class quality of the fittings. The 1913 Overland is a better car in every way than you would expect for twice the price.

WHETHER YOUR RADIATOR LEAKS OR NOT,

Mr. Car Owner, you should carry a tin of Se-ment-ol in your tool-box. A leak can be caused in many ways—a stone thrown up by a passing vehicle, or by a mischievous small boy, a collision, etc.—and it is a serious thing to have to patch up on the road.

SE-MENT-OL RADIATOR CEMENT

finds the leak and fixes it in 15 minutes without any trouble. Simply pour it into the radiator while the engine is running; Se-ment-ol does the rest. It is guaranteed not to either clog the tubes or to injure the metal or the rubber connections. On the contrary, by lubricating the metal it

As builders of modern battleships, together with their complete armament and equipment, those responsible for the materials which are produced by VICKERS' vast steel works and brass founderies possess a PRECISE KNOWLEDGE of the particular material which is best suited for a particular purpose. BIG PRICE REDUCTIONS TO CLEAR OUR "OVERSTOCK" OF CARS AND MOTOR CYCLES.

Our stock of cars and cycles is too large. New shipments landing before Christmas will need a lot more room than we've got at present. So the cars in stock—new and almost new—must be cleared. To do this, and do it quickly, we've made reductions that are truly very big. The new cars have been reduced as well as the second-hand ones, and if you are looking for a good vehicle at anything from £25 to £100 cheaper than the usual market price, the present opportunity offers it to you. The price, of course, is strictly cash, and as we are clearing practically at cost, no dealers or their agents need apply. Prices are too low to admit of any further reduction.

6 two-passenger, four-cylinder, 25-h.p. Mitchell Cars, 1913 models, with genuine mohair hoods, mohair seat covers, etc. Some are centre control, some side control, and a few of them have three-passenger bodies. Regular price, including seat covers, is £310, but to clear the six out quickly the cash price is £265 each. All guaranteed the same as if sold at the full price.

1 two-passenger, four-cylinder, 25-h.p. Mitchell, 1913 Model. Only in use three months. In perfect running order and condition. Original price, £300. Will clear at £175 cash.

1 two-passenger, single-cylinder, 12-h.p. Sizaire-Naudin. Has had but very light service. Regular price, £300. Will clear at £195 cash.

1 two-passenger, four-cylinder, 15.9-h.p. Arrol-Johnston, magnificent car that has never been used for anything except demonstration purposes. Has been repainted and refitted with new tyres. Complete in every respect, and guaranteed to be equal to a new car. Suit doctor or other professional man admirably. Regular price, £380. Will clear for cash at £285.

1 two-passenger, four-cylinder, 30-h.p. Sibley—an American car that is guaranteed to be perfect in the power and running plant. If repainted, the body would be practically new, though it is quite presentable even now. Usual Price £[illegible] cash. Cash Sale Price, £175.

1 two-passenger, single-cylinder, 12-h.p. Sizaire-Naudin. Originally cost £300. Will clear for cash at £180. Price includes full equipment.

1 five-seater, four-cylinder, 30-h.p. Mitchell. Only in use three months. A magnificent touring car, complete in every detail; speedometer, etc., etc. Originally cost £475. A snap for anybody at £375 cash.

MOTOR CYCLES.

We are only offering cycles of proved British manufacture. Many of them have never been taken out of the cases, and can be guaranteed as if sold at original selling price. Remember, the offer only holds good for a month. You will want to respond promptly for such reductions only occur at very infrequent intervals. We only describe a few of the motor-cycles here, but there are over twenty-five altogether.

Humber, 3½-h.p., two-speed motor cycle. Usual Price, £72. For quick cash sale at £60. The very latest model.

HUMBER, 2¾-h.p., light weight, twin-cylinder motor cycle, with three speeds and free engine, usually sold at £81 10s; to clear at £65.

Humber, 2-h.p. Motor Cycle, light weight, single gear, £42 to clear.

Premier, 3½-h.p. A fine English cycle, with auxiliary exhaust. Usually sold at £67, and worth it. To clear at £52 cash.

If you are not in the market for a car or cycle it may be that you have friends who are. They will thank you to bring under their notice this opportunity for securing such good goods at so low a figure. But urge them to be prompt.

WHEREVER STRENGTH AND SPEED ARE NEEDED.

PALMER CORD TYRES.

The Motorist who loves to get out on the open road and give the speedometer some "climbing exercise," finds Palmer Cord Tyres to be the most dependable. They are specially constructed to resist internal friction, and never "run hot," even at excessive speed.

This has been proven time and again at Brooklands, where these tyres have annexed practically every speed record of importance.

CAMPBELL'S HILL SALEYARDS,

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1913,
AT 11 A.M. SHARP.

79 PURE MARES and FILLIES, some in foal, all from imported stock, 3, 4, 5, 6 years and over.
31 PURE GELDINGS, from 3 to 6 years, and 5 ¾-bred SUFFOLK MARES.

Magnificent lot—no culls—only being sold to reduce the stud, owing to a portion of Mooki Springs being sold. The above horses are in the pink of condition, most of them broken to usual station harness work, balance unbroken. The mares in this draft are an exceptionally high-class lot for breeding purposes, as they are all from imported blood. The Geldings are a fine lot of upstanding horses, with all the docility, intelligence, and strength, characteristic of these splendid Suffolk horses. 5 or 6 excellent half-breds will be included in the draft.

This Sale is the most important of its kind yet held in the Commonwealth, it being the largest number of pure Suffolk Horses yarded at one sale. Suffolks have undoubtedly shown the best results as active farm horses, and wherever they have been crossed always resulted in producing very useful animals, and from light mares, superior and most handsome saddle and light harness sorts.

It is safe to say that no breed can approach the Suffolk for general utility on farms, stations, and road work.

NOTE.—West Maitland is only four hours rail from Sydney, with a frequent train service.

LABOUR CRITICISM.

MR. WADE'S SPEECH.

THE FINANCIAL ASPECT.

The Treasurer (Mr. Cann), commenting yesterday on Mr. Wade's reference to the State finances at Chatswood, made the following statement:—

"Mr. Wade says that, in respect of the consolidated revenue, his Government left us £995,707. But the Auditor-General says that Mr. Wade left only £134,584 16s 5d—that is, on the day Mr. M'Gowen took office, October 22, 1910. Mr. Wade says that he left the Public Works Fund in credit £738,303. The Auditor-General shows that on October 22, 1910, it stood at only £498,801 13s 9d. The Closer Settlement Fund, according to Mr. Wade, was £543,999 in credit; whereas the Auditor-General shows it contained only £476,072 18s 3d on October 22, 1910. Again, Mr. Wade says that he left the Loan Account £309,167 in credit, whereas the Auditor-General shows that it was overdrawn to the extent of £308,452—that is taking into consideration money raised from Special Railway Loan Account for duplication.

"Anyone can see now the difference between Mr. Wade's statements and the facts. In regard to Mr. Wade's other statement—that money is being wasted, but to what extent cannot be ascertained till the Liberals get access to the accounts—my reply is this: I only suggest that Mr. Wade knows from experience what he did himself. We don't do anything of that kind. The figures we publish are the facts certified to by the Auditor-General, and there is nothing covered up."

THE SCHOOLS.

WHAT LABOUR HAS DONE.

"I notice," said Mr. Carmichael yesterday, "that in Mr. Wade's policy speech he states that during the last campaign he unfolded the policy of secondary education which is now being carried out. Mr. Wade might have gone further and stated that he unfolded it, the campaign before last, and the campaign before that. In fact, he has been 'unfolding' it ever since the proposal to make secondary education the right of every child appeared on the Labour platform.

"It is only necessary to turn up the annual report to see that Mr. Wade's 'unfolding' of a secondary education scheme was as far as ever it got. In 1906 there were five High schools in operation, with a total enrolment of 917. In 1910, when Mr. Wade says he 'unfolded his scheme, there were five High schools, with a total enrolment of 1168. The Labour Government came into power at the end of 1910, and on January 1, 1911, abolished all High school fees. Three High schools were at once created, making a total of eight, and the attendance almost doubled, the enrolment being 2293. Last year (1912) there were 12 High schools with an enrolment of 3002, and at the end of last quarter 15 High schools and five intermediate High schools were in operation, with a total enrolment of 4077. So much for Mr. Wade's scheme of secondary education.

"Next take the question of continuation schools. This extension was advocated by the Director of Education as a result of a visit to Europe; but like many other reforms, the scheme was not even 'unfolded.' Within a few months of the time the Government took office we sent the Director of Education abroad to inquire into evening continuation schools, recognising that this type of school affected thousands where High schools affected hundreds. The result was that evening continuation schools were begun in 1911, and their success is a matter of common knowledge.

"Mr. Wade also refers to the care of the feeble minded. It may be news to him that the department has secured statistics from every school in the State setting forth the number of feeble minded or backward children, with the probable causes. We have appointed a large and highly qualified medical staff, and as soon as these returns are completed the medical staff will be asked to go into the whole question in order to determine the best possible means of effecting improvements in the educational conditions of the feeble minded. This is not a scheme just 'unfolded,' but on the point of being brought into existence.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

"I notice, too, that Mr. Wade foreshadowed a college for domestic science. You will find this on the Labour platform; but just as it would be absurd to create a university for primary school pupils, so it would have been ludicrous to give a domestic science college until girls, by school training, had been fitted to take advantage of the college course. We started at the right end by introducing domestic superior schools, where girls are trained to a point at which they can take full advantage of a science course at a college, and when these girls have completed their continuation school course the question of establishing a domestic science college follows as a matter of course.

"Mr. Wade also refers to the necessity for encouraging trade and technical schools. This is also a matter that he has 'unfolded' and folded up again. During the whole of the present year the departmental officers have been in close touch, not only with employers, but with employees, with the result that from the beginning of next year a scheme of technical education will be brought into existence that will have the endorsement and the co-operation both of employees and employers. Everything is ready, and from the beginning of the year trades schools will spring up in every suburb where there is a demand for a school leading to any or every particular trade.

"In conclusion, there is this one great difference between the present Government and the Opposition. The Liberal party unfolds a scheme, gives itself three cheers, and promptly pigeonholes it until the next election requires the scheme to be unfolded again. With only three years in office, the Labour party has not only 'unfolded' educational schemes, but it has actually brought them into existence, so that the child of every man, of every class, creed, or station, now has an avenue, whether directed towards technical, commercial, or professional pursuits."

NEWCASTLE.

PROMISED IMPROVEMENTS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Deputations from the Chamber of Commerce waited upon Mr. Johnson to-day in regard to the coal-loading and shipping facilities of the port. Mr. H. C. Langwill, president of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced the deputation.

Mr. Johnson, in reply, said there was no doubt that the completion of the quadruplication between Wallsend Junction and Metford had very materially assisted their work. The remaining section at this end, where the traffic was to be carried underneath the main Northern Line, would be completed shortly. Then they would have uninterrupted traffic from Metford to the dyke on lines devoted to the coal traffic only. The work would be started at East Maitland in a week or two, and it was going to be carried north of Maitland, so as to give facilities to the East Greta Co. The work would be completed as quickly as possible. They would not wait for the whole to be done, but would open the lines in sections. He hoped there would be no further difficulty. As soon as the quadruplication had been finished at the back of Waratah station, he anticipated that they should be able to carry up to 130,000 or 140,000 tons of coal, and hardly know that there was any coal traffic.

He had sent all the particulars to England for the additional crane, and he was only waiting for the makers to deliver it, when it would be erected in the basin as required. He had already told them, he said, what he was prepared to do with the McMyler hoist, but it was a question of money. At the present time, seeing that they only had a supply up to the end of the year, he did not know how he stood. The estimates would be made out for the first six months of next year. Until then he was afraid that he would not be able to make any commencement with the erection of the hoist. At present he had received instructions to go slow.

WEEK'S COAL TRADE.

The exports of coal for the week ending to-day amounted to 98,844 tons, of which 53,469 tons were for the Commonwealth and New Zealand ports, and 42,375 tons for oversea countries. The figures would have been much higher had the loading appliances been able to cope with the demand that has been made upon them during the past seven days. To-day saw several vessels which should have been loaded and away from the port still at the cranes. During the week three steamers were compelled to leave without taking in any supplies of bunker coal.

LATE DR. DILL MACKY.

FUNERAL AT ROOKWOOD.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Two thousand people stood at the graveside yesterday afternoon, when the remains of the late Rev. William Marcus Dill Macky, D.D., were interred in the Presbyterian section of the Rookwood Cemetery. The city streets along which the funeral cortege moved, from Scots Church to the mortuary station, were thronged. A special train conveyed 1200 mourners to the Necropolis; several hundred journeyed by the ordinary trains and awaited the arrival of the special. Wreaths were forwarded from all parts of the Commonwealth.

Shortly after noon an impressive service was held in the Scots Church, of which the deceased gentleman was pastor. The bell of St. Philip's Church of England was tolled during the service and while the funeral procession was moving off to the station. The Scots Church was crowded, several hundred people being unable to obtain admission. The Moderator of the Presbytery (Rev. F. Barclay) presided. He was assisted by Canon Bellingham (Church of England), the Revs. R. H. Waugh and John Macaulay.

An address was delivered by the Rev. Thomas Morgan, who was an intimate friend of the late doctor. "Ties of long standing and of the closest kind," he said, "have been severed. The union which has existed between this church and its late beloved pastor has lasted for a quarter of a century. He was a man of strong convictions, and he owned those convictions. He had the courage to own them, and it was the endeavour of his life to give unto them effect. Like the ancient philosopher, he followed fearlessly wherever his argument led him. He had no fear of man, for the fear of God had filled his heart. It was not possible for him to do anything by halves, and the strength of his convictions was such that to him it was a duty to stand up and contend for the faith that was in him.

"The Protestant religion was as sacred to him as the ark of the covenant was to ancient Israel. He believed with all his might the religion of his forefathers, of his youth and early manhood, and that religion ever became dearer and dearer to his heart. In my opinion, the intense love of our brother made him a son of thunder, and yet, with all his contention for the faith, there was no hatred, no malice, no bitterness in his soul. He was a man singularly free from guile—kind-hearted, generous to a fault, and ever ready to help those in trouble. He was an evangelical in the right sense of the word. I like the Salvation Army's view that death is really the soldier's promotion. Surely one can say, with all truth, that this soldier, William Marcus Dill Macky, has been promoted to Glory."

The hymns were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "For Ever With the Lord." The "Funeral March" was played while the body was being carried out of the church by the elders, Messrs. J. Fitzsimons, A. Bowen, C. Cox, A. Forsyth, G. R. Love, and D. M'Donald. The funeral cortege was a lengthy one. It was headed by office-bearers and members—several hundred altogether—of the L.O.L. in regalia. A large crowd had assembled at the mortuary station, including many women members of the L.O.L.

At the cemetery, the burial service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Burgess. "Our departed brother," he said, "really belonged to all the Protestant churches. For that reason a Church of England clergyman—Canon Bellingham—offered prayer at the church, and a minister of a sister Church—the Rev. P. J. Stephen—will now offer prayer here." The Benediction was pronounced by the Moderator of the Assembly.

An Orange service was then conducted by Bro. J. Robinson, R.W.G.M., and Chaplain Parnell. The Grand Master said the institution had lost a leader. "His life is before us," Bro. Robinson went on. "No man in Australia was better known or loved more than the late Dr. Dill Macky. He was a fearless champion of the truth."

The principal mourners were Messrs. William M., Richard, and James (sons), the Rev. R. Dill Macky (brother), Messrs. Stevenson, Harold Busby, A. S. Jolly, Dr. Brodie (sons-in-law).

The following, amongst others, were present, either at the church or at the graveside.—The Revs. Robert Jackson, B. Gawthrop (vice-president Baptist Union), Messrs. Charles Lane (general secretary Baptist Union), J. Robinson, R.W.G.M. Orange Lodge, J. Wheeler, J. R. Chambers, T. Ridgeing, and Stocker (Grand Lodge officials); T. Jessep, A. Stephen, T. Walker, J. Fulton, T. B. Reid, A. Simms, Nelson Howard, C. J. Tinsley, J. H. Ferras, J. Ward Harrison, A. Clarke, the Revs. R. J. Middleton, W. W. Watt, John Paterson, James Lamont, J. THE WEATHER.

FINER CONDITIONS PREVAIL.

COOL AND PLEASANT.

A high pressure of moderate energy now occupies the greater part of the continent, having dislodged the Antarctic disturbance from the south-eastern States.

As a consequence, the southerly winds have lost much of their strength, and finer conditions now rule generally.

Additional rain of very light character has been recorded at one or two places in Riverina and on the south-western slopes. Corowa had 4 points, Albury 3, Jervis Bay 2, and Coolamon 1.

A pleasantly cool day and night was experienced generally over the State on Thursday, the readings during the former period varying mostly in the fifties to the seventies (degrees), whilst in the night or early morning the thirties and forties were mostly experienced. The highest registration reported yesterday was 86 degrees at Casino (on the North Coast), and the lowest was 21 degrees at Kosciusko. Other low readings were: Bundarra 28, Crookwell 29, and Coonabarabran 30.

At 9 a.m. it was cloudy or just a few very scattered clouds at places in the southern districts; otherwise fine and clear generally.

In Victoria, the rain was light fairly generally south of the Ranges and in the north-east, and in Tasmania further moderate amounts have been recorded in the west, and light generally elsewhere, except in the north and central east.

STATE ELECTIONS.

SURRY HILLS.

ALDERMAN WALKER'S CAMPAIGN.

Alderman William J. Walker, incorporated accountant, opened his campaign at M'Dougall's Hotel, Bourke and Arthur streets, on Thursday evening. Mr. Hubert W. Doyle presided. Mr. Walker criticised the attitude of the Labour Government towards the people who had placed them in power, showing that, notwithstanding the fact that they had been in power for three years, there was hardly an attempt to carry the fighting platform into effect.

Through the lack of men with financial and commercial training, there had been unwonted extravagance, and instead of having a surplus on last year's transactions there was a large deficit. He characterised the attempt at the fag end of a Parliament to pass such a Fair Rents Bill as the one introduced as nothing more or less than an electioneering placard. Alderman Walker pointed out that the retiring representative for Surry Hills—Mr. Hoyle—had not always been loyal to the Labour cause, as in 1901 he opposed Mr. M'Gowen for South Sydney at the first Federal elections. The action of the Government in not erecting dwellings for the workers was deserving of severe censure, and he contended that the City Council had been more alive on this question during the few months they had had the power than the Labour Government had been in the three years they had occupied the Treasury benches. With reference to the attitude of the British Medical Association towards the whole of the members of the Friendly Societies of the State, he was of the opinion that the Government should intervene and secure for the members the justice they were entitled to. Alderman Walker stated he was in favour of the following, amongst others:—Preferential voting, decentralisation, prudent financial administration, restoring decorum in Parliament, progressive policy of closer settlement, water conservation and irrigation, firm and impartial administration of industrial laws, a land boiler and machinery inspection Act, law reform, assisting maternity hospitals already in existence, and establishment of maternity wards in hospitals, amendment of State Children's Relief Act, and effective stringent supervision of labour agencies and registry offices.

BOTANY.

The resigned branches of the Botany Political Labour League held a combined meeting at the Mascot School of Arts on Thursday, for the purpose of organising a campaign committee in the stronghold of the selected candidate. About 60 members handed in their names as a committee. Mr. Page addressed the meeting. He challenged any of his opponents to go on to a public platform and show how and when he had ever been disloyal to the party during the last six years.

ENMORE.

ADDRESS BY MR. D. R. HALL.

Mr. D. R. Hall, Minister for Justice, the selected Labour candidate for the Enmore seat, addressed a largely-attended meeting in the Manchester Unity Hall, Enmore-road, Newtown, on Thursday. The Mayor of Newtown (Alderman Bamfield) presided.

Mr. Hall received a cordial reception. He referred to the work of the Labour Government during the past three years, specially mentioning the improvements effected in the administration of the Prisons and the Education departments. During the past three years a revolution had been made throughout the latter branch of the Public Service, which was previously looked upon as the Cinderella of the departments. One of the actions of the Government was to raise the salaries of the teachers. This the previous Government would not do. If the treatment the Liberal Government gave to the Public schools was typical of the way in which it carried on when it had millions at its disposal, how would it have acted if it had had to face a deficit. "We have spent over half a million pounds more than Mr. Wade's Government, and have spent it in a practical way. Of course the Liberal party will not tell you about these things, for they have nothing else to talk about but Mr. Griffith's Angora goat." (Laughter.)

The administration of the Lands Department by the Labour Government was also referred to by the speaker, who said that the Labour Government had done what it promised to do—help the poor man to get on the land.

WAVERLEY.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Vickery gave a garden party at their residence, Edina, Cowper-street, Waverley, to prominent Liberal supporters resident in the constituency. The object was to bring those who will bear the brunt of the work of the campaign into closer touch with the selected Liberal candidate, Mr. H. V. Jaques. There was a large gathering, and tea was served in two marquees on the lawn, while a string band entertained the company with music. The candidate delivered a short address. Colonel Macarthur Onslow, M.L.A., Dr. Lamrock (Mayor of Waverley), and Mr. W. Donald emphasised the necessity for organisation.

MR. WADE.

Mr. Wade has a full programme before him in the way of meetings for next week. He speaks in the Paddington Town Hall on Monday night in support of the candidature of Alderman Reg. Harris, the selected Liberal candidate for Paddington, and in the Oddfellows' Hall, Woollahra, on Wednesday night, in support of Mr. Latimer, the selected Liberal candidate for Woollahra, whilst he is supporting Mr. Owen Gilbert by addressing meetings at Mudgee and Gulgong on Thursday and Friday, returning in time to speak at Gordon, in his own constituency, on the Saturday night.

CAMDEN.

CAMDEN, Friday.

Alderman W. G. Watson, of Camden, has announced himself as a candidate for the coming State election, and will appear as a Progressive Independent.

BINGARA.

BARRABA, Friday.

Mr. G. R. W. M'Donald, the selected Labour candidate for Bingara, addressed a meeting last night. There was only a small attendance. A vote of confidence in Mr. M'Donald was carried.

MR. CANN'S CAMPAIGN.

QUIRINDI, Friday.

Mr. Cann, the selected Labour candidate for Upper Hunter, opened his campaign on Friday night. He said that he was there to uphold Labour principles. If the Government were returned to power he would spend thirteen million pounds on works tending towards decentralisation, principally railways to open natural ports. He was in favour of a supertax on land within a reasonable distance of railways, and the resumption of estates, so as to give full advantage to the people. The Labour party could not tolerate Mr. Willis after the way he had acted in resigning the chair.

COWRA, Friday.

At a meeting of delegates of the Liberal and the Farmers and Settlers' Associations, a plan of campaign was arranged to further the candidature of Mr. T. Waddell for Lyndhurst.

THE INTERMEDIATE AND LEAVING CERTIFICATES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I hasten to reply to Professor Carslaw in courtesy to him as one of those who, we all know, have been devoting much time and infinite pains to hammering the new system into an acceptable shape. I regret that I seem to him to have "invented" 'certain regulations which, in fact, I find set down in the official memoranda issued to schools. That these regulations, issued thus after repeated objections made against them by teachers in public and private, were issued as draft ones, is some mitigation of our alarm, but draft regulations may be very dreadful things unless the victim is quite certain that they will be amended. Many teachers think that Professor Carslaw is optimistic in speaking of them as mere draft regulations, but in any case the danger is great and there is no harm done to anyone in pointing it out. I urge amendment of certain regulations, and Professor Carslaw points to the fact that those regulations are more open to amendment than I seemed to think. I accept his view with pleasure. If these regulations, however, are as bad as many teachers think, then even the fact that they are only draft regulations is surprising, and even alarming. May I not now be allowed to say that I trust my only faults are such inventiveness as Professor Carslaw reproaches me with? The point is that there is a danger of the four-group system being imposed on all schools, apart from those pupils that take three foreign languages. I can only hope that I have Professor Carslaw's sympathy in making this find which, if he will allow me to say so, is a true "invention" in the Latin sense of that much-abused word.

Allow me to add that I do think it would be well to have more publicity even at the risk of some small easily-removed misunderstandings, when so many teachers and schools are supposed to be kept in touch with the drawing up and amending of the new regulations. No one desires controversy, I feel sure, but we all want to have things clear and definite.

I am, etc.,
R. J. LITTLE.

FEDERAL ESTIMATES.

DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

CAPITAL CITY EXPENDITURE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives to-day the estimates on new works, buildings, and additions were further considered, but little headway was made.

Answering Mr. West (N.S.W.), Mr. Kelly said no Federal rolls for New South Wales were being printed in Melbourne, nor would they be if equally satisfactory arrangements could, as anticipated, be made in New South Wales. The Government Printer, Sydney, was unable to print the supplementary rolls of New South Wales used at the late Federal elections, and had intimated his inability to carry out for the Commonwealth a considerable proportion of the electoral, meteorological, and other Home Affairs printing required in New South Wales. Other Federal departments had received a similar intimation. They had to take their printing elsewhere. He did not know what was being done in regard to the reduction of hands employed at the Government Printing Office in Sydney, but it did not arise owing to the printing of the Federal rolls being voluntarily taken away.

The estimates on new works, buildings, and additions were further considered in committee.

The debate was resumed on the item "Federal Capital at Canberra, towards cost of establishment £285,000," on which Mr. Poynton (S.A.) had moved for a reduction of £147,000.

Mr. Chapman (N.S.W.) said that money was being wasted extravagantly in the territory. There has been £440,000 spent without practical results. Colonel Miller was only nominally administrator. There should be a responsible administrator on the spot, and direction from Melbourne should cease. The carrying out of the work cost five times as much as it should have done. Buildings had been erected on the main avenue which would have to be pulled down when the city was being built. Would the Government appoint Colonel Miller administrator?

The Prime Minister said he had all the powers he should have. The passing of a statute, making him permanent administrator would not benefit matters.

Mr. Chapman: Was the Prime Minister satisfied with the way things were being carried on at the Capital?

The Prime Minister: I am not. Far from it.

Mr. Chapman: The question of paying for the lands that had been resumed should be settled at once. The lands were wanted, but they could not get any information as to what the Government was going to pay for them.

Mr. Rodgers (Vic.) thought they should honour the bargain made for the building of the Federal capital, but they should proceed slowly with the work.

The Treasurer (Sir John Forrest) said that if the Government were in office after the recess, it would be their business to bring down a detailed scheme explaining what it was proposed to do at Canberra, and how long the works would occupy.

Mr. Livingston (S.A.) considered the whole scheme a foolish one. It would be impossible to make a civilised city at Canberra, without spending a huge sum of money. The area was devoid of wood and of stone, and the Cotter River, upon which it was proposed to erect a dam costing £40,000, was merely a creek. He had walked across it comfortably. Sydney was a lovely place, and he would not have objected to large expenditure had it been decided to build Australia's capital there.

Mr. Gregory (W.A.) was of opinion that the Federal capital expenditure should have come out of loan funds.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) said that Mr. Griffin had been engaged in order that he might see his own plan and conception of the Federal capital were faithfully and fairly carried out. He thought it was a waste of time to ask for a committee to inquire into the alleged extravagance at the Federal capital. If it had been going on and was now at an end, it would be a most difficult thing to trace it. He believed a faulty system in many respects had been pursued in regard to the site. The House was in possession of all the information available.

Mr. Fraser (S.A.): No; we are not.

Mr. Chapman: Where are the motor launches they bought. Five are at the bottom of the sea.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook): Everyone knows that bad purchases were made, but because that has been done, it is no reason that the expenditure should be held up while investigation is made. He could not understand the opposition of Victorian members on both sides of the House. Wisely and properly administered the Federal capital would not cost a farthing. There would be such an increase in land values that it would be a paying scheme. He was sorry that the money spent and to be spent on the building of the capital was not coming from loan funds.

Mr. O'Malley (Tas.) said the Cotter River was a beautiful river, and the water supply was better than that of Sydney or Melbourne.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Kelly) said there seemed to be a desire for an inquiry. He suggested that a detailed statement of the expenditure on the Federal capital up to date should be provided for the house. Members would then be in a position to specify in what particular direction the expenditure should be inquired into.

The debate was adjourned, and the House rose at 4.15 until Tuesday.

TOWN PLANNING.

NEW ASSOCIATION.

The inaugural meeting of the Town Planning Association of Australia was held in the Town Hall last night. The chair was occupied by Colonel Vernon.

Mr. J. Sulman moved,—"That this meeting is of opinon that it is desirable that an association be formed, to be styled 'The Town Planning Association of Australia,' with the following objects:—To advocate proper planning of Australian cities and towns, modern building legislation, efficient municipal government; up-to-date water, sewerage, and lighting service; to watch Federal City developments, and other matters in keeping with the objects of the association. And that sections be established in each State."

He said that the towns in Australia had grown up without any relationship between the component parts. It was time they began to make an effort to fall into line with countries that sought to develop their cities on scientific and artistic lines.

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald seconded the motion, and it was agreed to.

On the motion of Colonel Vernon, a provisional council to formulate rules and regulations was appointed, comprising:—Messrs. W. B. Griffin, John Sulman, J. D. Fitzgerald, Colonel W. L. Vernon, Burcham Clamp, Professor Irvine, Wilfred Spruson, G. Sydney Jones, Lewis Curtis, Walter Reeks, with Captain G. A. Taylor as hon. secretary and Major F. Ernest Stowe as hon. treasurer.

Mr. W. B. Griffin, designer of the Federal capital, delivered a lecture on "Town Planning and Civic Ideals." He advocated the formation of what was known as a city club, which would meet and discuss matters of civic importance. In Chicago they had such a club. It had a membership of over 3000, and made its voice heard on all matters relating to city management.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

The Foreign Mission Boards of New South Wales, in the various Protestant denominations, have been sitting in conference during the past week, and considering how to increase the efficiency of their service as home base leaders of the missionary enterprise. Four representative commissions on "Prayer," "Education," "Work," and "Giving," presided over respectively by the Rev. Chas. Stead, Mr. W. Gillanders, the Revs. S. H. Denman and W. Morley, considered their respective aspects of the work, and reported to conference, and these four reports were considered, each at a separate session. The conference adopted the Study Circle method in considering the reports, dividing up into groups of 12 members each, and by these means members were able to discuss each subject in all its bearings.

At last night's session in St. James's Hall Mr. W. Gillanders presided. An address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Bromilow on "The Imperial Vision." Dr. Bromilow dealt with the question of the evangelisation of the world, for which, he said, there was a great necessity.

The Archbishop of Sydney delivered an address on "The Lordship of Jesus," in which his Grace said that what was required was more earnest prayer, more distinct and hopeful prayer.

Mr. Gillanders spoke on "The Message of the Conference." He said that not only had it been demonstrated that they could meet together for this common purpose in harmony of mind, but that they were one in the desire that the Church in her home base should become more fitted for the work of evangelisation. They were optimistic in regard to the final outlook, but there was a sense of personal need.

At the British Empire League's "At Home," in honour of the Australian fleet, 800 persons were present.

THE RIVAL POLICIES.

The people of this State have now before them the grounds on which each of the two leaders will base his appeal at the coming elections. They are characteristic of the two men, and of the two parties. It was natural and proper that Mr. Wade should be more critical than Mr. Holman and Mr. Holman more detailed in his defence of the past, and both more bountiful and more explicit in his promises for the future. At the end of a Parliament the Premier is bound to justify the record of his party and to state its policy for the future, the leader of an Opposition may say that he will prescribe when he is called in. His immediate business is to show in what way his opponents have failed to justify the confidence of the electors, and to state in outline how far his proposals will differ from theirs. But the striking distinction between the two speeches was by no means accounted for by the normal difference in the circumstances under which they were delivered. Mr. Holman had a double duty to sustain. He had to appeal to the country to retain him as Premier, and to justify the action of the Labour party in superseding Mr. McGowen in his favour. Mr. Holman, no doubt, was chosen as the one man capable of winning this election for the Government. He is credited with fighting qualities which Mr. McGowen has not, with energy, with facility of speech and fertility of ideas, which in this crisis are more than a kind heart and simple faith. His followers, who expected something remarkable in his policy speech, can none of them have been disappointed. To anyone conversant with the history of this Parliament it must appear to be the most astonishing utterance ever delivered. The American visitors who listened to it must have imagined sessions of undisturbed triumph, a record of promises fulfilled, of wise legislation, and of efficient and honourable administration. The electors know how widely this glowing rhetorical picture is at variance with the true facts. They know that in the past three years the Parliament of New South Wales has become a by-word for disorder and incompetence wherever the name of New South Wales is heard; that time after time bills have been submitted by the Government which would have been unintelligible unless re-drafted and re-modelled by its opponents; that the main plank in the Government land policy has been abandoned; that the administration of Government departments has disclosed an appalling amount of waste and inefficiency; that its industrial administration has been hopelessly ineffective, and that Mr. Holman himself assisted in an attempt to set aside a judgment of the Courts by an Act of Parliament in favour of an individual.

In spite of Mr. Holman's reputation as a tactician, we cannot help thinking that he would have been wiser to rely on the actual achievements of his party. Every elector who appreciates the value of education will recognise how much has been done for the more advanced schools and for the University. Every socialist will approve of Mr. Griffith's attempt to compete with private enterprise wherever possible. A good many lawyers will be grateful for the consolidation of Acts of Parliament. Perhaps it would hardly be wise to talk about the consolidation of the Land Acts since amendments are already predicted, and since the cost of the work was absurdly high. But the method adopted by Mr. Holman—the comparison of promise and performance—invites an answer by means of marginal annotations. We are told that the promise of a decentralisation policy has been carried out, but are left to imagine the particular items unless they are to be found in the Riverina railways. We are told that legal administration has been reformed, and we know that the new system of special circuits has been abandoned and that the proposed Judicature Act was too absurd to be worth remodelling. We are told that the workers have been given a just scheme of arbitration, we know how little in the present Act is new and how much is borrowed from the Industrial Act of Mr. Wade. We know, too, how the Act was administered by Mr. Carmichael in the early part of this year. It will be an easy task for candidates to analyse this speech and to show their constituents how little basis there is for its tone of self satisfaction. It will be still easier for them to show how reckless Mr. Holman has been in his promises for the future. They can readily accept his challenge to judge the sincerity of his promises by the record of his Government, as well as by the financial position of the country. Mr. Holman discreetly avoided any prolonged allusion to some of the proposals which have taken the greatest hold on public attention. He said nothing about the Gas Bill, or the Norton Griffiths contract, or the disgraceful deal by which members raised their own salaries, and very little about the Income Tax or the Fair Rents Court. But these proposals, and others like them, will be remembered when any serious attack is made on the Legislative Council. No student of politics can doubt that the Upper House has to-day a higher place than ever in popular estimation. Under the caucus system it has become the only House in which a bill will be considered fairly, and on its merits. In the present state of Parliament it has come to be regarded as the protection of the people against the ignorance or the rapacity of their elected representatives.

Mr. Wade acted wisely in giving especial attention in his address to electoral reform. The present law as it has been applied to meet the exigencies of party conflict is in a great measure responsible for the inefficiency of Parliament. The introduction of the second ballot was designed to meet the danger of vote splitting and the consequent necessity of selection within the party. It deserves a longer trial, but it has already been proved to have given an undeserved opportunity to candidates willing to make concessions in return for votes. Preferential voting as carried out in Tasmania has revealed one or two unexpected faults. But it avoids the irksome processes of party selection, it gives no opportunity for intrigue between a first and second ballot, and it secures the fair representation in Parliament of all shades of opinion more nearly than any system suggested hitherto. In his reference to immigration Mr. Wade touched on a subject in which the present Ministry has conspicuously failed. Whatever their desire as individuals, they have been coerced by a following which puts the supposed advantages of a class before the good of the community. With the subject of immigration are bound up the two subjects, land development and finance. Whatever party is returned will have to continue the work of railway extension and of opening the lands available throughout the State. Mr. Wade has given proof of his intention to have land thrown open and to make the forms of tenure more attractive to settlers. It will be possible, if his proposals are accepted, for city residents to have homes prepared for them while they carry on their regular occupations. Obviously without money there can be neither land development nor railways. The great task of the coming Liberal Ministry will be to restore the credit of the country, to see that the public money is spent on the best objects, and by the best methods. But economy will not be treated as an end in itself. The country will be governed by men who know its possibilities for the future, and who know that our assets are more than equal to our liabilities.

THE LESSON OF MEXICO.

There was a nation once that dreamed itself a very pretty dream. It imagined that it was going to cut itself off from all the troubles and wicked wars and stupid quarrellings of the old world. It was to deal fairly by all other nations—that is, it was to deal as it considered fairly—and it was going to ask them to deal fairly by itself in return. It was going to say to them: "I have no wish to injure or disturb, or in any way interfere with you, and therefore I am sure that you will not interfere with me." It could not very well say, "I will leave you alone if you will leave me alone;" because that would imply "if you do not leave me alone I will take other steps," and this nation was not going to threaten anything so unrighteous as that—especially as it would involve the keeping of a navy and perhaps an army also. This nation was not going to have anything to do with navies or armies. It was simply going to live in blessed peace, apart from all its neighbours, treating them with perfect fairness and consideration, and trusting to its own blamelessness and the innate goodness of other nations to shield it from all harm. But as the years have gone on, the people who formerly held these ideas have come to realise that other nations may not possess the same notion of fairness as it proposed to itself to impose upon them; that, for example, it was quite conceivable that other nations might not see the fairness of its keeping its whole continent all to itself. It has realised that, all the while it was talking of peace and isolation, the only thing that was keeping war even twenty-four hours away from it was the British Navy. The old fallacy that we could live out our lives aloof from the rest of the world, simply by declaring to the rest of the world that we did not intend to interfere with it, is held by very few Australians to-day, although it was an idea commonly propounded a generation back. But Australians may still learn something from the picture which is being held up to their eyes on the other side of the Pacific to-day—the picture of the most peaceable of Presidents endeavouring to keep the most peaceable of Republics out of a long and costly war with the hot-blooded people whom fate happens to have placed along its southern border.

The last man in the world who would plunge his country into war in support of finacial interests, however powerful, is Dr. Woodrow Wilson. Dr. Wilson's foreign policy in China, in Mexico, and wherever he has been forced to formulate a policy, has been righteous to the point of altruism. It is unthinkable that he would be a party to any war of grab, such as were the previous wars waged by the United States upon Mexico. The party in power in the States is one which has taken its stand in the past even against the retention of those possessions which the United States has already acquired—much more so against any further wars of acquisition. President Wilson has associated with him a Secretary of State who has stood during more than a generation for the embodiment of the Democratic principle, who is credited with far-reaching schemes for the maintenance of universal peace by means of international arbitration. Dr. Wilson himself has not been afraid to court the accusation of weakness in his endeavour to do nothing that could embroil the United States with her neighbour. After his first proposals to the President of Mexico had been flouted, Dr. Wilson sent to Congress a message so sincerely conciliatory that it brought every party in the House to its feet to give him the greatest ovation which he has yet received at the Capitol. "What is it our duty to do?" he asked. "We can afford to exercise the self-restraint of a really great nation which realises its own strength and scorns to use it. It was our duty to offer our active assistance; it is now our duty to show what true neutrality will do, to enable the people of Mexico to set their affairs in order again. . . . The situation must be given a little more time to work itself out."

It was seven weeks ago that the President sent to Congress that wise, moderate, conciliatory announcement. And in spite of all his efforts, the United States stands to-day on the brink of a war far more formidable than the war in Cuba or in the Philippines: far more serious than the Boer War; a war with a nation of 16,000,000 people along a frontier of some 2000 miles. The motive for that war, if it breaks out, will be perfectly clear and pure as far as the President of the United States is concerned. The one idea of the President and of Congress and of the American people behind them will no doubt be to restore order in Mexico, and, if possible, hand the country back to a properly-elected Government. Not the least difficulty in the way of this gigantic undertaking would be that the Mexican has no conception of what a properly-elected Government is. He has never had one, and the chances are he never will. And he probably has not the least idea of why he should have one. His idea of politics is of a game between the "ins" and the "outs," in which one makes hay while the sun shines, whilst the other makes sure that the sun shall not shine too long. Behind the two parties are all sorts of rival interests. There are the gigantic interests of the silver mines, the interests of the American ranchers in the north, the interests of the oil trusts. The name of the Standard Oil Trust has been generally connected with that of the late President Madero, whilst the British oil interests, at whose head is Lord Cowdray, obtained the vast concessions to which the British Navy is looking as the chief source of its future oil supply, from President Huerta. The last thing in the world that Dr. Woodrow contemplates is a war in the interest of certain private companies and against that of others. But that is one aspect which this war, if it breaks out, can hardly help taking on. Whether war can even yet be avoided remains to be seen; for the past year the United States has been forced to maintain a cavalry force on the Texan frontier, largely in order to keep the cowboys from crossing into Mexico to help their friends in what they consider to be a dangerous situation. The whole incident simply proves the fact that the only way by which any nation could hold itself aloof from the politics of the world would be by shutting off its people, like the smallpox patients at North Head, with a ring fence, and prohibiting anyone from breaking out on pain of being disowned.

Camp Canteens.—A more than ordinarily disturbing matter to parents in connection with Australia's scheme of defence is the Commonwealth Government's method of handling the liquor in the training camps. As the regulations stand, no canteens are permitted in the training camps, but, rightly or wrongly, a feeling has grown that the military authorities have not accepted the "dry" canteen with favour. It has been promulgated unofficially that the "dry" camp leads to trainees breaking bounds to get liquor in local hotels. That is the argument of officers who are opposed to the no-canteen policy. On the other hand, it must be apparent that thousands of parents are anxiously opposed to any proposal which might result in liquor bars being established within the compulsory training camps. Their contention is, very properly, that young boys going straight from home will not be led astray outside the camp; that the youngsters will carry on their training and have no thought of liquor unless it is forced upon them, as it were, by association. Liquor in a camp canteen would mean an undue temptation of youths who, to a great extent, would be under the influence of older men, with, perhaps, undesirable habits from a parents' point of view. As a matter of fact, the no-license parties in the various States have become somewhat alarmed. Their suspicion is that some of the influential military officers are bringing pressure to bear upon the Minister for Defence in favour of the abolition of the regulation which rigorously keeps alcohol outside the defence training grounds. Protests have already been made in Victoria, and the Alliance in New South Wales is taking steps to put its views strongly before the Commonwealth Government.

Anti-vaccinationist Scores.—An interesting case occurred at the Water Police Court yesterday, when the quarantine restriction came into conflict with the Fugitive Offenders' Act, to the benefit of an anti-vaccinationist. A young New Zealander was charged before Mr. Love, S.M., on a warrant for wife desertion in New Zealand. His solicitor raised the point that the accused could not be sent back, because he refused to be vaccinated. The point taken was so obviously in favour of the defendant that there was very little waste of forensic oratory. A remand for seven days to enter into negotiations with the wife, was granted, Mr. Love remarking that there was yet no law making vaccination compulsory.

WELSH DISASTER.

THE ENTOMBED.

FAINT HOPES OF RESCUE.

RENEWED FIRE.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

Rescue work is to be continued at the Universal Colliery, Sengenhydd, Wales. It is proposed to cut a circuitous way to the entombed miners in the faint hope that some will be found alive.

There has been a fresh outbreak of fire in the mine, and the conflagration is now as bad as ever.

The disaster has made a hideous gap in the life of Sengenhydd. One chapel has lost three-fifths of its male membership.

About 500 women and children were dependent on those who are missing.

In one household of nine eight have gone, and in another case one boy is left out of a household of eleven.

Rescue teams from every Welsh coalfield are engaged trying to get round the fire to the isolated district where the men are entombed.

The rescuers are working in an atmosphere of extreme peril, as the mine is full of gas and afterdamp, and there is grave danger of a further explosion.

It is estimated that it will take at least a month to recover the victims.

The official figures show that there are 434 men either dead or missing.

The original cause of the disaster is unknown.

The Lord Mayor of Cardiff has opened a relief fund, to which King George has subscribed £500, and the Marquis of Bute 1500 guineas.

EARTH TREMORS AND EXPLOSIONS.

In connection with the various earth tremors which have been recorded in various parts of the world for several days past, Professor Belar, an expert, mentions the coincidence of these with the disaster at Sengenhydd, similar to the coincidence of previous tremors with explosions in collieries.

AUSTRALIAN SYMPATHY.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The question of forwarding monetary assistance to the relatives of those killed in the mining explosion at Cardiff (Wales) was considered by the adjourned meeting of the miners' delegate board to-day. It was decided to send £200.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

At the quarterly meeting of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' delegate board meeting, reference was made to the appalling mining disaster at Wales, and a motion of sympathy with those afflicted by the disaster was carried.

MONEY MARKET.

NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

TIME FOR A HALT.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

The "Globe" says that in view of the reception of the New Zealand £2,500,000 loan, the leading underwriters have signed an informal agreement not to underwrite any new issues for some time.

The paper adds: "A few months' spell will enable the market to recuperate."

The "Pall Mall Gazette" says: "The public prefer to await a fiasco and pick up stock at reduced prices. Continued failures of loan flotations have had an unpleasant effect on the investment markets, and it is certainly time a halt was cried."

THE VOLTURNO.

A FRUITLESS SEARCH.

NARRAGANSETT'S RECEPTION.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

The White Star liner Cymric searched for the steamer Volturno, which was abandoned on fire in mid-Atlantic, but was unable to find any trace, and it is believed the vessel has sunk.

The oil tank steamer Narragansett, which saved the situation on her arrival before the abandonment of the Volturno by discharging oil on the mountainous seas, was greeted on reaching Purfleet with a great and popular demonstration.

A band on a tug played "See, the Conquering Hero Comes," and the vessel's progress up the river was accompanied by the blowing of ships' sirens and cheers from crowds on the banks.

The captain states that he only used 50 tons of oil in calming the sea.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST THE CREW.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 17.

The Government has decided to institute an inquiry into the allegations that the Belgian sailors on the Volturno behaved badly.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.

Captain Inch, of the Volturno, stated yesterday that the panic among the crew was only momentary, and that it died with those who were drowned in the earliest boats launched. The remainder of the crew, he declared, behaved splendidly.

Captain Inch also rebuked Mr. Lloyd, the second officer, for the criticisms he had levelled against the Carmania in regard to the launching of boats.

LONDON, Oct. 17.

The Cunard Company has granted all the members of the crew of the Carmania a week's pay in recognition of the services they rendered in connection with the Volturno disaster.

WIDESPREAD SYMPATHY.

Lord Denman (Governor-General of Australia), Sir Gerald Strickland (Governor of New South Wales), Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg (German Imperial Chancellor), and M. Poincare (President of France), have telegraphed their sympathies in regard to the disaster.

THE BALKANS.

TURKEY AND GREECE.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

ATHENS, Oct. 17.

The peace negotiations between Greece and Turkey have been opened, but in the meanwhile fresh troops are daily being moved towards the frontier, and the public suspense is becoming acute.

The latest report is to the effect that the conference has been postponed owing to disagreements on important points.

RUSSIAN ATTITUDE.

PARIS, Oct. 17.

Yesterday the President, M. Poincare, received in audience M. Sazonoff, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The latter, in an interview with a press representative, emphasised Russia's strong desire to help Turkey to attain a normal, prosperous position on the existing basis.

He added that Russian disinterestedness was a concomitant of good administration in Asiatic Turkey.

REPORTED CAUSE.

A SIGNALMAN'S MISTAKE.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

In regard to the collision between an express train and a stationary train in a tunnel outside St. James's Station, Liverpool, it is reported that a boy in the central signal-box, who frequently attends the telephone, answered a call on Wednesday while the signalman was busy with the levers.

The signalman, thinking that the message was that the first train was clear, pulled the lever, admitting the express. Then, on second thought, he asked the boy what the message was, and was told that it referred to another train.

Realising his awful mistake, the signalman set the lights in the tunnel against the express, but without the desired result.

HANOVER CLAIM.

CROWN PRINCE INTERVENES.

ON VERGE OF SETTLEMENT.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.

Just at the moment when the Prussian Government was about to effect a settlement of the Brunswick incident, the Crown Prince intervened in characteristic fashion.

He wrote a vigorous letter to the Imperial Chancellor, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, declaring that Prince Ernest of Cumberland should not be permitted to enter Brunswick until he had clearly renounced his claim to the kingdom of Hanover.

The "Tageblatt" states that the Crown Prince's intervention is highly unwelcome, "even to those sharing his view."

The "Post" is delighted at the Crown Prince's sympathy with the patriotic Prussian view-point, and recalls his disapproval of the Moroccan policy in 1911.

NAVAL DEFENCE.

PROPOSED CANADIAN GIFT.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.

The press announces, on apparently good authority, that the Borden Government proposes to despatch Mr. G. H. Perley, Honorary Minister, to consult with the Admiralty in regard to the conditions under which Canada might pay for the three Dreadnoughts which it is proposed to present to Great Britain.

The terms of the arrangement are likely to be submitted to the Dominion Parliament in January.

SOUTH AFRICAN POSITION.

LONDON, Oct. 17.

Sir Thomas Smartt, the leader of the South African Opposition, in an interview yesterday, stated that his party would support General Botha in any adequate participation of the defence of the Empire. He added that South Africans ought to regard any such proposition in the light of life assurance.

MEXICO.

RIOTING AGAINST AMERICANS.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.

Riots created by students against residents from the United States have assumed serious proportions.

The police suppressed some of the disturbances before they became serious, but public feeling is highly inflamed, and there is likelihood of further riots.

THE BALKANS.

MONTENEGRINS DEFEAT ALBANIANS.

CETTINJE, Oct. 16.

After two days' hard fighting, the Albanians were repulsed along the whole front from Gusinje to Diakova.

The Montenegrins are now pursuing them.

FRENCH ARMY.

SENSATIONAL EPISODE.

FIVE GENERALS RELIEVED OF COMMANDS.

PARIS, Oct. 17.

General Plagnol, General Courbebaisse, and General Faurie, all commanding army corps, General Busset, commanding a division, and General Alva, commanding a brigade, together with several minor officers, all in the Southern district, have been dramatically relieved of their commands, owing to the incompetency they manifested during the recent grand manoeuvres.

One of them lost count of the position of his troops, and another's directions to the army service corps were so confused that the commissariat broke down.

Three of the generals fought gallantly in the war of 1870.

UNITED STATES TARIFF.

REBATE CLAUSES.

THE HAY-PAUNCEFOTE TREATY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.

Senator Martine has urged the Senate to repeal the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty on the ground that it interferes with many American rights.

He stated that he had received protests against the Tariff Bill allowing a rebate of 5 per cent. on goods carried in American ships, as it was a violation of the treaty. For his own part, he preferred to repeal the treaty rather than repeal the 5 per cent. provision in the Tariff Bill.

He predicted that the United States would have the best of the argument if foreign countries tried to make commercial reprisals.

AN INDEFINITE POSITION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

In reply to representations from China regarding the 5 per cent. differential tariff in favour of goods imported in United States bottoms, the State Department has intimated that it is unable to define the exact application of the tariff law in regard to foreign ships until the Attorney-General's opinion has been received.

President Wilson indicates that he does not wish to see the clause repealed.

NIECE IN DISPUTE.

AUNTS FIGHT FOR CUSTODY.

CASE BEFORE HOUSE OF LORDS.

LONDON, Oct. 17.

The House of Lords is arguing the case of a girl named Robertson, for the custody of whom two aunts, Mrs. Hawker, of London, and Mrs. Noyes, of Sydney, are contending.

Mrs. Noyes, during a visit to England, took the child to Australia, where legal proceedings resulted in the child's return to England.

Lord Loreburn said that Mrs. Noyes had kidnapped the child, but the question arose as to whether she did it from motives of affection or of gain.

Mrs. Noyes's counsel said that if the girl remained in England she would have to struggle for a living, while her prospects in Australia were bright.

Counsel for Mrs. Hawker said that Mrs. Noyes wished to bring the child up as an Australian.

Lord Loreburn thought it would be quite as good to be brought up an Australian as English.

The hearing was adjourned.

LEADING BATTLESHIP.

QUEEN ELIZABETH LAUNCHED.

ENTIRELY OIL DRIVEN.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

Lady Meux performed the ceremony in connection with the launch of the Queen Elizabeth at Portsmouth to-day.

The vessel is the most powerful battleship in the world, and the first battleship to be entirely driven by oil fuel.

Her armament includes eight 15in guns, 16 6in guns, and a battery of 3in guns to deal with aircraft.

The warship, it is expected, will be able to attain a speed of 20 knots, and she has fuel space for 40[illegible] tons, sufficient for a voyage round the world.

AERIAL DISASTER.

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE EXPLODES.

NOTABLE OFFICERS KILLED.

BERLIN, Oct. 17, 11.40 a.m.

The naval airship L2 exploded at an altitude of 300 metres at the Johannisthal flying ground this morning.

All on board were killed, including Commanders Behhische and Freyer, Captain Gluth, and several members of the Admiralty Commission.

SMUGGLING SEIZURE.

UNITED STATES INCIDENT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.

The smuggling of women's dress goods from Great Britain on a large scale has been disclosed by the seizure of the schooner Woodward Abrahams off the coast.

A revenue cutter towed the schooner into Philadelphia, and a search disclosed huge quantities of dutiable goods hidden beneath a cargo of plaster.

The goods are believed to have been transhipped from some Nova Scotian port preparatory to being smuggled into the United States.

DR. SUN YAT SEN.

REPORTED ARREST.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16.

According to news received from the Orient, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the well-known Chinese revolutionary, has been arrested secretly in Japan on a charge of misappropriating £30,000, being moneys forwarded to him for political purposes.

NATIONAL INSURANCE.

B.M.A. BREAKAWAY.

LONDON, Oct. 17.

The British Medical Association has issued a manifesto breaking off relations with the National Insurance scheme owing to dissatisfaction at the scale of payment and the patients' free choice of doctors.

BATTLE OF LEIPSIC.

CENTENARY CELEBRATIONS.

VIENNA, Oct. 17.

The celebrations in connection with the centenary of the Battle of Leipsic—where the Austrians, Russians, and Germans defeated Napoleon—were opened at Schawzenburg-Platz yesterday, with an impressive military display.

The Emperor Francis Joseph and the Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of the Czar, were present.

The celebrations began with the removal of the remains of a number of Prussian officers, and what was left of 22,000 Russian troops, from the spot where they had been buried, to the new Russian memorial church, built to commemorate the centenary.

CATTLE KING.

SUPPLIES ADELAIDE MARKET

A BIG DEAL.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Combined operations throughout Victoria and Riverina during the last three weeks have enabled Mr. Sidney Kidman, whose extensive dealings won for him the title of "The Cattle King," to bring off one of the greatest of his coups and break the threatened beef famine in Adelaide without creating a shortage in Melbourne and Sydney.

Naturally, the buying up of about 6000 head of prime fat cattle without frightening the market has been a delicate task, but when Mr. Kidman returned to Melbourne to-day after personally supervising the round-up in the central districts of New South Wales, all threads had been gathered into his hand, and he was ready to make his operations public.

Acting principally through a leading stock agency firm in Melbourne, Mr. Kidman has purchased nearly 4000 cattle to supply the Adelaide market alone during the next three or four months. Owing to an exceptionally bad autumn and winter the outlook in South Australia had become serious. Having unusual sources of information from his 30 odd stations in Central Australia, Mr. Kidman learned of the state of things before anyone else, and about a month ago started to secure cattle in Victoria and Riverina to keep Adelaide supplied. He recognised, however, that drawing so many cattle from Victoria was likely to leave Melbourne short; so he went out in the districts round the Macquarie and Castlereagh Rivers, where the season has been exceptionally good, and secured several thousand more prime fat cattle for Melbourne supplies. Sydney prices are ruling about £2 a head lower than Melbourne, and in this way Victorian supplies have been secured at Sydney rates. Several Sydney consignments, which were delivered in poor condition, are now waiting in paddocks till the market requires them. While Mr. Kidman was operating in central New South Wales he had one man working in Riverina, another in the western district, and a third in Gippsland, buying up stock on land for future deliveries. Altogether he considers that he has secured enough meat to keep him going until Christmas.

HOUSEWIVES' UNION.

A NEW CAMPAIGN.

LITHGOW, Friday.

Mr. G. H. Yates, president of the local Eight-Hour committee, states that during the past 12 months two attempts were made to organise local carters; but he regretted that both attempts had proved abortive. It was proposed to make an effort to organise clerical wage-earners in the near future.

Arrangements would be made for a lady organiser from Sydney early next year to attempt to organise domestic workers. While the lady was here she would endeavour to organise the women workers on a very extensive scale.

"We, locally," continued Mr. Yates, "have decided that any attempt to organise our wives sectionally, such as the union of miners' wives or ironworkers' wives, would spell failure. We wish to organise them in one huge housewives' union, where we can gather them, say, once every month in our business hall, and that propaganda work so essential to instruct and educate them, both industrially and politically, will no longer be neglected. If we can only induce our womenfolk to become as interested as we are ourselves, it will give a mighty impetus to the movement."

TANNERS' STRIKE.

EMPLOYERS TAKE A FIRM STAND.

MEN TO BE PROSECUTED.

The tanners, who ceased work over a week ago at the Mascot yards of E. M. Farleigh, Ltd., took a secret ballot on Thursday night, on the proposal, as submitted to them by Mr. E. J. Kavanagh, M.L.C.—that one of the two men objected to as being non-unionists should be exempt from admission to the union on the grounds that he was, to all intents and purposes, a foreman.

The vote was in favour of all employees, other than managers, being unionists. Inspector Kirby reported this to the Master Tanners' Association, which held a meeting at the Wool Exchange yesterday afternoon. This meeting was attended also by tanners who are outside the association. It was decided not to submit to the men's demands. In view, however, of the fact that the employees are to hold a meeting to-night, it was resolved that no further action be taken until a reply is obtained from the union. Should the men fail to agree to the exemption of the one particular foreman the president of the Tanners' Association is to be empowered to take immediate action against the strike leaders. Then, should any action against the strike leaders prove ineffectual, the whole of the men on strike are to be proceeded against.

Mr E. M. Farleigh, the manager of E. M. Farleigh, Limited, has hitherto declined to take action against the men, but the meeting resolved to take the matter out of his hands, and invoke the aid of the law on behalf of the whole of the tanners. The association expressed the opinion that it could deal with the situation without any other aid, and, therefore, it felt justified in declining for the present the proffered help of the Employers' Federation.

Mr. Farleigh gave the meeting a list of the salaries his firm was paying its employees. This, it is said, showed that the men were receiving from 24 per cent. to 60 per cent. more than the minimum wage.

"The union secretary (Mr. O. Waite) has frequently stated that the union is out to fight," said Mr. Laland, the secretary of the New South Wales Tanners' Association, last night. "The master tanners have quite enough to do to make both ends meet under existing conditions, with the big foreign competition that they are encountering, and they wish only for peace. But," he added, "legal services have been retained to safeguard the rights and privileges of the master tanners."

SMALLPOX.

SEVEN CASES YESTERDAY.

Yesterday was marked by another substantial number of smallpox cases, no fewer than seven cases of suspicious sickness being identified as the dreaded disease.

Yesterday's cases presented one of the strongest arguments for vaccination, and increased powers for the health authorities that could be adduced.

No fewer than six of the patients removed to quarantine yesterday came from one family, while the one other member of the family, who was the only one to adopt the simple precaution of vaccination, has escaped. The family in question comes from Erskineville, and resides next door to a house from which three cases were removed only a few days ago.

Had the health authorities been invested with reasonable powers, they would have been able to vaccinate the whole street when the first cases were discovered, and thus would have gone a long way towards saving the second family. As it is, they are powerless and it is considered extremely probable that there will be more cases from day to day in the vicinity of the infected households, until vaccination or the disease itself renders the neighbours immune.

The one other case yesterday was from Haberfield. The patients at the quarantine station yesterday were 42 in hospital, 130 convalescents, 172 in all. There were 11 inmates discharged. Vaccinations at the Town Hall yesterday numbered 152.

AN EVICTION.

FEDERAL WEATHER STATION.

NOTICE TO QUIT.

"Erected A.D. 1858; Sir W. T. Denison, K.C.B., Governor-General."

This is the inscription on the tower of the Government Observatory on Flagstaff Hill, and it becomes of special interest at this juncture, when the Commonwealth Government, which has taken over the meteorological business, has practically received "notice to quit" from the State Government.

Whilst the Commonwealth Government has taken over the meteorological station, the astronomical portion of the Observatory is still under the control of the State Government; and the State Government has issued something in the nature of an ultimatum to the Commonwealth to find another site for the meteorological station. The position is more serious than may at first be supposed.

A MATTER OF MONEY.

It is a case of Government House over again. The Commonwealth Government does not see its way to agree to the terms of the State Government, and the State Government has issued what is tantamount to a notice of eviction. The State Government wants the Commonwealth to take over the astronomical branch as well as the meteorological, and because the Commonwealth is not willing to do this, it has been informed that it must find another site for the weather bureau station. To put it another way, the Government Astronomer (Professor W. E. Cooke) finds that he requires more room than he has at present at his disposal, and the State Government cannot find the money necessary for building any extensions.

If the Commonwealth Government—or the officers engaged in the meteorological department—would vacate the premises now used for weather observation purposes, there would be sufficient room for the Government Astronomer; or, if, as an alternative, the Commonwealth agreed to take over the astronomical branch, the finding of the necessary additional accommodation would be a matter devolving on the Commonwealth Government.

As a matter of fact, there is ample space for building on Observatory Hill. The present requirements have made the old building unsuitable, but it is quite possible to add to it by building either upwards or outwards. It would appear that neither the Commonwealth nor the State is anxious to enter upon any more financial commitments. As far as the State is concerned, this is certainly the case. As far as the Commonwealth is concerned, it may be that there is some special reason, not apparent to the layman, for maintaining the meteorological department as a thing altogether apart from the astronomical.

NEED FOR CONTINUITY.

To talk about the meteorological department finding some other site, however, is a very serious matter. For 55 years our weather records have been compiled on Observatory Hill. All our climatological data have been gathered there; and meteorology is a science that depends very largely upon the data of previous years, the experience of decades. For 55 years our weather experts have been building up their data at the Sydney Observatory—ever since Governor Denison's name was put upon the central stone—and on the experience based on half a century's observations and calculations on that spot they are able to-day to tell us fairly accurately what sort of weather we may expect. In Europe and America the necessity for continuity of work at a given spot is fully recognised in connection with meteorological observations; and, indeed, it is held that not merely the observations of half a century, but of a whole century, are required before the forecasting of weather can be undertaken with any certainty.

To the Observatory on Flagstaff Hill the weather records from all the different stations in the State have been telegraphed for the last fifty years; but it is now proposed by the State Government that another site shall be found for the Weather Bureau. This means starting de novo. All the work of the past half-century is to go for nought.

The concensus of opinion is that, whilst it would be a great mistake to remove the meteorological station from the site it has occupied for the past 55 years, the Government Astronomer would be all the better off if the site of the astronomical station were removed; and the State Government is proposing to do the very opposite. It may be all bluff—to get the Federal Government to take over the astronomical as well as the meteorological station, and so bear the cost of maintenance, as well as the necessary extensions—but it would certainly be disastrous if the thing were carried out.

Meantime, Professor Cooke, the Government Astronomer, requires new and up-to-date instruments and he cannot get them until it is known where they are to be placed.

TOLLS SYSTEM.

MR. WADE'S SCHEME FOR A BRIDGE.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Following up his remarks in regard to the North Shore Bridge last night, Mr. Wade stated that there are three causes operating against the construction of this work directly from State funds, viz.:—

1. The present Government have definitely declined to undertake the work.
2. There is a feeling in the House of antagonism, which is also growing in the country, on the ground that it is purely of a local nature, and a matter of convenience rather than necessity.
3. The condition of the money market at present, and the prospects for some time to come are so discouraging that it cannot reasonably be expected that any Government would be prepared to find this large sum of money until conditions, at all events, have very materially changed.

"At the same time," Mr. Wade added, "the very heavy traffic is becoming more unequal yearly to the task of conveying passengers, and congestion is inevitable in the near future, or, in the alternative, more boats in the fairway, and more danger in the traffic.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

I therefore suggested (through the meeting) to the public of North Sydney generally to consider the idea of construction by private enterprise. To this there can be no objection in principle so long as proper safeguards are laid down. I think it would be necessary, in the first instance, to throw the work open to competition, in order to secure the lowest price. The successful tenderer would be entitled to make his profit, but the matter must be controlled by the Government; for instance, the State must be empowered to fix the maximum charges, so as to prevent anything like a monopoly being established; and, furthermore, power should be vested in the State to resume the bridge and approaches on a basis to be prescribed.

"On the other hand, the private contractor would naturally be entitled to charge toll for traffic across the bridge, and my suggestion to the meeting was that they should be prepared to put their hands in their pockets and contribute cheerfully by paying the necessary toll for crossing the bridge. It is not a tax to be imposed on North Shore residents, but a charge to be paid by all travellers—wherever they come from—who use the bridge. At the present time most people pay 2d a day on the ferries—if this charge were transferred as a bridge toll, nobody would feel it, and, in all probability, with the increase in traffic which will arise before the bridge is opened, it might be possible to accept a lower toll. However, these are details, and my suggestion to the meeting was to arrange for some common plan of action on the north side of Sydney, and ascertain by meetings and conferences whether a scheme could not be thrashed out on these lines. Even if the charge in the first instance was more than a penny each way, the people ought to be prepared to give that cheerfully, because the amount would certainly be reduced eventually, at the same time, it secures what they have been working for for many years past.

HABERFIELD FIRE.

£3000 DAMAGE.

A MIDNIGHT OUTBREAK.

Shortly after midnight Constable Whirisky, of Ashfield, noticed flames coming from the frenchpolishing shop of the carpentry and joinery works of Mr. Reynolds, a contractor and builder, in Hawthorn-road, Haberfield.

He gave the alarm, and the brigades of the surrounding districts turned out under District Officer Cutts, but though the water pressure was good and a motor fire engine was immediately got to work, nothing could be done to save the building, which was a large one of two stories, constructed of wood and iron.

The flames, however, were kept from some large stacks of timber, valued at several thousands of pounds, which had already started to catch alight when the firemen arrived.

Several firemen got rather severe shocks from some electric power cables which led into the building.

The damage is estimated at between £2000 and £3000, and is only partly covered by insurance, the machinery being insured for £380 in the Sun Office and the stock with the building for £500 in the Australian Mutual.

MR. WOOD.

SELECTED FOR ST. GEORGE.

MR. TAYLOR'S SACRIFICE.

Mr. W. H. Wood, the deputy leader of the Liberal party, was last night unanimously selected to contest the St. George electorate at the forthcoming general elections.

This decision was the outcome of a meeting of the St. George electorate conference held at the Rockdale School of Arts under the presidency of Mr. W. T. Willington. Delegates were present representative of all the branches of the Liberal Association, as well as the Women's Liberal League, in the St. George electorate.

Mr. W. Taylor, M.L.A., who at present represents that electorate, told the meeting that for some time past he had been undecided as to whether he would contest the coming election on account of pressure of private business. He had, however, now finally decided, in view of the service he could render to the Liberal party, to retire from the contest so that a seat might be secured to the deputy leader of the party. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

The meeting expressed its great regret at the step decided upon by Mr. Taylor, and its appreciation of the sacrifice made by him, as well as of the work he had performed for the electorate. Mr. Taylor explained that his action was purely voluntary, and the following resolution was then unanimously carried, amid cheers:—

> "That this electorate council, having heard from Mr. W. Taylor, M.L.A., of the withdrawal of his candidature for the St. George electorate, accepts the same with deep regret, and recommends that the name of Mr. W. H. Wood, M.L.A., be submitted to the central executive of the Liberal Association for endorsement in his stead."

THE TERRITORY.

DISAPPOINTED SELECTORS.

LAND WORTHLESS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Montoro arrived in port from the Orient at a late hour last night. The passengers included Mr. G. H. Noble, of Victoria, and Mr Henderson, of Gympie, who have been to the Northern Territory with the object of taking up land. They said that their experiences on arrival were anything but encouraging, and the selections fell far short of expectations, and very much the reverse of what they had believed them to be.

Mr. Noble said that he had applied for and secured a block of about 1300 acres on Pine Creek River, Stapleton, for mixed farming and grazing. This was described as good cultivation land, with permanent water. Anticipating this, he disposed of his land in Victoria, together with agricultural implements. On arrival he found it to be not as represented by the Fisher Government, but contained more than 1000 acres of ironstone and about 200 acres of patches of fair cultivation land. He arrived at the conclusion that the selection was worthless for cultivation, and absolutely useless for grazing purposes, except for a few months in the year. The Finnis River, except for a waterhole here and there, and a small spring, was quite dry, he said. He was offered other blocks, but declined. He asked for work from the department, so that he could have time to see the country, but this was refused. He, therefore, decided to leave Port Darwin, and was compelled to leave all his implements behind, as he could not afford to bring them away. He asked the department to purchase them from him, but it declined. It had practically ruined him, he said, as unless they came down with any help he was stuck up but he did not suppose that they would do that.

He is returning to Victoria to see the Minister for External Affairs about the matter.

Mr. Henderson's complaint was that the land he had applied for at Daly River was of no use for farming, and was under flood water. He just had a look at it and came away again. He had a look at other blocks, but could see none better.

AN ESCAPEE.

FORCES IRON BARS APART.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Cyril or Charles Haus, alias Shepherd, who was arrested in Adelaide recently on a charge of passing forged cheques in Broken Hill, and committed on several charges, was to-day prosecuted and committed on a further charge.

He was placed in the lockup yard within 10ft of the wall, with a top that was covered by iron grilles, pending his return to gaol. During the absence for a few minutes of the policeman he managed with the air of a form to bend the iron bars of the grille sufficiently to enable him to get through. Then apparently he crawled over the grille, and dropped over the wall. He escaped, and all efforts to recapture him for a time failed.

He was recaptured by the police this evening, however, some distance from Broken Hill.

MINE RIOT.

ATTACK ON NON-UNIONISTS.

REFUGE IN A SHAFT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A message was received at Ballarat, at midnight to-night, that a disturbance had occurred this evening at Beaufort Deep Leads mine.

A number of strikers held a meeting, and then rushed the office where four non-unionists were sleeping. They forcibly took away two of the non-unionists, while the other two ran to the shaft and went down the ladder-way. Some of the strikers pursued them, and, lifting off one of the doors of the shaft, threw it down after them.

The enginedriver is the only person on the mine, and he has been calling down the shaft to the men, but has received no response.

The police are now on the scene.

A PATIENT'S DEATH.

IN QUARANTINE.

STRONG REMARKS IN FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives yesterday the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Groom), in answer to Mr. Webster (N.S.W.), said he had received a telegram from the secretary of the New South Wales Board of Health (Mr. King) stating that it was understood that one death that had occurred at the quarantine station was certified to be due to smallpox. No deaths had occurred from vaccination. The medical officers who attended the case considered that, while confinement was predisposing, yet smallpox was the determining cause of death.

Mr. West (N.S.W.): A cruel thing to remove a woman to quarantine while in such a delicate condition.

Mr. Page (Q.): They killed her all right.

Mr. Archibald (S.A.): They murdered her.

Mr. Riley (N.S.W.): The State Government removed the woman, not the Federal Government.

Mr. Chapman (N.S.W.) asked whether Mr. Groom would investigate the true cause of the woman's death.

The Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Groom) said he did not question the report that had been supplied, but if Mr. Chapman desired it he would ask for a further report.

Mr. Chapman: I don't think the House is satisfied.

Mr. Fisher: Why should not the honest truth be told in this matter.

The Minister for Trade and Customs (heatedly): The truth has been told, and I strongly resent aspersions being cast upon the statements of responsible officers who are carrying out their duty conscientiously.

Mr. Fisher: At the time the death occurred, statements were publicly made to the effect that smallpox had nothing to do with the death.

The Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Groom) said he did not see the press report. Had he seen it he would have had inquiries made. He strongly objected to the allegation Mr. Fisher had made that either he or the officer who supplied the report had shown a want of frankness, or done something dishonest in the matter. He asked whether Mr. Fisher persisted in the statement.

Mr. Fisher: Look to your own side.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook): There are no sides in this matter. It is not a party question, or, at all events, it ought not to be. (Cheers.)

The Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Groom) said the State authorities removed the patient to quarantine.

Mr. Fisher: There has been a concealing of the truth.

The Minister for Trade and Customs said he would have a full and complete report dealing with the case drawn up, and would present it to the House.

ELECTIONS.

PROBABLE POLLING DAY.

DECEMBER 6.

The date of the State general elections has not yet been definitely fixed, but Ministers have a date in their minds.

Parliament has been prorogued till October 31. It will not expire by effluxion till November 10—really the day before, which falls on Sunday.

According to the Act all writs for general elections must be issued within four clear days of the Assembly expiring by effluxion of time, or within four clear days of a proclamation of dissolution; and the writs, moreover, must be made returnable on a day not later than the forty-fifth clear day after they are issued. The Act further provides that the polling-day for every general election shall be so appointed that the election shall take place on the 28th day from the date of the issue of the writs.

The probable date of the election is Saturday, December 6. In order to have the general election on that date Parliament must be dissolved on Tuesday, November 4. The writ would then issue on Saturday, November 8, polling-day would be Saturday, December 6, and the date of the return of the writs would be Tuesday, December 23. Section 69 of the Act provides that Parliament must meet not later than the seventh clear day after the date on which the writ has been made returnable. Should the date for Saturday, December 6, be decided upon, therefore, the Assembly must meet on Tuesday, December 30.

ROSE DAY.

CARNIVAL FOR THE CHARITIES

A CHARIOT RACE.

To-day is Rose Day, the day on which it is hoped the citizens of Sydney and suburbs will give largely in the interests of charity.

Rose growers have been urged to co-operate in making the central idea of the day a success. They are asked to send in their roses to the receiving depots at the Town Hall, the Central Railway Station, Her Majesty's Theatre, Mark Foy's corner, and all the ferry wharfs at Circular Quay. It is confidently expected that there will be at least 2000 sellers of roses in the streets to-day.

This afternoon there will be a fete of considerable importance at the Show Ground. Mr. Hugh Ward says there will be the greatest aggregation of artists and entertainers ever seen in Sydney. They will include actresses and actors in the Quinlan Opera Company, Within the Law Company, and the New Comic Opera Company. The lady members of the Quinlan Opera Company will engage in a tip-and-run cricket match with the lady members of the New Comic Opera Company. The latter will include:—Misses Florence Young, Celia Ghiloni, Vivian Talleur, Muriel Starr, Sybil Arundale, Gwen Burroughs, Dorothy Brunton, Violet Collinson, Mary Worth, and Marjorie Soper. The members of the Quinlan Opera Company will include:—Misses Felice Lyne, Edna Thornton, Allen, Gladys Ancrum, Alice Prowse, Winnifred Holme.

The football match will be one of interest, owing to the whole-hearted manner in which Messrs. Percy, Roberts, Prince, Albert, Andrews, Outram, Plummer, Wykeham, and Jansen have entered into it. The League team will be led by "Dally" Messenger, and it is said Mr. Fred Flowers, M.L.C., will take part in the game.

The Automobile Club is providing 20 cars for the musical chairs. Teams will be selected from the above cricket teams.

Perhaps the most thrilling item of the day will be the chariot race. Mr. Ward has taken a keen interest in the artillery drivers practising for the race, and he says it will cause a thrill. Three teams will take part in the race, the drivers being the best drivers in the artillery. The whole scheme has been worked out to present as near as possible the chariot races in the days of the Romans. Some 60 or 70 citizens in Roman costume will be in attendance on the three chariots, and the drivers will be dressed as the old-time charioteers. Many of the horsemen of the city who have witnessed the trials have even suggested that this would be a wonderful sport to foster.

The Y.M.C.A. are giving an athletic display, whilst there will be an exciting military tournament, included in which is a tug-of-war and wrestling on horseback.

The greatest interest is being centred in the tug-of-war championship of the fleet, 10 men a side. Teams have entered from H.M.A.S. Australia, Sydney, Melbourne, and the Yarra.

Mr. Ward stated he was pleased the Lord Mayor had recognised the day by permitting the Town Hall to be lighted at night. Given a fine day, Mr. Ward anticipates that the United Charities should benefit to the extent of £2000 by the efforts put forth on this Rose Day.

A tea-room will be opened in Challis House this morning in aid of the funds of the United Charities. All arrangements have been carried out by Mrs. Mark Foy and Miss Muriel Herbert. Mrs. Holman has issued invitations to a number of guests to morning tea at the new rooms. It may be mentioned that the rooms will be open to the public between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. All the necessaries for the rooms have been generously given by ladies, and the whole of the takings will go the Rose Day Charity Fund.

THE KING'S.

D. L. McALISTER WINS

SCORE DISALLOWED.

EXTRAORDINARY POSITION.

M'Alister wins!

After the most extraordinary series of events ever witnessed on the Randwick rifle range, D. L. M'Alister, of Junee, defeated Stan. Edwards, of Melbourne, in a shoot-off for the King's Prize.

He was carried shoulder-high from the field, and 3000 enthusiasts acclaimed him the King's winner.

But officially he did not win. Officially Stan. Edwards, of Melbourne, with a score of 285 headed the list. M'Alister's score also was 285, but one shot (an inner) equivalent to 4 points, was disallowed, as he exceeded the time limit. Edwards, however, with splendid sportsmanship, volunteered to shoot-off. This magnanimous offer won the spontaneous approval of the whole army of marksmen, who pronounced it the finest act ever seen on the range. So they shot-off. And M'Alister won.

But that is not the end of the matter. The executive met on the range, while the crowd in a huge semi-circle breathlessly awaited the result of their deliberations. After a quarter of an hour's discussion, the chairman of the council, Mr. E. J. Brown, announced "Outside the rope, please," and Sergt. Wallace, chief range officer, ordered the targets up for the shoot-off. The crowd, taking this to mean that the executive had allowed M'Alister to count the four points in dispute, cheered lustily, and settled down for the final tussle.

But the crowd was in error, and the executive must not be held blameless for allowing them to remain under a false impression. Mr. Brown, explaining the matter to a "Herald" representative, said:—"We have decided to disallow M'Alister's shot." (The official score was, therefore, Edwards 285, M'Alister 281.) "M'Alister has appealed to the council. As the men live so far apart (Junee and Melbourne) we have decided to allow the shoot-off now, in case the council decides in M'Alister's favour."

THE SHOOTING.

At the end of the first stage Stan. Edwards headed the list with 98 points, close in attendance being Greig, of Randwick, Green of Parramatta, and Parsons of Wollongong. M'Alister was 22nd on the list with 94.

On the second day, at the middle distances, Edwards still led with 155 points, M'Alister being one point behind, while close up were Hodder of Glen Innes, Mortimer of Wodonga, Davidson of Hastings River, and Williams of Victoria.

Starting yesterday morning at the long ranges, the wind shifted all round the compass. Edwards added 43 to his aggregate, and so totalled 198. M'Alister added 49, and so for the first time assumed the lead with 203. Coming strongly behind were Maze of Sydney, 197; Corporal Grandi, Warrnambool, 199; and Davidson, of Hastings River, 196. Many were floored at the 900yds range. M'Alister, shooting solidly, added 40, and kept the lead with 243. Maze with a 43 jumped to second place, in company with Edwards, while still in the running were a score of champions, headed by Capt. Wassall, Corporal Grandi (Vic.), W. Cunningham, of the Tramways (who notched the possible at 900yds), O. J. Stanton, F. W. Turton, W. Goulnan, J. H. Williams (Vic.), and W. Norrish, of Western Australia.

Then came the final tug-of-war. Stan Edwards, firing with the first squad, was not greatly worried by the fish-tailing westerly, which swung round from south-west to north-west. He put on anything from 11 to 15 degrees of windage, and notched 4, 5, 4, 4, 5, 4, 5, 5, 4, 5=45, and so with a total of 285 he looked a likely winner. One by one the Commonwealth champions took their places on the mounds, fired, and retired beaten. Maze missed with his third shot, and slumped, finishing at 268. Captain Wassell could only add 39, reaching 276. The Western Australian, Norrish, reached 281 with a fine effort. Turton climbed to 271, and T. Dunn to 270. One after another failed of their objective. Then came M'Alister.

A thousand marksmen, the N.R.A. officials, the State Commandant, and many officers gathered behind the Junee champion. If his score of 44 at 900 yards were allowed he only wanted 38 to equal Edwards. His sighters—an outer and a magpie—were discarded. His first business shot was an inner, then a magpie, then three more inners. It was getting exciting, and the crowd tried hard not to cheer. A groan came from the Junee camp as the next shot only raised an outer. The record was now 4, 3, 4, 4, 4, 2, and 17 points were required to win. M'Alister started out, and two bulls and a magpie were signalled. The crowd held its breath. Then came the last shot, an inner, and the crowd yelled "A Tie!" "A Tie!" M'Alister had equalled Edward's 285.

THE SHOOT-OFF.

Every man, woman, and child on the range crowded round for the shoot-off. Edwards, with a red, white, and blue band round his hat, and M'Alister, with an old brown hat and a black rag tied round his chin, shook hands, and took position. Both fired, Edwards first, and both got bullseyes for their sighters. Then Edwards fired thrice, 3, 4, 3, and M'Alister, following suit, scored 4, 4, 3, and so by 11 points to 10 won the shoot-off. His clubmates swarmed on to the mound, and carried him shoulder high from the field. Cheers were given for M'Alister and Edwards, and the crowd trooped away, adding M'Alister's name to the long list of King's winners.

But, as has been pointed out, the N.R.A. council has yet to decide M'Alister's appeal. If they dismiss it, and endorse the action of the executive Stan Edwards will add one more King's Prize to his trophies.

MINER KILLED.

FORGOTTEN BLASTING CHARGE

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A shocking mining fatality occurred at the Nuggety Ajax mine, Daylesford, to-day.

John Friday, 35, and Edmund Thomas, 46, were sinking the main shaft, which is 34ft below the 700ft level. While they were using a jack hammer drill the bit exploded a charge left by a previous shift, and the result was a terrific explosion.

Friday, who had his right arm shockingly shattered, and was cut about the body, had the presence of mind to get into a bucket and knock himself to the surface.

Thomas was literally blown to pieces, and death must have been instantaneous. Deceased leaves a widow and large family of young children.

SIGNED ARTICLES.

CASE DISMISSED.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

In the Central Summons Court to-day, before Mr. C. A. M. Morris, P.M., the action was continued in which Alfred Thos. Cargett, the divisional returning officer for Brisbane, proceeded against James Benjamin Sharpe on complaint that, while the proprietor of the "Daily Standard" newspaper, after the issue of writs for election of members of the House of Representatives, and before their return, he permitted the publication of an unsigned statement commenting on the Liberal and Labour parties.

Mr. Macrossan, counsel for the defendant, asked for dismissal on the grounds that so far as the article consisted of comment it was signed, and as far as it consisted of a statement of fact it did not require to be signed. The article did not comment on any political party being then before the electors. So far as that portion of the complaint was concerned there was no evidence that the original article was unsigned.

The magistrate said that, after reading the article carefully, he had come to the conclusion that it was written against the Independent Workers of the World. He dismissed the complaint, with £4 4s professional costs.

NEWSPAPERS' APPEAL.

PERTH, Thursday.

The Full Court to-day heard the appeal of the "Sunday Times" against a conviction under the Electoral Act for the publication of an unsigned article. The article in question, headed "Federal Politics," was published after the polling, but before the Senate writs were returned. The ground of the appeal was that a signed article meant a signature to the manuscript of the article, not to its printed publication. The Court unanimously and unhesitatingly dismissed the appeal with costs.

KIEFF MURDER TRIAL.

EXTRAORDINARY EVIDENCE.

KIEFF, Oct. 16.

At the trial to-day of the Jew, Beilis, on a charge of having killed the boy Yuschinsky, a witness, named Vera Cheberiak, whose two children died in mysterious circumstances and were reported to have been killed by Jews, gave evidence that Brushkovsky, a journalist, urged her to assist in discovering the real murderers; otherwise, her husband would be dismissed from the postal service.

Then, she said, Brushkovsky urged her to take the guilt on her own shoulders, promising her a large sum to go abroad.

The witness added that she accompanied Brushkovsky to Kharkoff, where Margolin, a barrister, and two other men offered her £4000 to assume the guilt in order to secure the acquittal of Beilis.

Oct. 17.

The Kieff trial has so far been marked by frequent conflicts between the opposing counsel reflecting the religious or party antagonisms.

Interest has been heightened by the examination of members of the Cheberiak family, owing to the general belief that Mrs. Cheberiak knows, but is concealing, the whole truth relating to the murder. There are strong divergencies between the testimony of the husband and that of the wife.

Their young daughter declared, in evidence, that Detective Politschuk threatened her that she would die like her brother and sister unless she incriminated Beilis.

BRICKS CONTRACT.

ORDER CANCELLED.

POLITICAL INTRIGUE ALLEGED.

DUBBO, Thursday.

In the Legislative Assembly on the 7th inst., the Minister for Works, in answer to Mr. Fitzpatrick, stated that a contract had been given to Mr. J. Bates, of Dubbo, for Coonamble school, for 50,000 bricks, at £2 15s a thousand on the trucks at Dubbo. The Minister also stated that the contract had been cancelled, owing to the inability of Mr. Bates to supply the bricks in the time specified. Then some of the bricks required were obtained at Bathurst, and the balance had to be supplied from the State brickworks at £1 10s a thousand, plus freight, £3 6s 6d to Coonamble, or £4 16s 6d a thousand at Coonamble. The cost of Mr. Bates's bricks delivered at Coonamble would have been £4 4s 9d a thousand.

Mr. Bates's attention has been drawn to the Minister's reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, and he has made the following statement:—

STATEMENT BY MR. BATES.

"Some time ago an officer of the Works Department visited Dubbo, and saw me. He told me that he was instructed to interview me with a view to placing an order for 50,000 common bricks, to be delivered at Dubbo railway station for Coonamble school, and asked me if I could undertake the supply of the bricks. I said I could not execute the order until six weeks from the time of the conversation. The officer then asked how long it would take for the delivery of the bricks, and I replied that I would deliver all the bricks within one week if trucks were available. The officer assured me that such conditions would be satisfactory, and that I was sure to receive the order. I asked the officer, as a special favour, to let me know if my offer would be accepted by the department, so as not to keep me waiting, as I might have to refuse other orders, and I wanted to keep faith with the Government.

"Shortly afterwards I received the following letter from the department, dated June 11, 1913:—

Sir,—I wrote you on the 4th inst in connection with your quotation for the supply of bricks for Coonamble Public School, asking you to inform me the time required for delivery, date of commencement, and the rate of delivery. As it is desired to get the bricks on the ground as soon as possible, I shall be glad to have this information, so that the question of ordering may be gone into.

(Sgd.) W. BRUCE,
Constructor of Works.

"I at once complied with the requests contained in the above letter, and sent along particulars exactly as I had stated them to the department's officer who first interviewed me. Following on this correspondence, I received the following order form, dated June 18, 1913:—

Order No. 47443.—Mr. J. Bates, Public School, 50,000 common bricks at £2 15s per 1000, on trucks at Dubbo.
(Sgd.) W. BRUCE.

"Across this document, written in pencil, were the words: 'Order telegraphed.' I got everything ready to carry out my part of what I considered an honourable contract with what I supposed to be an honourable Government; but imagine my surprise on receipt of a further communication from the department, dated July 21, 1913, just 33 days after the receipt of the order for the bricks, as follows:—

Sir,—Please note that, as you have failed to comply with Order No. 47443, dated 18.6.'13, for supply of the undermentioned articles, the same has been cancelled. Coonamble Public School, 50,000 common bricks at £2 15s per 1000.

(Sgd.), W. BRUCE.

"I was naturally much disappointed, especially as I had manufactured 35,000 bricks, and had these ready for transport to the Dubbo station for carriage to Coonamble. It was also very disappointing, because a few days previous I had refused an offer from Mr. R. T. Hill, contractor, of Dubbo, for the bricks in question. I consider that the Government is responsible for a breach of contract with me, and I have a strong suspicion that there has been political intrigue at the bottom of it."

SAFETY LAMPS IN MINES.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

A notice of motion was received at to-day's meeting of the Miners' Delegate Board from the combined lodges of the West Wallsend district reading:—"That after a thorough practical trial of the C.E.A.G electric safety lamp by all classes of workmen in the West Wallsend district collieries, we are strongly of the opinion that the time is opportune for the introduction of the flameless type of safety lamp in lieu of the ordinary oil lamps at present in use in the gassy mines of New South Wales, and that the advantages gained by the use of the C.E.A.G. electric lamp outweigh any objection to its practical adoption, and with this object in view we urge the necessity of vigorous action by the federation, and that a deputation be appointed to interview the Minister and officers of the Mines Department to solicit the assistance of the Government in obtaining the introduction of this lamp in its practical use." The motion was adopted unanimously.

TRUCKS DERAILED.

YASS, Friday.

Damage was done on Thursday by the derailment of a goods train at Coolali, and passenger traffic was affected. A goods train from Goulburn was leaving the station, and got on to the new road instead of the main line. A number of trucks got off the rails at the terminus. As a result, a collision occurred. The passenger trains were delayed, and the passengers were transhipped to the Collali paper train an hour and a half late.

BAR EMPLOYEES' CLAIMS.

Claims drawn up by the Federated Liquor Trade Employees' Union, applying to barmen, barmaids, stewards, and cellarmen, are being sent out to the licensees of hotels in New South Wales, with a view to having this State included in a Federal award, which is about to be sought. A limitation is asked of the working hours to 48 per week, to be worked in straight shifts of not more than nine hours a day, not including meal hours. Time and a half is suggested for overtime, and double time for work done on Sundays and holidays. One clause suggests that there should be equal pay for equal work. Wages for all adults handling or distributing liquor in hotels or clubs are suggested at £3 per week.

BURSARIES.

ACT VIGOROUSLY DENOUNCED

MEETING IN CITY.

Strong condemnation of the Bursaries Act was given utterance to at a largely-attended and very enthusiastic gathering at the Protestant Hall last evening. Mr. James Robinson presided.

"We have called this meeting," said the chairman, "to place before you the text of the Bursaries Act, 1912, to show you the points that we take exception to, and our reasons therefor. We are not opposed to bursaries—we are absolutely in favour of them, but we are opposed to bursaries on the lines laid down by the Act." (Hear, hear.) They owed no allegiance, he declared, to any political party, and at the next election the men who were to get the support of all right-thinking citizens must promise to vote for the repeal of that abominable Act. (Cheers.) They were against the sectarian schools, because the teaching they got there was not likely to make good citizens. He had purchased the reading books of the Catholic Schools, and quoted excerpts, which he ridiculed. Cheers and laughter followed the chairman's sallies. He stated that one of the books contained an illustration of an Irish harp without a crown, which, as every Irishman knew, was the emblem of disloyalty. Those schools were proselytising organisations, which, he said, he could prove. Promises in all good faith were given that the children's belief would not be interfered with, but the view was taken that the child had no religion, and what did not exist they could not interfere with. (Laughter.) Therefore, they would inculcate the true religion. He objected to Government money being given to support proselytizing schools, which were managed by a board, on which Father O'Reilly, of Bathurst, had a seat.

Professor MacIntyre eschewed politics, and added that his feelings had to be very strong to make him come to the platform. The Presbyterian General Assembly, on his own application, had passed a motion, condemning the SECTARIAN BLOTS IN THE ACT.

The Roman Catholics wanted the handling of public money for sectarian purposes. This he strongly objected to. (Cheers.) If it was for purposes of education, they could get better elsewhere. The Act was the thin edge of a wedge, and if the Labour party got back to power further concessions were to be expected. He was a churchman, and he would never allow the State to dictate to his churchmanship. (Hear, hear.) "At the ballot-box," he concluded, "we will speak, not in our own interests, but in the interests of the State. (Cheers.) I do not use words unguardedly, but I will say this: That the interests of the State have always been violated by Rome." (Cheers.)

The Rev. S. D. Yarrington said that the Government had touched something vital, and they should not be allowed to go any further.

Speeches were delivered by Messrs. Varney Parkes, M.L.A., J. Wheeler, and Alderman Willoughby.

The following motion was carried:—"That this meeting of citizens emphatically condemns the Bursary Endowment Act in so far as it violates the principles that public funds should not be used as a benefit to sectarian schools, or in association therewith, and pledges itself to use every constitutional means for the rescinding of the Act towards the elimination of the clauses objected to and maintenance of the non-sectarian education system built up in this State."

SHOOTING-GALLERY ACCIDENT.

On Thursday a lad was shot at a shooting-gallery erected on some vacant land at Granville. It is stated that a lad named Leslie Draper, aged 11 years, jocularly remarked to Frank Fahey, 10 years, that he would shoot him, and pointed a rifle at him, apparently not knowing it was loaded. Draper turned away, and raised his hand, as the weapon went off, and the bullet, passing through the hand, grazed the neck. The lad, after being attended to at the Parramatta District Hospital, returned to his home.

He had apparently fallen from a ladder leading to the loft in the hotel yard, receiving concussion of the brain. The Coroner recorded an open finding.

MUNICIPALISATION BILL.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Referring to the announcement that an agreement had been arrived at between the Government and the Brisbane Tramway Company regarding the construction of extensions that have been hung up for some months, the Premier has stated that orders-in-council will be issued to give authority for the construction of lines. Mr. Denham also stated that he intended to table this session a bill on the lines submitted to him by the local authorities to facilitate the resumption of the tramways by the local authorities. The bill will be merely introduced, but not passed this session, thus giving time for the consideration of the question.

GIRL RESCUES A BOY.

BOWRAVILLE, Friday.

While some young people were swimming in the river close to the town a boy about 9 years old, named Roy Bradley, had a narrow escape from drowning. With others he was playing on an old boat, which tipped up. Three were thrown into deep water. Roy Bradley sank, but his cousin, Lina Bradley, a girl about 14 years of age, dived after him. The boy caught her, and struggled with her. With difficulty she came to the surface. The second time she dived she brought the lad up in a very exhausted condition.

COOTAMUNDRA SEAT

PREMIER'S CAMPAIGN.

DISABILITIES OF FREEHOLD.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

TEMORA, Friday.

To-day Mr. Holman addressed two meetings in the Cootamundra electorate. His departure from Temora this morning synchronised with the departure of the Public Works Committee from the town on its way over the route of the proposed Combaning-Methul railway. A long string of motor cars left with Mr. Holman's car in the lead, the whirling automobiles raising a cloud of dust that hung in the air like the pillar of smoke that accompanied the Israelites in their march towards Jordan. The Premier's car led the way till Sebastopol, a small gold-mining and agricultural centre about 11 miles south of Temora, was reached, and here the Minister and the Works Committee parted company, the Premier heading towards Mimosa, some seven or eight miles away, while the members of the investigating committee proceeded towards Methul.

The school at Mimosa was visited by Mr. Holman during the afternoon, and this being his first visit to the village, a holiday to the scholars was granted in celebration of the occasion. Mimosa is a closer settlement area, formed out of Big Mimosa Station. The electors at Mimosa assembled in the local church building at 4 o'clock to hear an address by the Premier. The chair was occupied by a local farmer (Mr. J. C. M'Donald), there being about forty present.

Mr. Holman, who was received with applause, said he would address them in the first instance as a farming community on the western boundary of his electorate, interested in the development of the central district in New South Wales. They were mainly interested in three measures of public policy, the management of Crown land, the building of State railways, and the opening up of irrigation possibilities by the conserving and the proper use of the natural waters of the State. He contrasted the attitude of the present and past Government with regard to these three matters. Three million acres had been locked up in reserves, which were no longer needed for reserves, and over two million acres were now taken up, and the rest were being taken up very rapidly. The reason this land was not thrown open before was that it had been leased out to squatters on mostly annual leases at a ridiculous rent.

Of the twelve million acres under improvement leases, eight million acres had been reported to be good for settlement. It had never been intended that land suitable for settlement should be put under that tenure. At present the policy of the Government regarding the resumption of these improvement leases had been suspended by the institution of a law suit against the Government.

He put it to them that this change in land tenure was better than the Liberal policy of buying land back at £5 an acre, which, indeed, was grossly extravagant. They proposed to make the land available by building railways to suitable Crown lands. The future of this portion of the State depended entirely upon railway development. The transformation of that district from a big sheep walk into a gigantic wheat field was wholly due to the policy of building railways rapidly.

Referring to irrigation, Mr. Holman said that there were already 500 settlers at Yanco, and the Government hoped to settle a minimum of 500 settlers annually during the next nine years. In ten years there would be 10,000 families at Yanco, which meant a population probably of 50,000 people in a comparatively small, compact area.

Speaking of the perpetual leasehold system under which the Government was throwing land open, Mr. Holman said:—"For the man of limited means the leasehold principle, especially if you let him off rent for the five years, is a sound one, because any money he has can be spent in developing his property. He is not then putting it in the earth as the man has to who has to spend 5 per cent. on the value in order to purchase a bit of paper which is his freehold certificate. The perpetual lease system is the only one under which we can prevent the aggregation of big estates, and guarantee that the land is being applied to the proper purposes, that is, the development of settlement in the country."

On the motion of the chairman, a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Holman.

In the evening Mr. Holman addressed a meeting of similar dimensions at Sebastopol, receiving an enthusiastic reception.

THE BRIDGE.

PREMIER EMPHATIC.

A NATIONAL WORK.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

TEMORA, Friday.

The North Shore bridge is figuring in the fight for the Cootamundra seat, as no doubt in other country electorates where the cry of town versus country is being raised. Mr. Holman, speaking this afternoon at Mimosa, one of the outposts of his electorate, declared emphatically in favour of building the bridge.

At the conclusion of his address an elector asked, "Would you be in favour of building the North Shore bridge?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Holman. "I think it is absolutely essential for the development of Sydney. It is a very big work, and will take, of course, many years to build, and the sooner it is put in hand the better. Anybody can see that Sydney is going to be a city of a million inhabitants in the not far distant future, and, if we do not build the bridge, three-quarters of those inhabitants will be crowded on the south side of the city, and the really good residential sites on the north side will not be occupied. The city would then be lopsided.

"My own view," continued the Premier, "about the North Shore bridge is that if we carry out the Greater Sydney scheme, as is our intention if we are returned to power, it will be provided that the united municipalities of the metropolitan areas should take over the liabilities of the bridge as part of the total indebtedness of Greater Sydney. You could not ask any single municipality to take over the responsibility of that bridge, because it serves not only the City of Sydney, but 41 other municipalities.

"In the meanwhile the bridge is a national undertaking, and ought to be pushed on with. It will cost two and a half millions, and will probably take seven years to build, because it is work which cannot be hurried. It will, therefore, be an expenditure only of a little over £300,000 a year to carry it out."

NAVAL BOARD.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

From time to time hints have been dropped to the effect that important changes were pending in connection with the personnel of the Australian Naval Board. It has been understood that one member is to become personal adviser to the Minister, and that a second will be appointed to the post of inspector of machinery and equipment. The Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) is at present in Sydney, conferring with Admiral Patey as to the future of the fleet, and this matter will also be referred to. In the course of an interview the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) admitted that it was possible a British Admiral might be engaged.

AUSTRALIAN FLEET.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Rear-Admiral Sir George Patey has not yet decided when the flagship Australia and other Commonwealth men-of-war will visit Port Phillip. It is now practically certain that the fleet will not visit Melbourne during Cup week. Inquiries are still being made as to the possibility of the flagship entering the Heads in safety, and the Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) will confer with the Admiral on the question of a visit to Melbourne while he is in Sydney this week-end.

NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

In the House, Mr. Allen stated that the 3½ million loan, which had been underwritten in London during the last fortnight, had been raised at 1½ per cent. discount and 4 per cent. interest. All the money was required for the redemption of loans. The term of the loan was ten years, convertible into 4 per cent. inscribed stock. It was believed that a large amount will be so converted during the next month or two.

MARCONI LITIGATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Glynn), who is acting in the place of the Attorney-General (Mr. Irvine), in connection with the litigation with the Marconi Co., stated that Mr. Swinburne had been retained about a month, and he had left for Australia at a few day's notice, catching the steamer at Brindisi. The selection was made on the advice of the British Admiralty.

The vessel cleared Port Phillip Heads at 9.40 on Wednesday evening, and passed Macquarie Light, Sydney Heads, at 6.30 a.m. to-day, having covered the distance in 32 hours 50 minutes. NAMBUCCA BAR.

BOWRAVILLE, Friday.

For the past fortnight shipping business at Nambucca Heads has been at a standstill, owing to the shoaling up of the river. The steamer Our Jack was the last steamer able to cross in. She has been waiting for a fortnight to get out again. The dredge Latona was brought from Port Macquarie, and after working on the inside bar, succeeded in cutting a channel. The steamer Nerong entered this morning.

VICTORIA FROM AUCKLAND.

The Huddart, Parker steamer Victoria was late in arriving from Auckland last night. According to her wireless message she was looked for at 8 p.m., but she did not enter until 10 p.m. This was due to the vessel meeting strong south-west to north-west winds and rough seas which prevailed throughout the trip.

N.Y.K. 6000 TONNER.

Another step forward in our trade with China, Japan, and the Far East is to be noted in the sailing last Thursday, from Nagasaki, on her maiden trip to Australia, of the 6000 ton N.Y.K. steamer Tango Maru.

Hitherto the biggest steamer of the N.Y.K. Australian line has been the Nikko Maru, of some 5000 tons, and the change now made will, perhaps, be more easily appreciated when it is remembered that the Tango Maru is replacing a very much smaller boat—the old Yawata Maru, 4000 tons.

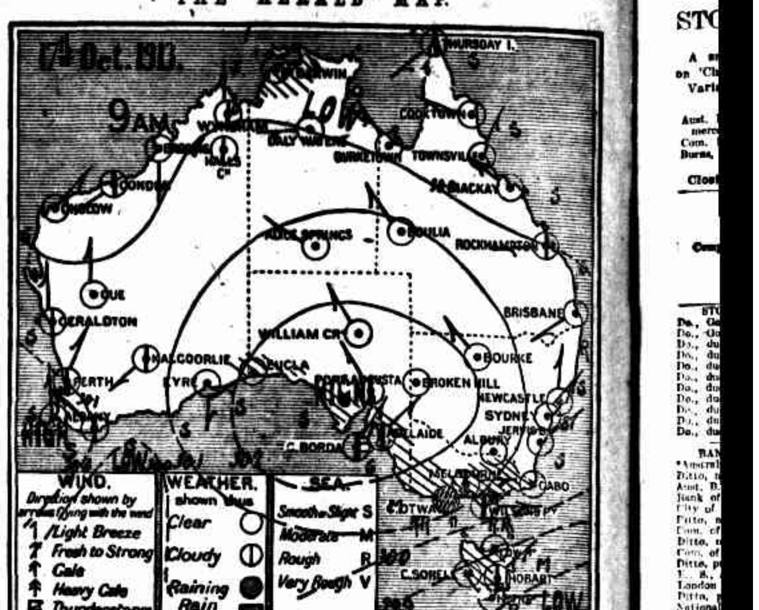
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The Antarctic disturbance has now entirely left our shores, and is at present centrally situated to the south of the Bluff, New Zealand.

The high pressure which has advanced about 600 miles covers the whole of the continent, and is centred between Adelaide and Port Augusta.

There are indications of another disturbance in the S.W. corner of the continent, and a monsoonal depression off the Queensland coast. With this distribution of pressure fine and warmer weather should rule generally during the next day or two.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh in the Straits and parts of Queensland coast. Rough towards New Zealand.

THE CLASSICAL THEORIES OF WAGES.

WHERE THEY FAIL.

AN ADVANCED LIBERAL THEORY.

Having shown that the Australian theory of wages does not stand examination, we shall briefly summarise the classical theories, not giving them all, but only the more important of them. This may be done as follows:—

I.—The Wages Fund Theory.—One of the earliest and most popular theories of wages was that of the wages fund. There is a certain volume of capital available for the employment of labour, there is likewise a certain number of workmen proffering their services; divide the workmen into the aggregate of capital, and the product is the average wage that will be paid. Or, as John Stuart Mill expressed it, "Wages depend on the proportion between the number of the labour population and the capital or other funds devoted to the purchase of labour . . . If wages are higher at one time or place than another; if the substance and comfort of the class of hired labourers are more ample, it is for no other reason than because capital bears a greater proportion to population. It is not the absolute amount of accumulation or of production that is of importance to the labouring class; it is not the amount even of the funds destined for distribution amongst the labourers; it is the proportion between those funds and the number among whom they are shared."

This theory has now been generally discarded, but it contains in it this slight element of truth that when credit is restricted, employment usually suffers. We had an experience of this kind in this State some little time ago when, owing to the monetary stringency, speculative builders had perforce to shut down. As a matter of fact, however, it is now realised that capital is growing at a much more rapid rate than population.

II.—The Iron Law of Wages.—This theory regards labour as a commodity which the workman offers for sale. The employing class comprise the buyers. The value of labour is to be arrived at just on the same principles that one ascertains the natural value of any other commodity, that is through first ascertaining the cost of production. The cost of production of labour is the cost of the labourer's food, clothes, etc., sufficient to keep him in a reasonable state of efficiency, but no more, plus the cost of upkeep of his wife and children, for it is necessary to provide for keeping up the supply of labourers. Wages, the propounders of this theory asserted, could not long remain either above or below the amount required for this purpose. This theory has by some been expressed in an expanded form. It has been said to mean not the necessary sustenance of a labourer, not merely the minimum amount of food essential to keep body and soul together, but the minimum amount required in the present state of our civilisation to keep a workman in the standard of comfort to which he is accustomed. This, of course, begs the question, and robs the theory of any pretence to exactitude, for who can say what the standard of comfort should be? That is precisely the problem that is facing us to-day.

III.—The Irreducible Minimum Theory.—The American economist Gunton has propounded a theory that wages depend upon the lowest amount for which the worker will agree to live. He considers that wages can be reduced to a certain limit, but no further, for a point must inevitably be reached when the worker will starve rather than work for less. Everything, according to this theory, thus depends upon the worker. An Australian workman will refuse a job if he cannot get 8s per day, whereas a Japanese coolie will work much longer hours for 50 sen, or 1s per day. If this theory were true, workmen could raise their wages to any extent; but this is not true, for the point would soon be reached at which it would be unprofitable to employ them in competition with those whose standard of living was lower. The standard of living as Gide points out is high because wages are high, wages are not high because the standard of living is high. Workmen do not try and raise their standard of living in order to raise their wages, but raise their wages in order thereby to raise their standard of living.

IV.—Theory of Productivity of Labour.—According to this theory the value of labour—that is, the wages which it should receive—depends upon its productivity and on nothing else. The theory is based on the conception that no employer would go to the trouble to engage a hand if he were not convinced that this hand would add to his wealth something over and above the amount which he requires to return him in the form of wages. So, when the employer finds that he is not getting sufficient work out of his man, he dismisses him. If he did not do so he would be merely losing money as the result of his enterprise.

The weakness of this theory is that employers often miscalculate the value of their product, though they always have the idea before them that the workman will produce enough to enable them to pay his wages and to provide the wages of capital as well.

V.—The Residuary Claimant Theory.—According to this theory an employer, when he enters into an enterprise, makes up his mind that he must get a certain return upon his capital at the outset. If land or buildings are used, and these are not owned by the employer, then rent for the landlord must be provided out of the gross profits of the undertaking. If there is anything left after the employer and the landlord are satisfied it goes to the workmen. The workers are thus the residuary claimants, as it were. Of course this theory is defective, in so far as no workman would work merely for the benefit of the employer and the landlord when an undertaking was not sufficiently profitable to give him a reasonable share, nor in the event of the undertaking being very profitable would the workers get any marked additional advantage. The additional profits would go to the employer.

VI.—An Advanced Liberal Theory.—From New Zealand, the land of advanced Liberalism, comes a new theory, which has thus been expressed by Sir John Findlay, K.C., LL.D.:—

> To-day every man and woman willing and able to work should not only have made available by the State, if not otherwise obtainable, socially useful work, but should have such wages in return for it as, looking at the cost of living, will afford the basis of a healthy, civilised existence and the means of discharging all the civic obligations of husband, wife, parent, or child, as the case may be. But this is not all. There is a necessary corollary, and it is this: If, in the actual working of our industrial system the wages paid are not high enough, or cannot under particular trade conditions be made high enough, to supply that basis and means, the worker is entitled to claim, not as of charity but as of right, upon the national income to make good the deficiency.

This statement is, however, rather an ethical concept than a working theory, upon which wages may be based.

It is interesting to note that an attempt was made last year to give a practical turn to this idea of the State becoming the employer of those who, in present circumstances, can find no work to do. A bill was introduced into the House of Commons the working clause of which provides:—

> "Where a workman has registered himself as unemployed it shall be the duty of the local unemployment authority to provide work for him in connection with one or other of the schemes hereinafter provided or othrwise; or, failing the provision of work, to provide maintenance, should necessity exist, for that person or for those depending on that person for the necessities of life. Provided that a refusal on the part of the unemployed workman to accept reasonable work upon one of these schemes or employment upon conditions not lower than those that are standard to the work in the locality shall release the local unemployment authority of its duties under this section."

The bill, which was introduced by a private member, was rejected. As Mr. John Burns remarked when discussing this subject, there was one thing that its advocates quite overlooked, and that was the cost.

FLPED EGGS.

THE UNITED STATES METHOD.

It was stated in yesterday's issue that large quantities of eggs are being bought for pulping purposes and that the pulp is not being examined by an officer of the Health Department to see that it conforms with the requirements of the Pure Foods Act. It is interesting to learn, therefore that the food research laboratory of the United States bureau of chemistry is conducting experiments in a number of egg-breaking establishments in order to assist the manufacturers in canning perfect eggs for winter use. According to the specialists of the department, there is no reason why eggs cannot be broken, canned, and kept as an excellent food just the same as other products are canned and kept for use when the fresh supply is low. As in all canning, however, the specialists have made clear that it is essential that nothing but perfect eggs be canned and that they be canned under such conditions of cleanliness and kept in such low temperatures that they have no chance to spoil.

Under the new system of canning, the eggs are canned in rooms and with utensils that rival in cleanliness the appointment of the hospital operating room. Everything is sterilised, and those who actually break the eggs have to clean their hands much as a surgeon does before operating. Each egg before being broken is candled, and nothing but perfect eggs go into the breaking room. Each egg is broken separately into a cup. If, by any chance the egg is other than first-class, it is not dropped into the can, but is removed from the breaking-room and before the breaker can resume work, she must clean her hands and sterilise all the instruments she has used. The actual breaking is done with eggs at a low temperature, and in a room where the air is cold enough to prevent any change in the nature of the egg. The cans of eggs are then sealed and frozen, and kept frozen until they go to the baker at the time of egg shortage. Through these means the specialists are confident that good eggs can be canned at the time when eggs are plentiful, and thus provide an ample supply of reasonably priced eggs for bakers when eggs mount up in price. Eggs canned under these conditions are in no sense to be confused with the carelessly canned or doctored eggs put up by unscrupulous egg breakers and used by unscrupulous bakers as a cheapener for their cakes and other products.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The jute market yesterday was waiting anxiously for the information relative to shipments of cornsacks and branbags by the Canara and the Shirala. Another impediment to business was the receipt of documents of shipments in the Umtali and Gracchus. These documents were going their rounds to discover who should finally take delivery. Ultimately the amount of money turned over was very large. The position on spot had strengthened considerably. For growers' lots the lowest asked was 7/7 delivered, discount, and some importers were obtaining as high as 7/8½. September shipments were rather easy. 7/4 slings was quoted, and this price could be beaten in a few instances by almost a penny. Weak holders were getting nervous, but the condition of the October shipment market should have reassured them. For shipments that month buyers wanted to get in at 7/6, but at that price it was impossible. The lowest that holders would take was 7/7 slings, and there were very few offering even at that price. All importers seemed to want their holdings for country business. Melbourne was actively inquiring, but could do nothing, and had to order from Calcutta about 1000 bales at 7/5½ c.i.f. and e. A little country business was done in branbags at unchanged rates, but so little that the market was practically nominal. The same may be said of woolpacks at 3/4.

The tea sales drew fair competition, 520 packages of Ceylon teas were offered, and all were sold, prices ranging up to /9½. Some private transactions were also recorded.

In the oil market, further sales of Champion's whitelead were made at £38/10/ in cwt, and £39/10/ in quarters, for parcels. Prices were extremely firm. Distributing values were about 10/ more. Redlead was worth £33. Linseed oil, though the distributing trade continued good, had no inter-house business. The market in London was distinctly weaker, Blundell and Spence's being quoted at 1/11 f.o.b. for prompt shipment, and 2/ f.o.b. for January to April shipment, a fall of /2 for prompt shipment, and /1½ for forward shipment. Burrell's was quoted 1/10 f.o.b. for prompt shipment. In these circumstances, the absence of parcel business is not to be wondered at. Distributing lots of first brands had business at 3/6 and 3/8. The copra market is stagnant, and no operations of moment have taken place during the week. Sellers have reduced their quotations by 5/ per ton, but buyers are still 10/ below them. Sellers' quotations are £25/10/ for smoked in bulk, to £26/15/ for sun-dried in bags, f.o.b. export steamer.

Regarding wire-netting, the fall in which has caused such a great deal of interest this week, the views of a prominent English manufacturer on the position of the market will be read with interest. This manufacturer believed when he wrote last month that prices had seen their bottom, being almost at the lowest level they had ever reached. The exceptionally low price had already induced a considerable amount of business for immediate and forward delivery. The early autumn, he continued, is always the best time to buy from the English manufacturer, as the home trade demand has then fallen off. At the beginning of the new year the English home trade demand again springs up, and English manufacturers are pretty well supplied with home orders for early spring delivery. The present time is therefore suitable for covering requirements.

NEXT SEASON'S SUGAR PROSPECTS.

Reports to hand speak of continued dry weather in the northern districts. In the Mossman they are still looking expectantly for rain, and it is stated that should it come in time, something like 1000 acres will be planted with cane during the next two months. Crushing will finish about the middle of the present month (writes the "Sugar Trades Journal"), and though the crop is short, the density has been good, averaging about 8 tons of cane to the ton of sugar. The latest statistics showed an average of 7.38 tons to the ton of sugar as the week's average. Considerable attention appears to be directed to the question of cane varieties; and it is said that Barbados No. 208 is showing much improvement as it becomes acclimatised to the district. On the other hand, the favourite Badila appears to be deteriorating. In the Cairns district both the existing crop and the newly-planted cane are suffering from lack of moisture, and some of the farmers are improvising irrigation in order to save the young plants. Owing to the lack of moisture, many of the crops will give a less tonnage than was estimated. Rats are very troublesome, causing in some paddocks a loss of as much as 50 per cent. of the cane. On the Johnstone River, also, the weather continues excessively dry, only three inches of rain having fallen since the end of June. The cane generally is high in density. Crushing will finish about the end of November. In the Bundaberg district, as also in other southern districts, there have been helpful rains, as much as four inches having fallen around Gin Gin; but in the Woongarra the fall was not so good, and there is urgent need for more to keep the young plant cane and ratoons moving. Harvesting operations are progressing steadily; but the crop is so heavy that farmers are not enabled to get their crop away so rapidly as they would wish.

RICE FREIGHTS.

Inquiries are already being made by Australian merchants regarding the new season's rice in Burmah. The import of rice here has been for some years not a paying proposition, largely because of extreme competition among the merchants induced largely by a dispute as to methods of distribution. There are some firms who act as merchants alone; that is, they supply only distributing firms who, in turn, supply the retailer and storekeeper. There are other firms who act, both as merchants and distributors, that is, they sell to distributing firms, and at the same time supply the customers of those distributing firms the aforesaid retailer and storekeeper. The two classes of importers have not been able to come to arrangement as to the terms on which business shall be conducted, still less, therefore, are they disposed to make any arrangement as to prices. Hence, quotations barely cover costs. Often they do not do so. From time to time there have been slight advances, caused by increasing costs. Of such cost the chiefest after the purchase is the rate of freight. Time was, not so many years ago either, when rice was brought from Burmah at 10/ per ton. Then it advanced to 11/. The year 1912 saw another advance in freight to 14/, but this was a bagatelle to what happened this year, when 25/ per ton was paid. For next year shippers are threatened with a freight rate of 35/. An increase of 25/ per ton in the course of a few years must make a considerable difference in the cost of rice. What has happened is the old story. There has been a consolidation of interests. The shipping companies are recouping themselves for losses incurred in unprofitable years.

VEGETABLE TRADE WITH PHILIPPINES.

There is a danger of our trade in fresh vegetables with the Philippines being lost. The Sydney Chamber of Commerce has received from the Comptroller-General of Customs the following letter on the subject:—

By direction of the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. L. E. Groom), I beg to advise, for the information of your chamber, that a communication has been received from the American Consul regarding the supply of Australian fresh vegetables to the naval forces in the Philippine Islands, to the effect that there is a danger of Australia losing the trade of supplying stores to the troops at Manila owing to the high prices charged. The Supply Department at Manila have given the matter earnest consideration, with a view of suggesting some means by which a legitimate factor of competition might enter the Manila market, and it is their belief that it will be necessary for Australian merchants, in order to dispose of Australian foodstuffs for the use of the U.S.A. navy, to establish agencies at Manila to handle their shipments.

Further, it is considered by the naval authorities at Manila that the volume of business possible would justify them in doing so, and that only independent action of this kind will secure to Australia equal opportunities with other countries now supplying Manila, and provide an added factor of competition making more difficult the maintenance of high prices through combination of several firms or a monopoly on the part of one or more big concerns.

It was suggested by this department that a naval purchasing and inspection agency be established in Australia, but the reply received states that, owing to the impossibility of anticipating with any accuracy the needs of the fleet, on account of their continuous cruising away from the Philippines, such action is considered inadvisable.

EXPORT TRADE.

NEW MARKETS FOR MEAT.

For several years past the population of the meat eating countries of the Northern Hemisphere has been steadily increasing; while simultaneously the live stock have declined in numbers. This gives every indication not only of an increasing demand for all classes of meat, but also that the range of prices will probably be higher for some years to come. Germany is gradually opening its port to imported meat, and Australian consignments have already established a reputation in several leading centres. The South Australian Frozen Meat Exporters' Association asserts that it frequently receives inquiries from German buyers asking if continuous shipments of uniform-quality meat can be maintained. With the removal of the American duty of 1½ cent per lb. on imported meat, and a falling off in supplies in the United States, where the population is growing at a faster ratio than the natural increase in the number of livestock, it is certain that America will become an important outlet for shipments of frozen meat. These and other new markets are becoming available, and the outlook for export prices is encouraging. Recently a line of 500 merino lambs realised no less than an average of 15s per head. Another line from the same breeder brought 15s 1d per head.

AUSTRALIAN AND ARGENTINE MEAT SHIPMENTS.

Exports of frozen meat from Australia to the United Kingdom are proceeding upon a liberal scale. The quantity of mutton shipped during September totalled about 325,000 carcases, against 12,750 carcases for September, 1912; lambs, 100,800 carcases, against 750 carcases; and beef, 100,200 quarters, against 36,000 quarters. The totals for the three months since July 1 compare as follow:—

	July-Sept., 1913.	1912.
Mutton, carcases	774,750	173,750
Lamb, carcases	171,200	17,750
Beef, quarters	465,200	388,500

The increases shown under each head are striking.

The Argentine experience is somewhat different. The September figures show decreases in mutton, lambs, and frozen beef, but an increase in chilled beef, the total quantity of Argentine beef of the two descriptions being about equal to that for September, 1912. The total exports from the Argentine during July, August, and September this year compare as follows with the figures for the corresponding period in 1912:—

	July-Sept., 1913.	1912.
Mutton, carcases	298,458	630,450
Lamb, carcases	95,200	139,274
Frozen beef, quarters	246,250	474,700
Chilled beef, quarters	801,500	568,500

Argentine mutton shipments for the three months show a decrease of about 300,000 carcases to set off against the increase of about 600,000 carcases from Australia. Shipments of lamb show a decrease of about 44,000 carcases from Argentina, but an increase of about 154,000 carcases from Australia. The total quantity of Argentine beef is practically unchanged, though a much larger proportion is now going forward chilled instead of frozen. The net Argentine decrease is about 25,500 quarters, while Australian beef shipments show an increase of 48,750 quarters for the three months.

BREADSTUFFS.

THE MARKET EASY.

New wheat was offering freely yesterday at 3/6 ex trucks, December-January delivery, but business was dull. No buyers were about for any large quantity. Some transactions were recorded in the country at 3/ at railway stations. Buyers, however, were generally holding off the market in view of the position of the English and Continental markets. Our own cables report a dull market, with a downward tendency, and with substantial falls in futures. Private cables gave a fall of Australian cargoes of January shipment, amounting to /9, the price being 35/ per quarter. Freights were slightly easier, a steamer having been fixed for despatch in January at 31/9 per ton. Old wheat also declined on the local market, there being free offerings at 3/7½, and some at 3/7 alongside or ex trucks.

Flour was quiet at £8/15/. Bran and pollard had a steady inquiry at £4/10/ per ton.

THE RECORD OF NEW WHEAT.

The fact of the arrival of the first truck of new wheat on Wednesday and its sale on Thursday having aroused some interest as to the date of new wheat being put on the market in previous years, the following table, compiled by the consignees, Messrs. Sheppard, Harvey, and Co., is of interest:—

Year.	Date of Arrival.	Year.	Date of Arrival.
1905	Nov. 21	1910	Nov. 5
1906	Nov. 26	1911	Nov. 10
1907	Nov. 12	1912	Nov. 4
1908	Nov. 20	1913	Oct. 15
1909	Nov. 11

It will thus been seen that the arrival on Wednesday was a month earlier than the mean time, and almost three weeks earlier than the previous earliest.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 720 tons of wheat, and 92 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

RAILWAY MARKET.

POTATO SALES EXTRAORDINARY.

Something akin to a sensation was made by the potato sales yesterday. On Thursday it was reported that the market had gone from bad to worse; yesterday it seemed to have reached rock bottom. The first bid for each and every consignment was 1/ per cwt, and the auctioneer had weary work dragging out penny rises. There is a phrase going the rounds that expresses the state of affairs: "Everything in the window is." One of the auctioneers, when spoken to yesterday, estimated that the market was 20/ per cwt below Thursday's rates. Whether this is so or not, the unwelcome fact remains that the extraordinary low prices will make their mark and go down in commercial history. Yesterday morning reminiscences of previous historic market falls were duly trotted forth for the information of many, and this present instance will not be forgotten.

Sales were numerous; auctioneers were forced to sell, as demurrage rates could not be met with such low returns. Top price was 2/1. Frightful!

Produce placed in position for sale totalled 105 truckloads, and consisted of:—Hay 14, chaff 59, wheat 7, potatoes 33, maize 5, oats 1.

CHESS.

MR. JACOBSEN BEATS MR. WALLACE.

On Thursday two ex-Australian champions—Mr. Jacobsen and Mr. Wallace—played at the top board in a match between the School of Arts and Sydney chess clubs. The game attracted great interest, on account of the chess reputations of the contestants. Mr. Jacobsen, who won, gave evidence that his skill is still unimpaired. Mr. Wallace, however, owing to his long retirement from the game, is not yet in the best of form. The score of the game, with diagram and notes, follows:—

(a) Steinitz recommends 3P to KB3, and Mr. Ealing played that move in a game against Mr. Wallace, which he lost. The text move avoids many complications.

(c) This exchange is to Black's advantage.

(d) To prevent P to KB4, which would free White's game.

(e) The losing move. White gets no compensation for the sacrificed P.

(f) Black has admirably timed his moves.

(g) White is the exchange, and two pawns down, and his game is hopeless.

NOTES.

Owing to the general interest taken in the recent Viner-Crakanthorp championship match many beginners at the game have been furbishing up their chess. To-night at the Sydney Chess Club (Sports Club, Hunter-street) teams representing The "Sydney Morning Herald" and the "Daily Telegraph" will play a friendly match. On each side there will be two interstate players, but the majority of the contestants will be inexperienced in match play.

An exhibition of chess, with living pieces, will be given at the Sydney Town Hall on December 2, 6 in connection with the "Midsummer Week's Dream" in aid of the Shakespearian Tercentenary Memorial Fund. The entertainment is being organised by the Women's Patriotic Club. The Kings, Queens, Knights, and Bishops, etc., will be represented by ladies, gentlemen, and children, who will be dressed to suit their respective characters. Trumpeters' heralds will also be in evidence. Mr. W. S. Viner, chess champion of Australia, has promised to play against another strong player. Their moves over the chess board will be repeated as they are made by the living chesspieces on the huge board in the centre of the hall.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

MOSMAN CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

The fifth annual meeting of the Mosman Parents and Citizens' Association was held in the Mosman Public School on Wednesday night. The Mayor of Mosman, Alderman W. J. Pigott, presided. There was an attendance of over two hundred. An interesting address was delivered by Mrs. Anderson, of the Playgrounds Association, who strongly advocated the claims of the children to good playing areas. The secretary, Mr. J. C. Eldridge, reported that the Minister for Education had approved of the resumption of land in Belmont-road for a new infants' school.

The secretary and treasurer resigned thier positions, Mr. Fishle remarking that he would nominate a successor to the former, and also a good working committee.

LONG REEF HEADLAND.

The Salvation Army has offered to give a strip of beach frontage to the Warringah Shire Council. The strip runs from Collaroy Beach to the existing reserve on the basin, going round Long Reef headland. The concession, it was stated, would be given on condition that the council would make the army an allowance of £250 on road construction in future subdivisions. The strip offered will provide a very fine lookout, and afford an uninterrupted promenade round the Long Reef headland.

The council decided to accept the army's offer.

NARRABEEN BRIDGE TRAM.

The construction work in connection with the extension of the Manly-Collaroy tram line to the Narrabeen bridge is now in such an advanced stage that it is expected that within a month everything will be in order for the running of the tram to the bridge. There is no doubt that the tourist traffic on the Manly-Collaroy tram this season will be such a tax on the line that it will be found absolutely necessary, if not to construct a double set of rails, at least to increase and extend the present number of loop lines.

The northern extremity of the Manly Lagoon bridge is being widened for the purpose of connecting together the new extension of the Harbord-road loop with that of the main line by an intricate arrangement, to serve the crossing over of both the outgoing and incoming trams on the Manly-Collaroy line. The work will do away with the necessity of constructing a double line of points. The flood-gates at the ocean end of the lagoon have been closed while the work is in progress.

BUNNERONG-ROAD.

A deputation of Randwick residents, including Ald. Jennings, waited on the Lord Mayor on Thursday, with regard to the making of Boronia-street and Eastern-avenue, better known as Bunnerong-road, on the south-eastern corner of the city boundary, adjoining Kensington. The Lord Mayor promised to visit the locality at an early date.

SUN-BATHING AT BONDI.

At a meeting of the Waverley Council, the aldermen accepted recommendations made by the town clerk and the baths and parks committee, to provide facilities for surf-bathers at Bondi beach, within a definite area, at each end of the beach. It has also been decided to restrict the perambulations of surf-bathers. New ordinances have been drafted and accepted by the council to provide that bathers must use only certain definite pathways to and from the water, unless an overcoat or other covering is worn over the bathing costume. The new ordinances also prohibit loitering near the dressing sheds or bathers' routes to and from the water by bystanders.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

City Tattersall's Club caters this afternoon for metropolitan racegoers; the spring meeting of the Victorian Amateur Turf Club will be brought to a close on the Caulfield heath; and the Heddon Jockey Club provides an outing for northern sportsmen in this State; while, at Brisbane, the Albion Park Jockey Club holds a race meeting.

The programme framed by the Moorefield Racing Club for its November fixture, on the 1st prox., demands the attention of owners and trainers on Monday next, when at 4 p.m. entries close with the secretary, Mr. J. Lamrock. The prize money aggregates 700 sovs., of which 125 sovs each endows the Flying Handicap, Juvenile Stakes, November Handicap, and Bexley Mile, while the Jumpers' Flat Race and Kogarah Stakes carry 100 sovs each.

The scratchings notified yesterday in connection with City Tattersall's Club Spring meeting were Marton, Beacon, Whakaweira, and Gold Sign out of the Hurdle Race; Lady Denman and Golden Gauntlet out of the Flying Handicap; Pittsworth Lad and Reliable out of the Novice Handicap; Bonnie Princess out of the Club Mile; City Tattersall's Handicap, Matouree, Black Prince, Cagou, Ulva's Isle, and Barlow; Flying Welter, Assignee and Selbrook.

Business in the local betting market on the Caulfield Cup was rather quiet yesterday. Anna Carlovna was at the head of the quotations, a point in front of Aurifer and Sea Prince; Mountain Princess was two points further back, and three in advance of Uncle Sam, who was four points from Midnight Sun and Effervescence, but practically nothing else was marketable.

The starting price of Vavau in the Wyong Park Handicap, on the 8th inst., was 10 to 1 against.

The Board of Management of the Associated Racing Clubs met yesterday, and decided that in future in all events a compulsory sweepstakes of 10s each for starters will be made, such sweepstake to be added to the prize-money. It was also decided that in the even of races being run in divisions, the weights in all divisions other than the first division shall be raised 14lb.

The programme for the Ascot pony and galloway race meeting, to take place on Wednesday, the 5th prox., will include a race of 100 sovs, 4f, for maiden ponies (14.2 a.u.).

CITY TATTERSALL'S CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

ANTICIPATIONS.

The Spring racing carnival at Randwick will be brought to a close this afternoon, and with every prospect of favourable weather, the bill of fare provided for the occasion should attract a very large assemblage to the metropolitan heath. The track and reserves have recovered their spring freshness after the recent rainfall, and the going should be excellent. The customary transit arrangements have been made, trams starting from Circular Quay, via Oxford-street, and from the Railway loop, and the western suburbs, via Cleveland-street, while motor cars, cabs, and 'busses will be available for those who prefer to travel by road. In the catering department due provision has been made for the requirements of visitors. The eastern section of the official stand will be available to the general public at the lower fee. The results of the racing at Caulfield will be posted in both reserves during the afternoon.

The sport commences at 1.45 p.m. with the Hurdle Race, in which Fiddlestring, Red Corn, Hallmark, and Loughrea should have most to say in the settlement of the question, and the situations may go to Hallmark, Red Corn, and Fiddlestring.

Nuwara Eliya, Sir Willie, Sweet Malt, and Athenic read as well as anything in the Flying Handicap, and the numbers may be hoisted for Nuwara Eliya, Sir Willie, and Sweet Malt.

Mandowa, Warradonga, Border King, Elystan, and Irish Figure should fight out the finish for the Club Handicap, and, if started, Irish Figure should win, while in his absence, Border King, Elystan, and Mandowa may get home in order.

A big field is promised for City Tattersall's Handicap, and those that should figure in the fighting line when the final effort is demanded are Alured, Posinatus, Electrakoff, Firm, and Irish Figure, and the situations may be filled by Irish Figure, Electrakoff, and Posinatus.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

THIRD (CUP) DAY.

ANTICIPATIONS.

The spring reunion of the V.A.T.C. will be brought to a close at Caulfield this afternoon, and the bill of fare to be discussed is a very interesting one, the principal event being the Caulfield Cup. The times for starting the different races are as under:—Oby Hurdle, 1 p.m.; Gwyn Nursery, 2 p.m.; Caulfield Cup, 3 p.m.; Wyuna Steeplechase, 3.45 p.m.; Windsor Handicap, 4.25 p.m.; and Moora Welter, 5.5 p.m. The entries foreshadow large fields in the majority of the races.

The Oby Hurdle Race acts as a curtain-raiser, and the most likely to play prominent parts towards the finish are Common King, Hardrada, Paymaster, and Wisconsin, and the numbers may be sent up for Hardrada, Paymaster, and Wisconsin.

An interesting contest is promised for the Gwyn Nursery, in which Crucis, Traquette, Fidelio, Andesine, and Prudent Action should run well, and the honours may be divided by Traquette, Prudent Action, and Crucis.

The Caulfield Cup next claims attention, and though the field is not of such class as some of its immediate predecessors, there is every prospect of a great battle. The Parisian, who heads the list, has not troubled the judge since he secured the Melbourne Cup nearly a couple of years ago, and has only 4lb more in the saddle than he carried successfully over the two miles at Flemington, and if in anything like his best form, the weight should not stop him. Uncle Sam, who won last year under 7st 6lb, has not been overburdened when asked to carry 13lb more, and Midnight Sun should be able to handle 8st 5lb without difficulty. Broadsword is not attractive, but Aurifer, on his A.J.C. Metropolitan running, should be in it up to his bridle tips. Aleconner may find the distance too far, but Mountain Princess should run well under 7st 13lb, and with 2lb less Willow Green should give a good account of himself. Anna Carlovna must be given a good show with the handy impost of 7st 8lb, and the New Zealander is evidently in great heart at present; and her stable mate, Sea Prince, may be trusted to run a great horse, while of the others Belove, Effervescence, and Gladwyn seem the best. A great contest appears assured, and the fighting line in the last furlong should include The Parisian, Uncle Sam, Midnight Sun, Aurifer, Mountain Princess, Anna Carlovna, and Sea Prince, and the situations may be occupied by Aurifer, Anna Carlovna, and Mountain Princess, unless separated by Midnight Sun.

Guncap, Wingarara, and Comus seem to have the settlement of the Wyuna Steeplechase among them, and they may pass the post in that order.

Valido, Noogilla, Quair Burn, and Singlestick may fight out the battle for the Windsor Handicap, and Valido, Singlestick, and Noogilla may pass the judge in that order.

The sport winds up with the Moora Welter, in which Plate, Sequarious, Yeneda, and Moonbria should figure prominently when the whips are being brought into play, and the honours may be divided by Yeneda, Moonbria, and Sequarious.

The programme is attached:—

Oby Hurdle, 2m 1f and 74yds.—Bullawarra, 12st 7lb; Reigle, 12st 1lb; Common King, 11st 13lb; Hardrada, 11st 1lb; Wingarara, 10st 5lb; Hypo, 10st 2lb; Wisconsin, 10st 2lb; Dominician, 10st 1lb; Uki, 10st 1lb; Mafu, 9st 11lb; Ettie Kirk, 9st 11lb; Paymaster, 9st 11lb; Wilderness Maid, 9st 9lb; Barrawa, 9st 5lb; Dukery, 9st; Kaze, 9st; Arcadius, 9st.

Gwyn Nursery, 5f.—Spica, 9st 1lb; Traquette, 8st 13lb; Blague, 8st 13lb; Fidelio, 7st 12lb; Crucis, 7st 12lb; Wormwood, 7st 9lb; Orinoco, 7st 9lb; Gay Dolce, 7st 9lb; Bay Malt, 7st 9lb; Lituasa, 7st 9lb; Boongarry, 7st 9lb; Rudas, 7st 7lb; Talia, 7st 7lb; Andesine, 7st 5lb; Prudent Action, 7st 5lb; Sarzana, 7st 3lb; Rosyth, 6st 13lb; Annet Bhan, 6st 13lb; Sanctity, 6st 11lb; Kinrser, 6st 7lb.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At Flemington this morning Uncle Sam (J. Ettershank) and Doongarra were associated in a spurt over half a mile on the tan in a little better than 53s. They did not have much pace on at first, but did the last three furlongs in 38s, and last two in 25½s. Uncle Sam was going with a lot of dash at the finish. The new arrivals from Sydney, Beragoon, Golden Hop, Noogilla, Matouree, and the two-year-old Mount Mostyn, Velours, and Marissa were out for easy pacing. Beragoon came in for a good deal of admiration as he passed along. Bullawarra, in schooling over half a dozen hurdles, went with plenty of dash and gave a very fine exhibition of jumping. Golden Goblet and Posio ran half a mile in 52s. The two-year-old, Traquette, got rid of her rider (G. Lambert), but no damage was done.

At Caulfield, Offa spurted a couple of furlongs in 27s, and Greek Fire went leisurely over half a mile in 57s. Avonwort strode over six furlongs. Aleconner, Sheriff Muir, and Belove merely trotted and cantered; while Mountain Princess pottered about. The Parisian did not put in appearance, and was, it is understood, indulged in swimming exercise. Sea Prince went five furlongs in 1m 1s, Dewberry being with him over the last three furlongs. Anna Carlovna strode over a mile in 1m 54s.

In the Caulfield Cup, G. Leonard will ride Effervescence; W. McCloud, Greek Fire; C. Andrews, Golden Goblet; and W. Kenny, Avonwort.

No fewer than nine of the horses entered for the Gwyn Nursery at Caulfield to-morrow, viz.—Spica, Hathor, Eugenist, Achernar, Maharajah, Crucis, Bay Malt, Rosyth, and Boongarry, are trained by J. Scobie; but only two, Maharajah and Crucis, are likely to start.

The following forecast was issued at 9 o'clock to-night:—Generally fine, except for scattered clouds and light showers on and south of ranges.

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP.

RESULT OF 1st ROUND 36 HOLES MATCH PLAY.

L. R. Oswald Sealy beat D. G. Ferrier, 1 up at 38th.

P. F. S. Spence beat H. G. Vadler, 6 and 5.

J. B. Ferrier beat F. W. A. Eager.

G. S. Freeman beat O. H. Wines, 3 and 2.

SEMI-FINAL.

L. R. Oswald Sealy plays P. F. S. Spence.

J. B. Ferrier plays G. S. Freeman.

The match between L. R. Oswald Sealy and D. G. Ferrier was very keenly contested. They were all square at the first 18, but Sealy was three up at the turn in the second 18. However, Ferrier succeeded in making the match all square on the 36th by an excellent four, which he required to save defeat. The 37th was halved in four, each having putts for 3's. The 38th was done by Sealy in 4, Ferrier's ball going in and out for the like number.

LADY MEMBERS.

APPROACHING AND PUTTING COMPETITION.

For Trophy Presented by Mrs. Duret.

The 13th green was chosen with an 80 yards approach from the northern side. There were 28 competitors. Each played two balls, and the aggregate counted for each score. The result was a tie between Mrs. Hale and Miss Leslie with six strokes each. Mrs. Trigge made two perfect approaches, but her last putt just failed to get in. Mrs. Kloster also made two beautiful approaches, but was weak in her putting. In the play-off Miss Leslie won, again taking only six strokes—a very fine performance considering the strong wind that was blowing.

On Thursday next there will be an 18 holes stroke competition on sealed handicaps. All intending competitors are requested to enter their names early. The trophy for this event has been presented by Mrs. Nevill.

CYCLING.

AUSTRALIAN RIDERS.

ON THE ROAD AND TRACK.

Ernest Schneider, the Sydney amateur, has been unable to strike good form on the Continent, and has thrown in his lot with a troupe of stage cyclists who are bound for Egypt.

"Jackie" Clark, of Shepparton (Vic.), won two of the six events held at the Newark, N.J., U.S.A., Velodrome, on August 27, including the feature of the meeting, the three miles open professional event, in which he competed against M'Namara (Tomingly, N.S.W.), Grenda (Tasmania), Hehir (Victoria), and Cavanagh. His other victory was in a match race with R. Spears (Dubbo), and he won in straight heats.

Alfred Grenda easily won the 15 miles tandem paced three-cornered match race at the Newark, N.J., Velodrome, on August 30. Grenda beat M'Namara by a lap, and Clark by two laps.

E. A. Pye (Victoria) was defeated by Menus Bedell in a 15 miles motor paced race held at Point Breeze, Philadelphia, on September 1. The time was 19m 24s.

Clark won the one-mile "Grand Criterion" event at the Newark, N.J., Velodrome on September 1, and secured 11 points. Alfred Grenda (10 points) was placed second; Lawson and Kramer tied for third place with nine points each. The time of the fastest heat was 2m 29s. At the same meeting R. M'Namara won the three miles professional handicap from the scratch mark; Alfred Gullet (scr.) was placed second. The time was 6m 0 2-5s.

In commenting on the first appearance of Spears, of Dubbo, N.S.W., at the Revere Beach track on September 6, the "Bicycling World and Motor Cycle Review" says: "Bob Spears, the awkward, but speedy, Australian sprinter, emphasised his advent by defeating Frank Cavanagh in a match race in straight heats. It was no easy win, as the Irishman was beaten only in the stretch when Spears uncorked a sprint that he has recently developed."

NOTES.

In endeavouring to start the engine of his motor car Frank Kramer, the American sprinter, had the misfortune to break his arm. This accident, it is surmised, will rob Kramer of the American championship, which he has won for 11 years in succession.

W. J. Bailey, the world's amateur champion sprinter, has left England for America, where it is expected he will engage in a number of match races with Donald M'Dougall.

George Wiley, who won the world's 100-kilom. professional championship at Newark last year, met with a bad smash at Philadelphia while competing in a 25 miles paced match against Collins, Moran, and Laurence. His condition, when the mail left, was critical.

F. H. Grubb has beaten his recent "out-and-home 100 miles" record of 2h 21m 37s by over a minute, covering the distance in 2h 20m 27s. The ride was officially timed.

The last event in the Australian Championship Fly Casting Tournament will be contested to-day, viz., wet-fly casting for distance. H. L. Maitland has presented a challenge cup for competitor making the longest cast in this event. The cup is to be held for 12 months.

The N.S.W. Anglers' Casting Club's annual dinner will be held at the Wentworth Hotel, on October 21 at 7.30 p.m. A number of distinguished guests have signified their acceptance of invitations, and the function promises to be a pronounced success.

On Saturday, October 25, a Consolation Tournament, open only to competitors in the championship who did not secure first, second, or third place in any event. The items will be wet-fly distance casting, dry-fly accuracy and delicacy, and wet-fly accuracy and style.

The trout and bass fishing season will open on November 1, and already accommodation has been secured by a number of Sydney anglers on the favourite early streams, including the Badja, Tumut, Macdonald, and Goulburn. A report received on Thursday from the latter place shows the trout to be plentiful and rising freely to the fly. In the Duckmaloi the fish are also getting into their summer quarters.

PIGEON-HOMING.

The race from Girilambone, an air line of 216 miles, resulted:—J. King, 1097 yards 1in per minute, 1; J. R. Innes, 1094 yards 2ft, 2; H. Wolfe, 1002 yards 1ft 1in, 3. About 100 birds, representing 12 lofts, competed.

THE GUN.

PENRITH, Friday.

Five more sweepstakes were shot off in connection with the Nepean District Gun Club. Three were won by D. Fitch, and one by Messrs. C. Knight and S. B. Brown. A match between D. Fitch and Colin Smith was won by the former.

BOXING.

SULLIVAN v JEROME.

Jim Sullivan, not long ago middleweight champion of England, will have his third contest in Australia at the Stadium to-night, when he will meet Jerry Jerome. Sullivan showed rare form in his match against Reg. Midwood, and his disastrous bout with Bradley cannot be taken as a criterion of his real form, for his record is that of a first-rater. He is one of the fastest men in Australia, and can hit hard with either hand, and should he beat Jerome he may be matched with Dave Smith. Jerome has proved his toughness against Smith, Harry Mansfield, and others, and should provide the Englishman with an excellent match. Sullivan has posted £100 forfeit in connection with the bout. The contest will commence at 8.30 o'clock, and will be preceded by a preliminary of 10 rounds between Tommy Lewis and Jack Burns.

NEW ZEALAND WELTER CHAMPIONSHIP.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

In a match for the welter championship of New Zealand Denny Murphy knocked out Chapman in the seventh round.

STATE PARLIAMENTS.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

When introducing the Factories Act Amendment Bill into the Legislative Assembly, the Minister for Labour (Sir Alexander Peacock) announced that it was proposed to abolish the Court of Industrial Appeal as at present constituted, and to substitute in its place a Court consisting of three experienced chairmen of wages boards. There were some on both sides, it seemed to him, who took up a peculiar position respecting industrial legislation. The Conservatives admired the Court of Industrial Appeals; but at the same time they objected to a Judge dealing with industrial matters in the Federal Arbitration Court, and the Opposition had opposed the Court of Industrial Appeals on the ground that a Judge did not possess sufficient knowledge of the intricacies with which he was required to deal. They objected to a Judge sitting in the State Industrial Court; but they were the greatest admirers of it in Federal matters. He regarded its elasticity as the strength of the wages board system. The debate on the bill stands adjourned.

The Legislative Assembly has passed the second reading of a bill, introduced by Mr. Mackey, to establish a Court of Criminal Appeal. The bill is practically a replica of the English Act, which has been adopted in New South Wales.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PATENT MEDICINES.

PERTH, Friday.

In June the Legislative Council voted the disallowance of regulation 62 and clauses of regulation 16 under the Health Act. These insisted on the formulas of patent medicines and foods being lodged with the department. The Executive Council subsequently passed a minute rescinding the regulations objected to. In the Assembly last night Mr. Heitmann (Labour) carried a motion that the Governor be requested to cancel this rescinding minute, thereby restoring the abrogated regulations.

CUSTOMS OFFICER RESIGNS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It was announced to-day that John Spargo, an examining officer of Customs, who was recently acquitted of a charge of conspiracy in connection with the admission of Chinese into the Commonwealth has tendered his resignation. It is not known what action the department will take in respect of the resignation. Though acquitted at the Criminal Court, Spargo had been called upon to present himself before the departmental board to answer charges in connection with the admission of Chinese. If the resignation is accepted, the departmental inquiry will not be held.

STATE DEBTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Speaking with regard to the States' debts question the Federal Treasurer (Sir John Forrest) said the Ministry now was only carrying out what the people had agreed to with unanimity on two separate occasions. The Ministry was not influenced in the least by the state of the money market, the opinion being that it would be advantageous to consolidate the debts. That being so the condition of the money market could not have any influence, as in any case the debts would have to be met as they matured.

ALLEGED LIBEL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The High Court gave judgment on Tuesday on an appeal by the defendant, John Norton, in the case Hoare v Norton, from an order of Mr. Justice Hodges, of the Victorian Supreme Court, refusing leave to make certain amendments in appellant's defence to an action for libel. The publication sued on was an article in appellant's newspaper.

The appeal was allowed with a slight amendment, appellant to pay the costs of the amendment, the costs of the appeal to be costs in the cause.

SYDENHAM-BOTANY RAILWAY.

The Minister for Works, Mr. Griffith, will perform the ceremony of turning the first sod of the proposed Sydenham-Botany railway at 3 p.m. on Tuesday next.

RECORD PASSAGE.

AUCKLAND, Friday.

The barque Marjorie Craig has arrived at Kaipara from Newcastle, after a record passage of six days six hours.

FREEDOM LEAGUE.

EXTRAORDINARY REPORTS.

A meeting of the Australian Freedom League was held on Thursday night. A report was received concerning two boys who, it was alleged, for conscientious objection to drilling were imprisoned in Largs Detention Fort, fed on bread and water, and compelled to lie on the bare floor, one blanket only being allowed. Another lad had had his elbow put out by the "military grip," whilst in a third case a boy named Douglas Allen was before the court and remanded till January because his master pleaded he would fail in his examination if he had to do night drills.

THE COST OF LIVING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A correspondent writes, in to-day's issue, on the question of higher wages, and says that no person can fix what is a living wage. Well, all I can say is, for heaven's sake let someone endeavour to do so, for if wages keep rising—as they have for long past—how on earth will the trouble end? There are numbers of people practically living from hand to mouth. I refer to those having small fixed incomes—incomes which were the same nine and ten years ago, before wages were what they are now, and consequently living vastly cheaper. But to go a little further back, say three years, and what a difference! No big duties to pay on everything; cheap meat, cheap bread, decent rents. Will someone publish a genuine grocery list, say of twelve years ago, before the advent of protection, which was going to start all sorts of industries here, whereby, owing to competition, everything was going to become dirt cheap. O, what a tale! Then we can compare past with present prices. Poultry food, too, has increased enormously in price. All local products, in fact, especially bacon and cheese. I have bought good bread at 2d and 2½d per loaf, cash down—now 3½d. If labour is so dear, then the cost of production must necessarily be high. Even in 1904 my household of five lived comfortably upon what it now takes to keep two. I ask—as did a New Zealand Judge some time back—with regard to this insatiable demand for higher wages, "Is there is no limit? and, if not, how will it all end?" So long as wages continue to increase, so will the cost of living increase, rents included. There is no getting away from that fact, surely? Let wages be reduced, remove the tariff from the necessaries of life, see that we get cheaper meat and bread; butter, too, could very well stay at 1s a pound all the year round. This latter is the opinion of an experienced man, who tells me it would pay very well at that price. In conclusion, I say heaven help the folks living on small—very small—fixed incomes, and no old-age pensions to fall back on, either.

Oct. 6. I am, etc., HOUSEKEEPER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—May I crave space in your valuable paper to contradict remarks by certain persons when giving evidence before the inquiry into the cost of living regarding the exaggerated high rents for three-roomed cottages at North Sydney. As a resident of the northern suburbs for the past 14 years, my remarks are based upon actual experience. In the first place the rent for three-roomed cottages is 17s 6d per week, and the number let at this rent is very limited. I have been paying the above rent for some considerable time, and quite a number of my acquaintances are paying the same amount. Therefore, the remarks of the witnesses at the inquiry are quite misleading to the public. Evidently Mr. Rolin does not pay rent, or perhaps he is the owner of four-roomed cottages at North Shore, for which he only receives 15s per week; if so, I would like to be one of his tenants.

Oct. 10. I am, etc., RUBY INGRAM.

N.R.A. CARNIVAL.

NEARING THE END.

THE KING'S PRIZE.

The final stage of the King's Prize was contested at the Randwick range yesterday in fine weather; but the wind, veering all round the compass, caused many a debacle. A number of marksmen absolutely failed to hit the target at the long distances.

As a result of a shot by McAlister being disallowed, and his appealing against this decision, the first prizewinner is still in doubt. As the executive has decided against McAlister, the official winner must be Stan. Edward, of Melbourne. The executive will consider the appeal later on.

Competitors in the National Rifle Association's tournaments met at the Burlington Cafe last evening.

Colonel Wallack, the State Commandant, referred to the stronger hold that rifle shooting had now secured on the community. He enjoined men expert in the use of the rifle to pass on their knowledge to others. The King's match had resulted in a win for Victoria, but it was gratifying to know that the top marksman was originally a New South Welshman. He congratulated Sargeant Edwards on his achievement.

LONDON BETTER IN SHARES AND METALS.

LOCAL MARKET FIRM IN QUOTATIONS.

BUSINESS, HOWEVER, RESTRICTED.

A healthier note was sounded by the London Stock Exchange on Thursday, both in the case of share and metal quotations.

In regard to the former, copper recovered 17/6 to £72/12/6, and lead 5/ to £20/7/6, whilst the middle quotations showed the following improvements:—Broken Hill Norths, 3d; B.H. Block 10, 6d; B.H. Proprietary, 6d; British Broken Hill, 3d; Great Cobars, 9d; Hampdens, 1/; and Waihi, 2/. The stocks that were unaltered were Mount Lyells, Zinc Corporation (pref.), Mount Elliotts, and Mount Morgans. In no case were prices below those of the previous day, which goes to show that the market had bottomed—for the time being at all events.

As far as regards quotations, the local market responded to the improved tone of London, but not as concerns the amount of business transacted, for speculation was still on limited lines. It was neither a good buying nor a good selling day. Outside commissions were very scarce, whilst operators did not seem to be disposed to indulge in professional business. The non-speculative character of the market was shown by the fact that business was confined to—copper stocks, 2; silver stocks, 2; gold stocks, 2; and tin stocks, 3—a record as bad as any of those earlier in the week.

In the copper division Hampdens again sold on the up grade, on the strength of improved London quotations, but the six weeks terms sale of Mount Elliotts at 93/9 and 93/6 contrasted with the last sale recorded some days ago at 96/10½ for London delivery. In the case of other copper stocks, the buying offers were mostly steady, with sellers holding firmly.

Only one Barrier proposition was dealt in—British Broken Hill (old)—which made a noticeable recovery from the slack sales recorded earlier in the week. The tone of the buying offers for other Barriers was distinctly better in most cases, with sellers standing aloof. A sale of Radium Hill was reported at £10, the previous day's rate.

Gold stocks participated in the general slackness, business being confined to Mount Davids and Black Range West (con.).

In the tin division both the paid and contributing shares of the Carpathia Company commanded solid support, the same being the case with Wild Cherry (con.), whilst steady offers were made for Southern Cross (con.), Vegetable Creek, and Vulcan Tin, but Tongkah Harbour were untaken at an easier price.

"Where the scrip is coming from, I don't know," observed a member of the Stock Exchange yesterday afternoon, "but it is coming, nevertheless. Owing to buyers of Carpathias pressing for the paper, 1100 shares were delivered to-day." The fact that buyers had to pay from 19/ to 19/3, and then at the seller's risk, showed that scrip is getting short, and the opinion is held in certain quarters that the shortage will become acute, as a good many shares bought in the last few days are being laid aside for dividend purposes.

There are signs of renewed attempts being made to traduce the mine, for the statement is being freely circulated that another two dividends will see the end of the mine. The pity is that some holders of the scrip are likely to be deluded by these statements, and by relieving the market of the pressure for scrip, thus play into the hands of the individuals who circulate them. A moment's consideration should convince them that the ore developments to date absolutely disprove such statements.

After being almost eclipsed in the earlier portion of the day, Barriers came out into the sunlight, and furnished a fair amount of business at improved rates, thus showing a response to the better tone prevailing in London on Thursday.

The copper division was quiet, but the tone of the market was healthy. The gold division was very much in the background.

Holders of shares in the Lake Hochstetter Gold Fields, Limited (New Zealand), and there are a good many in Sydney, will be gratified to learn that further good returns have been obtained from prospecting the big area of alluvial sluicing ground held by the company, and the gold obtained by the sampling can be seen at the Sydney office of the company.

MINING NOTES.

The No. 2 plant of the Associated Gold-dredging Company, in a run of 12 hours, won 54oz.

Gold-dredging Yields:—Araluen Central (126 hours), 29oz; Araluen Redbank (130 hours), 26oz 14dwt.

The latest report from the manager of the Central Tin-mining Company, Renison Bell (Tasmania), states that crushing was commenced on Thursday, October 16. The rise in the lower adit on E lode has been advanced 17ft to 66ft, and met with 2ft of gossan, carrying a little tin. The manager states that there must be a good depth of gossan overlying the pyritic ore; otherwise gossan would not have been cut at this point, as the rise is well out in the hanging wall country. He says the mine looks very promising for a good body of oxidised ore. The A tunnel has been advanced to 88ft, and the face is in fair ore. The mill hopper at the bridge is full of ore ready for crushing.

ASSAYER and ANALYST. Reasonable Fees. Scale on application. C. BRISTOWE, A.I.M.M., 93 Pitt-st.—Advt.

The wash blocked out last week in the 1290ft crosscut from the Rock shaft averaged 24in, worth 100lb, and at Allen's shaft the wash in the crosscut 365ft from the shaft was 18in of poor quality, worth 40lb. At the crossdrive east from 410ft the crosscut was advanced 4ft, and reefed. Blocking from this drive to the reef was completed, and the wash averaged 12in, worth 100lb. At the east end the wash in the west crosscut averaged 48in, worth 40lb, for 4ft; and 48in, worth 70lb, for 28ft, with 42in, worth 70lb, in the face. At Chandler shaft the south crosscut at 1890ft from the shaft was advanced 24ft 6in, to 69ft 6in, with 3in wash for the last 6ft, worth 180lb, and 5in in the face. The output for the week was 50cwt tin oxide; 8 to 9 tons were despatched.

Reporting on October 11, the manager of the Cope's Creek Dredging Company states:—"Everything running along smoothly; stripping overburden; blowing in paddock next week. Weather warm and dry."

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—"The general manager of the Hampden-Cloncurry copper mines wired to-day as follows:—'Hampden No. 2 shaft, 350ft level, south drive 815ft north. The last 10ft entered large pyritic ore body. The width sampled over is 60in. The value is 9½ per cent. Full width not yet determined.'"

Owing to the very successful results obtained from the working of their dredgers No. 4 and No. 5, constructed by Messrs. Wm. Simons and Co., Ltd., Renfrey, the Tongkah Harbour and Tin Dredging Company have just placed an order with the same builders for another dredger of somewhat similar type, but more powerful. The dredger now under construction by Messrs. Simons is the fourth vessel which they have been commissioned to build for the Tongkah Company. The operations of the Tongkah Company in the past have been eminently successful, dividends at the rate of 40 per cent. per annum having been paid to shareholders for the past two and a half years, and it is confidently anticipated that by the operations of the new dredger, in conjunction with the existing plant, the resources of the company will be materially increased.

The manager of the Stanthorpe Tin, Limited, advises that clean-up No. 13 was completed on Saturday, October 11, and that 27cwt of tin oxide was secured as a result of 150 hours sluicing.

Work last week at the Mount Ross Diamond and Tin mine was largely confined to blocking out in the north and south sides of the east drive, and the extension of the east drive 10ft. The wash is thin, but the drive is still dipping east with a nice bottom. The manager expects the gutter to be a very wide one. The washing machine is erected, but the dam will take three more days to complete. The crater shaft is down 20ft. The sinking, though a little hard, is in fair ground.

TASMANIAN AMALGAMATED TIN CORPORATION.

Mr. A. Nixon, secretary of the Tasmanian Amalgamated Tin Corporation, No Liability, announces that the company has been registered. It was formed for the purpose of acquiring a 12 months' option over 217 acres of tin country situated at Renison Bell, Tasmania, and adjoining the well-known Renison Bell tin mine.

It is the intention of the directors to ship to Sydney about 20 tons of ore, and this should be here during next month, when similar parcels will be forwarded monthly.

LAKE HOCHSTETTER GOLDFIELDS, LTD.

The engineer reports under date October 4 as follows:—Total distance driven to date No. 1 tunnel, 290ft; No. 2 tunnel, 80ft; No. 3 tunnel, 88ft; No. 4 tunnel, 151ft; No. 4A tunnel, 205ft; No. 4B tunnel, 107ft; making a total footage of 921. Progress has been somewhat slow in No. 1 tunnel owing to wet ground and the necessity to timber. A change for the better, however, is now apparent. The contractor has arranged for the necessary machinery to be delivered at the Lake End, when progress will be considerably improved.

The manager reports, under date October 6, that further good returns have been obtained from prospecting Fletcher's face and Riverview frontage, and these prospects can be seen at the office of the secretary, 113 Pitt-street, Sydney. The manager is so well satisfied with the prospecting done, and the results, that he thinks no more money need be expended in this direction, and is consequently putting the men on to development and preliminary work in connection with the equipment of the claims.

BULLFINCH PROPRIETARY (W.A.).

KAMPONG KAMUNTING TIN-DREDGING, LIMITED.

The secretary of Kampong Kamunting Tin-dredging, Ltd., reports that the contract for the erection of two bucket dredges for this company, after careful consideration being given to the tenders received, has been placed with the firm of Chas. Ruwolt Pty., Ltd., Melbourne.

The specifications and design are the work of Mr. J. S. Henry, and the dredges contracted for will easily be the largest ever built in Australia. The material and workmanship will be, as far as possible, Australian. The latest improvements found necessary as a result of tin-dredging experience in Malaya, including the most recent type of revolving screen, have been designed, and will be fitted in these dredges. Very large tin-saving tables are another special feature. The pontoon being specially large, viz., 130ft x 44ft x 8ft 6in deep, to carry them.

The dredges will be fitted with close connected 6ft buckets, which will have a theoretical capacity of 35,000 yards per week for each dredge, and an effective capacity of 20,000 to 25,000 yards of tin-bearing material per week.

The plant specified is a powerful one, and is designed to dredge 45ft below water level. The main engine is 120 brake h.p., and the pump installed for sluicing has a delivery of 6000 gallons of water per minute.

The total weight of the dredges with machinery will be over 600 tons, considerably over 100 tons heavier than the largest dredge yet sent from Australia to the East. The contract time for delivery f.o.b. for the first dredge is eight months, and for the second eleven months from date of contract. The cost of the dredge erected in good going order on the mine, together with the necessary spares, tools, tin-dressing sheds, and buildings will exceed the sum of £40,000.

SOUTHERN CROSS TIN MINE.

The mine manager of the Southern Cross Tin-mining Company reports under date Oct. 11 as follows:—

No. 2 shaft: Sunk 6ft to 30ft. Two good walls continue down; lode formation 4ft.

No. 3 shaft: Sunk 8ft to 67ft. The two walls continue down: now passing through clay floors dipping from north to south. Battery nearing completion.

DRUMLISH HILL TIN MINE.

The mine manager of the Drumlish Hill Tin-mining Company reports under date Oct. 11 as follows:—

No. 2 shaft: Previous measurement, 56ft; deepened 5ft to 61ft; lode 3ft wide. Raised 6 tons milling ore and 8 tons of second grade ore.

No. 3 shaft: Previous measurement, 64ft; deepened 2ft; no change to report.

No. 4 shaft: Previous measurement, 31ft; deepened 5ft to 36ft; 3ft lode. Raised 15 tons of second-grade ore. Have now 14 men engaged.

DEAF MUTES.

NEW MOVEMENT IN SYDNEY.

For many years there has been an institution for the care and education of deaf mute children in Sydney, but the care of the adult deaf mute population has been almost entirely neglected.

Mr. Ernest J. D. Abraham is at present in Sydney, at the invitation of the deaf mutes, with a view to inaugurating a movement in their interests, similar to that which has proved so successful at Melbourne.

When Mr. Abraham arrived in Victoria several years ago from England he found that the care of deaf mutes, both children and adults, was greatly neglected. He set to work, and to-day there are in Victoria several fine institutions for adult deaf mutes, including a central building at Melbourne, a training farm for the mentally defective, a home for the aged and infirm, and a church. Mr. Abraham expects that each of these institutions will be self-supporting in another two years. A meeting has been convened in the Sydney Town Hall for Monday afternoon next, at which the Lord Mayor will preside, and Mr. Abraham will explain his scheme for Sydney in detail.

"At the age of seven," said Mr. Abraham yesterday, "a deaf mute goes to school. In nearly every case the child has up to that point no knowledge of anything. His mind is a complete blank. At the age of 16 the deaf mute child generally leaves school, but he is then, in reality, about 10 or 11 years of age, judged by the standards of the normal child. Here, then, is the great need for an adult institution. Without it, the education of the deaf mute has come to a full stop, and unless special provision is made, they remain children, and inevitably become derelict. Sydney is the single exception of all the cities of the Empire where there is a large population of deaf mutes that does not make the provision that is universally recognised as necessary for the spiritual, intellectual, and social needs of this afflicted section of the community."

FEDERAL CAPITAL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Hon. Minister in charge of the Department of Home Affairs (Mr. Kelly) has not yet completed his inspection of the re-drawn plan of the Federal capital, prepared by Mr. W. B. Griffin prior to his departure for America, and it has been temporarily sent on to Sydney so that copies of it may be lithographed. Mr. Kelly is now looking into the report presented to him by the Chicago architect, and will make a statement to Parliament at the end of next week.

It has been arranged for Mr. Griffin, the Chicago architect, to defer his departure for America for one month, in order to enable him to locate the temporary occupation sites for labourers on the city area at the Federal capital, and to check the specifications for calling for tenders for the first buildings. After that Mr. Griffin will go to America to settle his business there, and will afterwards return to Australia to take up his responsible advisory position to the Federal Government. It is anticipated that Mr. Griffin's agreement with the Commonwealth will be signed in Sydney to-morrow, and will date from the same day. As soon as the agreement is signed its contents will be made public.

It is understood the Government are offering Mr. Griffin a thousand guineas a year for three years, and that his duties in connection with the Federal capital site will occupy about half of his time. It is probable his stay in Australia will be beneficial to other civic bodies, because of his genius as a town-planner.

CANBERRA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your sub-leader under this head, of this day's date, sounds a note of alarm at the unsatisfactory progress in the process of building the Federal city. In this you are, in my opinion, quite right, but I fear you have failed to divine the cause of this dilatoriness, for you unfairly proceed to blame the present Federal Government. As I happen to know a good deal of the process of things in connection with this matter, I would like to point out that your censure of the Cook Administration is quite undeserved; quite the contrary, they should be commended for the spirit of caution they have displayed in not proceeding to act upon a design which is considered faulty.

You appear to think that the first prize design should be adopted. I am not aware that in saying this you are acting upon the advice of expert opinion, but I do know that the American design has been declared impracticable by experts, and by the Government's professional advisors, hence the course adopted by Mr. Cook of "hasten slowly."

If Mr. Griffin—who has now visited the site—can satisfy the Federal officers that he can place his design on the site in a practical manner, I venture to say that they would have been in agreement a week after Mr. Griffin's arrival, but from press reports we learn that Mr. Griffin is preparing another design, which will conform with the contours of the site. So much the better. Hence Mr. Cook is justified in delaying the matter. But I would point out that further delay, following on this new design, is inevitable, for who is to judge of its efficiency? Will the Government take it on trust on Mr. Griffin's great reputation? I think not, and wisely so, too.

I venture to predict that we have not heard the last of this "Federal city muddle" as the result of the chaos left as a legacy by Mr. King O'Malley to the present Government.

I am, etc.,
STRAIGHT TIP.

Oct. 10.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As one who has taken an energetic part in the reopening of the Federal capital question, I heartily endorse your advocacy of pushing ahead with the development of Canberra. Surely, with a general direction of affairs, the days of O'Malleyism have passed, and we may expect instant action upon an efficient basis. This end can only be achieved by the appointment of expert directors, and I distinctly say that they do not exist in the Federal service. This is no random statement. Practical results have proved it. We have now with us the man fitted for the task of director of the architectural development of Canberra—Walter Burley Griffin—and the Government should retain his services. The American architect's design, with the alterations he has made since visiting the site, should, of course, be adopted in preference to the departmental built-up design, and it remains for the Government to place the work of developing the Federal city design in the hands of the man whose brain most capably conceived it.

The presence of Walter Burle, Griffin in Australia would, I maintain, also have a beneficial influence on Australian architecture. He has proved by his address that he is possessed of the democratic Australian sentiment, and his work in America has proved that he is capable of expressing his ideas and emotions. In writing this I make bold to say I have the support of the great majority, if not all, of the professional men of the Commonwealth, who so readily signed the petition I drew up to have the Federal capital question reopened.

I am, etc.,
GEORGE A. TAYLOR,
Editor, "Building" Magazine.

Oct. 11.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The policy of continuity with regard to the building of the Capital City, advocated in the "Herald" of the 10th inst., must be approved of by all who take an interest in Canberra. That this matter should be outside the bickerings and recriminations of political parties seems a self-evident proposition. Your suggestion that a commission should be appointed to carry out the great work independently of the comings and goings of political parties seems the only way out of the difficulty. As the building of the city to completion may be a matter extending over half a century, sickness and death would render it imperative that fresh appointments be made from time to time. The fresh appointees would have to be tied down to the carrying on of the scheme laid down by their predecessors. To allow play for the idiosyncracies of new members would be fatal. The carrying on of the work on a settled plan, independently of Parliament, would make it better for all concerned.

The life of the workmen here at present is not all that it might be. Roughing it at the commencement of the building of a city in the bush was to be expected. Even the chief surveyor and the administrator took their share in it. It was not to be expected that we could ring down the curtain one day on a wilderness, and ring it up next day on a city, with all the latest conveniences, after the fashion of the transformation scene in a pantomime. But there are married workmen here with their wives and children. Some of them have been here over two years. They live in houses of canvas, with iron roofs, which are no protection from the cold of winter or the heat of summer. They are crowded together. There have been promises of permanent dwellings. But they seem as far off fulfilment as ever. If a policy of continuity, as suggested by you, were adopted—quite independent of politics—the first essential should be the building of decent dwellings for the workmen required for this great work. The rent fixed would be such as to make them a financially sound investment.

I am, etc.,
ALEX. ROGERS.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA.

"LOUISE."

At seven o'clock this evening, at Her Majesty's Theatre, the first and only performance of "Louise" will be given by the Quinlan Opera Company. This work, which is new to Sydney, is by Gustave Charpentier, who describes it as a "musical romance in four acts." Produced in Paris about a decade ago, it has been performed there more than 300 times, and when staged for the first time in England by Mr. Quinlan, its melodic charm was everywhere warmly recognised. Miss Jeanne Brola will appear as Louise, a milliner's apprentice, and Mr. Maurice D'Oisly as her lover, Julian. Mr. W. J. Samuell will be seen as the father of Louise, and Miss Edna Thornton as the mother, and there will be characters for Mr. Spencer Thomas, Miss Mabel Dennis, Miss Gladys Ancrum, and other artists. Signor Tullio Voghera will conduct.

Last night the repetition of Offenbach's vivacious operetta "Tales of Hoffmann" drew a great audience. On Monday, Mr. Quinlan will stage the second work of the Ring series, namely, "The Valkyrie," when the new German tenor, Herr Franz Costa, will make his debut here as Siegfried.

THEATRE ROYAL.

This evening the New Comic Opera Company will enter upon the closing nights of its delightful season with a farewell production of that favourite comedy opera, "Dorothy." The cast will consist of Misses Amy Murphy, Sybil Arundale (her farewell appearances), Dorothy Brunton, Celia Ghiloni, and Messrs. Reg. Roberts, Talleur Andrews, Victor Prince, and W. S. Percy (his farewell appearances). The piece will only be played for four nights and a matinee. On Saturday the great illusionist, Janeen, will open a season.

CRITERION THEATRE.

The sensational American drama, "Within the Law," is still drawing good houses nightly to the Criterion Theatre, where the J. C. Williamson Dramatic Company, headed by Miss Muriel Starr, and including Mary Worth, Lincoln Plummer, E. W. Morrison, and Eric Maxon, succeeds very ably in holding the audience throughout. The play has been produced by E. W. Morrison.

THE PALACE THEATRE.

To-night, at the Palace Theatre, Mr. Doone will open his season with the new costume drama, "Barry of Ballymore." The comedy is said to be clean, novel, and humorous, and ripples unbroken through each act. There is a wealth of character throughout the play, and some very strong and interesting types of Irish domestic life are created. Mr. Doone will introduce several new songs. The plan is at Paling's.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

This evening, at the Adelphi Theatre, the new George Willoughby Dramatic Company will present for the first time in Australia Charles Darrell's latest play, "White as a Lily." This drama is said to deal with a theme seldom touched on in melodrama, and the author is credited with having handled some of the scenes in a very adroit manner. Two children (to be played by Vera Huggett and Vera Spaull) take a prominent part in the story. The cast includes Messrs. George Cross, T. W. Lloyd, Charles Taylor, Frank Crossley, J. J. Ennis, Frank Reis, and Misses Vera Remee, Muriel Dale, Edith Lewis, Fanny Erris.

LITTLE THEATRE—THE DOMINOES.

The clever musical and comedy organisation known as "The Dominoes" will make its first move to win public approval to-night at the Little Theatre, when a programme teeming with vivacious novelties will be submitted. The new company is under the direction of Carter and Reynolds, and if the imprint of excellence is appreciated by playgoers the season should prove highly successful from all standpoints.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

At to-day's matinee at the National Amphitheatre the Tsuka Troupe, Japanese illusionists and wonder-workers, will make their first appearance. The Francis M. Hubanik Company, in their tabloid grand opera turn, are also on the bill. Other attractions include:—Dixie Southern, a clever character comedienne; the Kimball Bros., Mahony Bros., and Daisy, Weaver Schulz Trio, and the Lessos and others.

THE SYDNEY MERRYMAKERS.

At the Repertory Theatre to-night the Sydney Merrymakers will present Darnley's amusing three-act farcical comedy, "Facing the Music." This will be preceded at 8 o'clock by Haddon Chambers' domestic play, "The Open Gate." The casts have been specially selected, and include a number of well-known amateurs, while the production is under the direction of Stuart Mack. The plan is at Paling's.

MISS MINNA ROBERTS'S PUPILS.

The pupils of Miss Minna Roberts will give a concert at the Concordia Hall on Tuesday, October 28, at which a number of artists, including Miss Helena Collier, Miss Muriel Cox, and Mr. Percy Herford will assist.

MR. WERNER'S PUPILS.

At the invitation recital to be given by the pupils of Mr. F. Werner, at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, on Thursday, October 23, a number of new compositions will be introduced. Miss Connie Stuart will play for the first time in Sydney the opening movement of Rachmaninow's Second Concerto. Other new items will be Rimsky-Korsakow's "Novelette," Alex. Hynsky's "Berceuse," and a "Fantastic Tale," by Pachulski, all of which are to be played by Miss Ella Layman. Miss Coral Middleton will give a new Gigue by Hassler (with second piano).

MR. LAWRENCE CAMPBELL'S STUDENTS.

The students of the Lawrence Campbell School of Public Speaking and Dramatic Art will give a humorous and dramatic recital in St. James's Hall on Monday, October 20. During the evening, Mr. Lawrence Campbell, himself, will be heard in several of his newly-published musical monologues. The assisting artists will be Miss Hilda Thompson, Miss Madge Bailey, Miss Christine E. Booth, and Mr. Emil Sussmilch. Plan at Nicholson's, where tickets may be obtained.

MOSMAN MUSICAL SOCIETY.

Von Suppe's amusing comic opera, "Boccaccio" will be given by the Mosman Musical Society at Warringa Hall, Neutral Bay, this evening, for the last time. Their attractive performance has resulted in considerable houses throughout the run.

ORGAN RECITAL—DIE MEISTERSINGER.

This evening, at the Town Hall, Mr. Ernest Truman, City Organist, will give a "Grand Opera" organ recital of the first and second acts of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger." The performance should prove welcome to those not fortunate enough to witness the Quinlan Opera Company's rendering last Saturday.

MR. D. HENRY STEWART'S PUPILS.

On Wednesday, November 12, the pupils of Mr. D. Henry Stewart will give an invitation pianoforte recital at St. James's Hall. The assisting artists will include M'lle. Jessica, Miss Teresa Marshall, Mr. Sid. MacDonald, and Mr. Percy Wharton. The plan will open at Paling's on November 3.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

The star feature at the Crystal Palace Theatre on Monday will be a drama, "Brennan on the Moor," the tale of a man who robbed the rich to feed the poor. It is a romance of Ireland a hundred years ago, with Mr. Barney Gilmore, the Irish actor, as the chivalrous highwayman.

LYRIC THEATRE.

The Lyric Theatre will screen on Monday a drama, "Streets of New York," a pictorial form of Dion Boucicault's well-known play, as it could never be staged in an ordinary theatre. There are three acts, in which New York is shown, not as it is described, but as it actually is.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

A drama, "The Fight at Grizzly Gulch," a fierce fighting film, in which Indians and whites are alternately successful, will be the principal attraction at the Colonial Theatre on Monday. The trouble starts with the jealousy of a medicine man, whose patient, a chief's daughter, is snatched from death by a young white trader.

MR. STANLEY LEADLEY'S CONCERT.

Mr. Stanley Leadley, a young Sydney baritone, and pupil of Mr. Andrew Black, will give a concert in the Town Hall on Thursday, November 6. He will be assisted by Miss Vera Watt, Miss Ilma Gresty, Mr. Bryce Carter, Mr. Frank Hutchins, and the Y.M.C.A. Glee Club. The plan will open at Paling's on Wednesday, October 22.

MR. GEHDE'S CONTINENTAL.

Mr. Nicholas J. Gehde announces a continental at Rushcutter Bay Oval next Tuesday evening, when in addition to a specially selected picture programme, musical items will be rendered by leading artists. Particulars are advertised.

"THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII."

That remarkable work of picture presentation, "The Last Days of Pompeii," which is reported to have cost the enormous sum of £15,000 to produce, enters upon the second week of its season at the Lyceum to-day. The vivid portrayal of the life of the ancient city of voluptuousness and splendour given by the masterful hand of Lord Bulwer Lytton is transferred with great fidelity to the silent drama. In particular, the scenes depicting life at the Baths, the house of Glaucus, the Inn of the Gladiator, the Temple of Isis, the moonday excursion on the Campanian Sea, the dinner in the house of Diomed, the trial of Glaucus, the amphitheatre, the release of the lions, and the destruction of Pompeii may be described as among the finest ever presented in Australia.

WEST'S PICTURES.

At both the Glaciarium and Olympia, at to-day's matinee and evening entertainments, "East Lynne" will be given in Sydney for the last time. On Monday, at the Glaciarium only, in response to many requests, Victor Hugo's great play, "Les Miserables," will be screened. The management for this occasion have secured a new copy from Paris, so lovers of Victor Hugo's work will have little cause to complain. At the Olympia, the new photo-play, "A Fallen Idol," will be the chief attraction, this being an Anglo-Indian romance dealing with military and matrimonial matters. At both the Glaciarium and Olympia, De Groen's Vice-Regal orchestras will supply the incidental music.

EMPRESS THEATRE.

The Empress Theatre has for its principal attraction on Monday "In the Coils of the Python," an exciting tale in which the principal actor allowed, at great risk, a 24ft python to coil round him.

THE IMPERIAL THEATRE.

The star feature at the Imperial Theatre to-day is a drama, "The Leap of Despair," illustrating different phases of horsemanship. Other subjects include "The Penalty of Jealousy" and "The Detective's Trap." On Monday night the programme will be changed.

AMERICAN PICTURE PALACE.

The present programme at the American Picture Palace, Pitt-street, includes a sensational drama, "The Doctor's Triumph of Science over Conspiracy." The rest of the programme consists of comedies and dramas.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

There will be a matinee to-day at the Alhambra at 2.30, when a number of new artists will make their first appearance. The Driscoll Boys, who have just concluded a two years' engagement on the Brennan-Fuller circuit, and who are described as the premier patter team of Australia, are among the newcomers; also Doris Royal, a charming serio-comic vocalist. Other star turns will be provided by Amo and Almo (funniosities on a clothes line), Hart and Kenny (duettists), Max Martin (eccentric comedian), Mel. Brewer (baritone), Three Nevilles (acrobatic specialists), Beattie M'Donald (soubrette), and others.

LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" is to be performed on Tuesday afternoon next, under the direction of Miss Sara Collins, in aid of the Children's Hospital. The play will be preceded by a curtain-raiser in the form of a burlesque on "A Scene in the Children's Hospital."

Miss Adelaide B. Cox, elocutioniste and pupil of Mr. Walter Bentley, will give a concert in the St. James's Hall on Wednesday, October 29. She will be assisted by several leading artists. The box plan opens at Paling's on Monday morning next, October 20.

CHARGE AGAINST SOLICITOR.

INFORMATION DISMISSED.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

At the police court Vincent De Paul Gillen, a solicitor, of Adelaide, who was recently arrested in Sydney on a charge of false pretences, appeared to answer the information. The accusation against him, as disclosed by the representative of the Crown Law Office, was that Gillen had told W. Loftes, a country farmer, that he (Gillen) had prevented judgment being entered in a case in which Loftes was defendant, and in consequence of this statement Gillen obtained £10 from Loftes, to enable him to obtain the services of Ingleby, another solicitor. The evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that Gillen, on a date subsequent to judgment having been entered in the case, told Loftes that he had a good chance to win it. Prosecutor, in his evidence, admitted that he did not expect Gillen to take up a case for nothing, or to make journeys to the country, as Gillen had done, for nothing. Ingleby gave evidence for the defence, and immediately afterwards the presiding magistrate said his testimony had thrown a different complexion on the case, and he dismissed the information.

LADIES' KENNEL CLUB.

A RECORD SHOW.

The Ladies' Kennel Club, now in its sixth year, has met with unqualified success. This is owing to good management, and also to the support given to the club's shows by the various specialist clubs.

The show which opened yesterday was held in the top floor of the new municipal market, Quay-street. This splendidly-lighted and commodious building is about a couple of hundred yards from George-street, opposite the central railway station.

About 730 entries were received. These embraced nearly every known canine breed. The judges were:—Dr. Stopford, spaniels; Mr. R. Mason, Yorkshire and Sydney silky terriers; Mr. R. Sams, Australian terriers; Mr. J. Crichton, Scottish and Skye terriers; Mr. E. Driver, kelpies and cattle dogs; Mr. H. Ward, collies and pomeranians; Major Gribben, greyhounds; Mr. H. A. Richardson, pointers, setters, retrievers, deerhounds, and borzois; Mr. J. Maude, bulldogs, fox and Irish terriers, and all other breeds.

Bulldogs were representative of most of the leading kennels; 70 entries were made. Chief honours went to Rich and Wilkins's imported dog, Centurion, who gained the challenge certificate for the best dog, and who beat Messrs. Clark and Pattrick's Bankside Gem (imp.), the challenge bitch, for the special prize for the best of either sex. R. Comley's dog, Lord Chagy, won in novice, Australian-bred, and limit classes, and was runner-up to Centurion in the open class. Winners in the bitch classes were Clark and Pattrick's Lodden Duchess, A. Brasch's Lady Lillian, R. Comley's Cordelia Mona, Anderson's St. Keverne Molly.

Foxterriers with 92 entries topped the lists. J. Campbell Wood's showy little Dukedom's Model (imp.) won the limit, open and challenge certificate for dogs. Browne and Carlsen's scored in novices and puppies with Rostyl Renown. H. V. King's Taraban won the Australian-bred. R. Comley had a great run with his young bitch Avarna Confidence, who won the novice, puppy, Australian-bred, limit, and was only defeated for the challenge by her kennel mate, Hatterdon Rebound. Mr. Comley's recent importation, Wirehairs, brought out a nice collection. H. Bartlett won the open classes with Wyche King (imp.) and Wheatsheaf Duchess (imp.). He also scored in two other classes with Oxford Collar, and Oxford Saddle. R. Comley won the brace and Campbell Wood the team prize.

There was a good muster of Irish terriers. J. Melbourne had a field day with Barney Redford in novice, Australian-bred, limit and open, in the last class beating Flawn Fire and Bowral Barney. Allen Doone's Dubh-Aireagal won the puppy class. Father Costelloe's famous Newcastle bitch gained the challenge, and was followed by another good one—J. B. Molloy's ch Erina. Father Costelloe also won in bitch puppies with Patricia. F. Stubbe's Kathleen was the best Australian bred.

Pomeranians were one of the best collections seen at a Sydney show. The winners were Mrs. Skellett's Haselbush Tiny Tim, Mrs. Walter Kleemo's Hilver Royal, Miss Elsie May's Pompey, C. J. Burton's Dashing Dinah (challenge), Miss Blanche Lee's Laurel Brownie (challenge).

Pugs made attractive classes, and a number of good ones were benched. In fawns Mrs. T. Brooke won novice and puppy dogs with Corrard Manikum; T. M. Woolston, limit, with General Buller; A. E. Owen, open and challenge, with ch General Grand. Mrs. J. Vignes's Lady Lind scored in novice bitches, Miss Parkinson's Lass (puppy), and Mrs. R. Tovey, limit, open and challenge, with Princess Marie of Drayton. Black pugs were a first-rate lot. Mrs. W. Shepherd won both challenges with her recently-imported pair, Master Speedwell and Cordna Queen. Miss Lucas won with Satan in novice dogs. Mrs. T. Brookes Corrard Black Pearl was the best dog or bitch puppy, and her Corrard Lubra was second in the open class.

Collies were not so numerous as usual. H. F. Carling's Haldon Cecil scored in Australian-bred limit, open and challenge. Novice dog went to G. H. Jackson's Prince, puppy to J. S. Clarke's Bookham Helton, limit and open bitch to Cyril Carling's Haldon Alice, novice and puppy bitch to Denver Mischief.

Greyhound dogs were headed by Mrs. Greg Keighery's well-known champion Grand Sham, who was followed by A. J. Usher's King of the State. Mrs. W. Gorman was successful with the Sapling, Taipo; and A. R. Cowell won puppy dog with Bathdrum's Last, and novice bitch with Camille.

In foxhounds the challenge winners were Burns Brothers' Barry and Bracelet. Beagles were headed by J. Smith's Dexter and Norman Dunlop's Queen of Scots. J. A. Dickson won in deerhounds with Scotch Queen, Moncrieffe Fly, and Colin Christie (Queensland) with Tranent Commander. The Borzois winners were Miss Allan's Nicholas and John Norton's Jeane. S. T. Fitzpatrick won in flat-coated retrievers.

Cattle dogs made capital classes. The challenge certificates went to H. and S. Tuck's Sneaker and H. Tingle's Eva. Kelpies were few. G. Fox's Chidley won the challenge for dogs, and A. Fleming's Ina that for the other sex.

In Australian terriers A. F. W. Maier's Lynwood Lucinda was the best, and won outright the challenge cup presented by Miss Rawson.

The show will close to-night. During the day several other classes will be judged.

AMAZING SHORTHAND TRIUMPH OF STUDENTS
OF STOTT AND UNDERWOOD'S BUSINESS COLLEGE,
70 PITT-STREET.

At the Theory Examination of the INCORPORATED PHONOGRAPHIC SOCIETY OF AUSTRALIA, held on September 27 last, the following overwhelming success of

STOTT and UNDERWOOD'S STUDENTS

(coached by A. G. Rankin, Esq.), are announced:—

THEORY SECTION.

FIRST PLACE: K. Robbie.
SECOND PLACE: E. Johns.
THIRD PLACE: E. Mollett.
FOURTH PLACE: D. Rowland.

Other Distinctions:

E. McCooey, H. McLeod, B. Bloomer, E. Harpham.
Passes: K. Dwyer, A. White, M. Comerford.

NOTE.—In this section we obtained eight distinctions and passes out of a total of seventeen allotted; so that Stott and Underwood's Students obtained half as many distinction passes (including FIRST FOUR PLACES), as all the other Business Colleges combined.

ELEMENTARY SECTION.

PASSES WITH DISTINCTION:—E. Green, A. Ward, M. Cussen, O. Cantion, V. Horton, D. Sparrow, H. Boyle, F. Rose, I. Watt, L. Henderson.

PASSES:—E. Hand, J. Peterson, D. Watt, E. Kennedy, H. Perrin, B. Macqueen, I. Berquist.

In this Section STOTT and UNDERWOOD'S Students obtained TEN DISTINCTIVE PASSES and seven passes.

The achievement of the students of STOTT and UNDERWOOD'S BUSINESS COLLEGE clearly demonstrates that the quality of the Shorthand Instruction at

STOTT and UNDERWOOD'S BUSINESS

A BIG SUCCESS
IN THE COMMONWEALTH
TYPISTS' EXAMINATION.

Students actually trained and presented by the M.B.C. at the New South Wales section of the Commonwealth Typists' Exam. were placed

THIRD,
FIFTH,

in order of merit. Miss Vera Hall, who headed the N.S. Wales list in total marks, also came FIRST for the whole Commonwealth.

Out of a total of 22 passes for N.S. Wales the M.B.C. gained NINE, the successful students being as follows:

Miss Vera Hall,
Miss Gwendoline Deveenish Mears,
Miss Constance Todd,
Miss Nellie Olden,
Miss Margaret Whitfield,
Miss Maude Robinson,
Miss Myrtle Lindsay,
Miss Rainee Rockwell,
Miss Margaret Knox.

Results gained in other States can have no bearing on local conditions. The N.S. Wales student desirous of obtaining the most efficient coaching will naturally choose the "college that graduates successes." Since 1898 M.B.C. students have been placed FIRST on eight occasions in the Government Shorthand Typists' Exams—FIVE times in succession. Such results—so consistently successful—prove the thoroughness of the instruction, and the care that is taken to make every student really efficient.

IS THE GIRL IN YOUR FACE?

There's a white, creamy substance known as Thermol, which, when massaged into the skin at night for a week or so causes the outer freckled, brown, tanned, rough, coarse weather-beaten skin to flake away in tiny flakes that you can't see or feel, leaving the sweetest, clearest, freshest complexion you ever saw. Thermol makes the worst skin beautiful. For pimples, blackheads, and open pores your doctor will tell you to use pure Lethol. Thermol is 2/9 (post free 3/1); Lethol is 2/ (post free 2/6), from Durno, Ltd., Chemists, Pitt-street, Sydney; and Firkin and Dalby, Chemists, Newcastle.

A SIMPLE RECIPE FOR BLACKHEADS.

The best way to keep the complexion free from Blackheads, Pimples, and Blemishes is to keep the pores clean. Here is a simple means of keeping the skin clear:—Get some purified Wax from the chemist or draper, and apply at night, then remove it by means of a soft cloth—notice how it removes the dirt. Apply a little more, and wash off in the morning. Then lap a little cold water 10 times on the face with the hands, allowing it to get thoroughly round the closed eyes. The treatment undoubtedly accounts for many of the clear complexions so much admired by those who do not yet know the secret. See that you get the right kind; it will not injure the most delicate complexion.

HER HAIR.

A woman usually takes her hair as a matter of course, as long as it remains thick and lustrous. Let it grow poor and scanty, however, and she begins to know the value of what she has lost.

Then she realises that if she is to remain attractive she must get back her hair beauty. She must cure the scalp disease that has robbed the hair of its glory.

There is only one way. She must undergo the treatment of a specialist. There is no other course—patent preparations can do no permanent good.

Let me treat you. I am a HAIR SPECIALIST, and can cure scalp disease, removing dandruff and restoring the original beauty and luxuriance to the hair.

If you write to me, describing your hair troubles, I shall answer personally, giving you my advice in the matter, charging no fee for consultation. Enclose 2d stamps for postage and a fresh combing for microscopical examination. If you write about your hair during October, mentioning the "Herald," I will present you with a jar of my Carrington Face Cream. Address:

MISS CARRINGTON,

HAIR SPECIALIST,

BEAUTY'S WORRIES.

COMPLEXIONS are like people: they vary. We find complexions that are good, others that are troublesome, still others that are downright abominable, and at this particular time of the year the complexion problem gains a special importance.

It is the time of the year when sensitive skins chap, pretty eyes inflame, and ruby lips crack.

The truth is that the majority of women but rarely do for their complexions what is sensible. [illegible] reasonable and natural desire of attractive appearance there is the infallible means of realising it, and close at the heels of the questions of what your particular wish is, and how you are going to get it comes the answer: By the help of Mme. Rubinstein. You cannot keep the skin delightfully humid, [illegible] smooth, and quite free from chaps and [illegible] unless you call Mme. Rubinstein's Valaze and Novena Sun-proof and Wind-proof Creme to your aid. The skin treated by Valaze can bear the brunt of all climatic conditions, of all moods of weather, of heat and of cold, of atmospheres damp and dry.

The price of Valaze is 3/6 and 6/6 a jar, postage 6d. Novena Sun-proof and Wind-proof Creme 3/ and 7/6, postage 4d.

Valaze Lip Lustre protects the lips from the wind and cold, prevents cracks, chaps, and sores, and imparts to lips that are dull and blanched the full and rich lip colour. Price 2/ and 3/.

Novena Cerate, an emollient skin cleanser without the use of soap and water. When the skin is delicate and sensitive, or intolerant of soap and water, it should be cleansed with Novena Cerate. It soothes, cleanses, softens, whitens, and preserves the skin, and is a source of delightful skin comfort. Price 3/.

Valaze Skin Tonic tones and braces the skin, prevents wrinkles, and in every way makes for healthfulness. It is antiseptic, cleansing, and soothing, a tonic in the truest sense of the word. Price 3/6, postage 6d.

Write for Mme. Rubinstein's Book, "Beauty in the Making," which will be sent to any address on receipt of 2d for postage. Valaze preparations obtainable from all Chemists, or direct from Helena Rubinstein Propy., Ltd., Dept. D., 158 Pitt-street, Sydney; or 274 Collins-street, Melbourne.

READ THE REASON WHY YOU CANNOT SUCCEED TO REMOVE YOUR

by any chemical application, which will penetrate deeply to destroy the hair papilla, and must of necessity destroy the skin as well. But, if this be not destroyed,

THE HAIR IS BOUND TO GROW AGAIN.

THE WRONG METHODS

employed for removing Superfluous Hairs have a double effect—THEY STIMULATE the growth of the offending hair, make it increase in size and depth of root, and they irritate the skin.

THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY PERMANENT, and that way I will demonstrate to you if you will call upon me when in town, and you can have, a few hairs removed to convince yourself. Then wait a few weeks to see there is not any re-growth.

FREE OF CHARGE,

MOLES CONTAINING HAIRS can be removed in one treatment if desired without pain.

FACE MASSAGE,

if properly applied, improves the skin greatly by increasing the sluggish circulation, emptying out the [illegible] pores of harmful [illegible], gives tone to the skin [illegible], through the agency of proper exercise, so commonly neglected, and nearly [illegible] in the lazy, tired, and unused, or wrongly used, muscles of the face.

ONE TREATMENT WILL CONVINCE.
